GREECE ENTERS WAR ON SIDE OF ALLIES

PRESIDENT TAKES STEPS TO AVOID BEER PROHIBITION

Fearing Unrest Among Workers and Desiring to Have Food Bill Enacted Quickly He Calls Senators Into Conference.

Said to Be Willing to Accept a Dry Provision if It Permits Him to Allow Making of Beer and Wine.

Holds Drastic Measures Are Not Necessary Now—Lodge in Senate Assails Prohibition Proposals.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—President Wilson stepped into the prohibition fight over the food bill today, partly to save the measure from a row between the contending factions and partly to get a law he believes the country will approve.

The President told Senate leaders he agreed with the proposal to stop manufacture of foodstuffs into whisky and gin, but did not believe the brewing of beer and manufacture of light wines should be stopped now.

A provision to prohibit distilling and to empower the President to stop brewing and wine making when he considers it necessary, he told Senate leaders today, he believed would satisfy prohibitionists and also the country. An amendment to that effect will be introduced later with prospects of adoption.

Senator Sheppard, a leading prohibitionist, who prompted the committee's proposal to stop manufacture of both distilled spirits and beer, said that if the President desired to have authority to govern brewing and wine making, he favored it and believed Congress would agree.

Wants Prompt Action.

During the morning the President conferred with Senator Martin, majority leader, and Senator Gerry of Rhode Island.

President Wilson expressed to Senator Martin his hope for prompt action upon the bill and anxiety over the prospects of delay from the prohibition issue. The President, it was said, as a compromise on prohibition, suggested the plan to give him authority and responsibility to decide whether beer and wine making shall continue.

"I told the President I was against such procedure," said Senator Martin. "I said Congress itself has the responsibility and should act—not pass it along to the President."

Senator Phelan, however, positively stated that the President, in favoring legislation giving him authority to either continue or stop manufacture of malt and vinous beverages, is opposed to immediate cessation.

An amendment to meet the President's wishes, Senator Phelan said, would be offered, probably next week.

"The President feels that such action ought to satisfy the prohibitionists, as well as all others, if he is given authority and full responsibility, if he deems it necessary in any emergency to prohibit further manufacture of beer and wines," said Senator Phelan, "but he does not believe it is necessary to immediately cut off the use of beer and other beverages with little alcohol.

The President realizes that since prohibition has been made an issue in Congress it is almost impossible to hope for the elimination of some sort of prohibitory provision from the food bill.

Postmaster-General Burleson, who often represents the President in conferring with Congressmen, went to the Capitol today and urged several Senate leaders to modify the bill to permit manufacture of beer and wines. The Postmaster-General was said to have told Senators the President does not desire to disturb or divide public sentiment during the war by cutting off consumption of light alcoholic beverages in general use and that such action is unnecessary, as it would conserve comparatively small supplies of foodstuffs.

President Willing to Bar Whisky.

The provision to stop manufacture of distilled spirits, Mr. Burleson told Senators, was not objectionable to the President.

Some of the Senate leaders later expressed increased confidence that the prohibition sections would be modified so as to permit beer and wine manufacture to continue and that prohibition of distilled spirits would be adopted.

After returning to the Capitol from the White House, Senator Gerry, who favors brewing and wine making and stopping distilling, said he believed the President would "exercise sound judgment" on the whole prohibition issue.

Meantime, on the floor of the Senate, efforts to arrange for a vote on the bill at 5 p. m. tomorrow were blocked by

LLOYD GEORGE TELLS SOME OF ALLIED PEACE DEMANDS; WOULD FREE MESOPOTAMIA

Declares Turks Must Be Driven Out and German Colonies Given Voice in Deciding on Their Future Rulers.

GLASGOW, June 29.—In discussing the question of peace today, Premier Lloyd George said that, if the war should be concluded a single hour before the allied Powers reached the end they set out to attain at the beginning of the war, it would be the greatest disaster that ever befell mankind.

"In my judgment," said the Premier, "this war will come to an end when the allied Powers have reached the end they set out to attain when they accepted the challenge thrown down by Germany to civilization. Then this war ought to come to an end, but if it comes to an end a single hour before it will be the greatest disaster that ever befell mankind.

"I hear people say that Germany is ready to give us a satisfactory peace. No doubt you can have peace now at a certain price, for no doubt Germany wants peace, but it is a peace which would give her economic and other control over the countries which she has invaded."

Russia to Regain Strength.

"Russia will regain her strength with a bound, and become mightier and more formidable than ever," Lloyd George continued. "Although these distractions had the effect of postponing complete victory, they made victory more sure than ever, more complete than ever, and, what is more important, they made surer than ever the quality of victory."

There were many hearts filled with gloomy anxiety, contemplating the prospect of a peace conference to settle the future of democracy with representatives present from the most reactionary autocracy in the world, the Premier added. But now Russia is unshackled and free, and her representatives at the peace conference would be representative of a free people fighting for freedom and arranging a future democracy on the lines of freedom.

"No doubt we can have peace now at a price," the Premier said. "Germany wants peace—even Prussia ardently desires it. They said give us some indemnity for the wrongs we have done, just a little territory here and a little there, and just a few privileges in other directions, and we will clear out. We are told that if we are prepared to make peace now Germany will restore the independence of Belgium. But who has said so?

No Authority for Statement.

"No German statesman has ever said he would restore the independence of Belgium. The German Chancellor came very near to it, but all the junkers fell on him and he received a sound box on the ears from the mailed fist.

"The only terms on which Germany has suggested restoring Belgium are not those of independence, but of vassalage. Then came the doctrine of the status quo and no annexation and no indemnities. No German statesman has accepted even that.

"But what did indemnity mean? Indemnity is an essential part of the mechanism of civilization in every land and clime. Otherwise, what guarantee have we against a repetition? Then, it is said, that is not what you are after. You are after our colonies and probably Palestine and Mesopotamia. If we had entered into this war purely for the German colonies we would not have raised an army or 3,000,000 or 4,000,000. We could have got them without adding a single battalion to the army.

"Our greatest army is in France. We are there to recover for the people who have been driven out, their patrimony, the land which belonged to them. As to Mesopotamia, it is not and never has been Turkish. You have only to read the terrible reports to see what a wilderness the Turks have made of the Garden of Eden. What is to happen to Mesopotamia must be left to the peace conference and there is one thing that will never happen to it. It will never be restored to the blasting tyranny of the Turks.

Let the Colonies Decide.

"The same observation applies to Armenia. As to the German colonies, that again is a matter which must be settled by the great international peace conference. When we come to settle who must be the future trustees of those uncivilized lands we must take into account the sentiments of the peoples themselves and whether they are anxious to secure the return of their former masters or whether they would rather trust their destinies to other and juster and gentler hands. The wishes, desires and interests of the people themselves of all those countries must be the dominant factor in settling their future Government.

"Peace must be framed on so equitable a basis that the nations would not wish to disturb it. It must be guaranteed by destruction of Prussian military power so that the confidence of the German people shall be put in the equity of their cause and not in the might of their armies. A better guarantee than either would be democratization of the German Government.

"No one wishes to dictate to the German people the form of Government under which they should choose to live. But it is right we should say that we will enter into negotiations with a free Government of Germany with a different attitude of mind and a different temper and different spirit and with less suspicion and more confidence than we should with a Government with whom we feel today to be dominated by the aggressive and arrogant spirit of Prussian militarism.

"All the allied Governments will, in my judgment, be acting wisely if they declare the distinction in their general attitude toward the discussion of peace terms.

BARRACKS TROOPS PARADE DOWNTOWN AND 24 MEN JOIN

Several Halts Made to Give Civilians Opportunity to Urge Enlistments.

DRIVE ENDS TOMORROW

State Short of Regular Army Quota It Was Expected to Get This Week.

As a result of the first recruiting parade of its kind in the history of St. Louis, 24 men made application for enlistment in the regular army after a picked detachment of 50 regulars, headed by the Jefferson Barracks band, had marched through the downtown streets this morning.

A second parade with the same personnel and over the same route started at 2 p. m. Both recruiting drives began at the main recruiting office at Third and Olive streets, as the final effort in bringing 568 additional Missourians into the army during "Regular Army Week," and thus completing Missouri's quota of 6586 men.

Citizens Plead for Enlistments.

Citizens made speeches at various points and whenever there was a halt the soldiers broke ranks and mingled with the crowd, urging men to join the army. The route of both parades was as follows:

North on Third street to Washington avenue, west to Broadway, south to Chestnut street, west to Twelfth street, south to the city hall, at Twelfth and Market streets, west on Chestnut street to Nineteenth street, north to Locust street, east to Third street and south to the starting point.

The soldiers under command of Lieut. Charles M. Everitt aroused much enthusiasm as they marched through the streets in the morning parade. Before the Court House was reached six or seven civilians had fallen in line with the regulars and indicated that they wanted to join the army.

Speeches urging enlistment were made at the Market street entrance to the Court House, where the first stop was made. The speakers were Brigadier-General E. J. Spencer of the Missouri National Guard and Attorney James C. Jones. Gen. Spencer said much effort had been devoted to recruiting the First and Fifth Missouri militia regiments but that at this time all energies should be directed to filling the regular army.

Jones called forth applause when he pleaded for preparedness and asked, "What are we going to do if that d—d Kaiser comes over here?"

Several women under the leadership of Mrs. J. Dwight Dana, of 4483 Laclede avenue, planned to meet the second parade at the City Hall and work among the crowd in an effort to aid in the recruiting effort.

At the City Hall speeches were made by Acting Mayor Aloe and Charles M. Hay, an attorney. The final address of the forenoon was made at Nineteenth and Chestnut streets by the Rev. E. J. Cleveland.

With Missouri still several hundred short of the quota of recruits which it was expected to bring to the colors in response to President Wilson's proclamation, the St. Louis recruiting office is making every effort to induce men to enlist.

Must Be Single Men.

A week ago the President sent out what in effect was a call for volunteers for the regular army. He asked that 70,000 men between the ages of 18 and 40 be enrolled, so that the regular army would be at full war strength of 300,000. The men must be in good physical condition, unmarried, without dependents and not employed in any occupation which is vital to the prosecution of the war.

Maj. George W. Goode, in charge of the recruiting office here, pointed out that a man who enlists today will be "truly on his way to France" when he is accepted for service, and undoubtedly will be there by autumn, if not before.

Those who desired to enlist were asked to "fall in" and follow the marching soldiers, while the band led the way. They were taken direct to the recruiting office in the old Postoffice Building.

No Delay in Acceptance.

For those who took advantage of this opportunity it was possible to be examined, accepted, sent to Jefferson Barracks and start from there on the way to some mobilization point within 24 hours. There will be no delay in sending these new recruits to the front as rapidly as possible.

It is certain that soldiers of the regular army will be the first to see service abroad. The first units, which will serve under Gen. Pershing's command, are already in France and others will follow quickly.

Major Goode has written to all the pastors in the city asking that they make patriotic addresses Sunday, and explain the advantages in the regular army.

"Come on Over!"

President's Plea for 70,000 Volunteers to Regular Army

PROCLAMATION:

"I hereby designate the period of June 23 to June 30 next as recruiting week for the regular army and call upon unmarried men between the ages of 18 and 40 years who have no dependents and who are not engaged in pursuits vitally necessary to the prosecution of the war to present themselves for enlistment during the weeks herein designated to the number of 70,000.

—WOODROW WILSON."

MISSOURI'S quota of the 183,000 needed April 1 was 6586. Up to last night 6018 men had enlisted, and 568 more men are needed to discharge the State's duty under the President's proclamation.

Maj. George W. Goode, in charge of recruiting here, announces that men who join the regular army now will be in Gen. Pershing's army in France in the autumn.

The term of service is for the war and not for seven years, as has been erroneously stated.

Men who have registered for the draft are eligible, and they are appealed to as strongly as those over the draft age who can get into the country's fighting forces only by volunteering.

The following positions for advancement are now open for privates in the regular army:

7039 Corporals at $36 per month.
6278 Sergeants at $38 per month.
102 Sergeants at $44 per month.
153 Sergeants at $48 per month.
969 Sergeants at $51 per month.
54 Sergeants at $71 per month.
17 Sergeants at $81 per month.

The pay of enlisted men is $30 a month.

All enlisted men not over 30 years of age, who have served a year with the colors, may qualify for a second lieutenancy.

The following recruiting stations are open:

Main station, Old Custom House, Third and Olive.
Third and Washington (Eads Bridge approach).
Broadway and Market (Courthouse grounds).
Sixth and Market.
Eighth and Market.
Fourteenth and Market.
Nineteenth and Market.

$13,000 SHORTAGE ON LEWIS COUNTY BOOKS

JEFFERSON CITY, June 29.—An examination of the records of Lewis County, filed with the County Court at Monticello today by examiners from Auditor Hackmann's office, show that James W. Barnes, former Circuit Clerk, owes the county $5520, and that his bond is missing and not recorded.

Among county officers and former county officers who are found to have collected and kept more money than they were legally entitled to retain is Noah W. Simpson, a member of the Public Service Commission, who as Prosecuting Attorney received $700 a year in salary for four years, instead of the $600 which the report finds he should have been paid.

Barnes' bond should be on file in the office of the Secretary of State. It is not here. It should be recorded in the office of the Circuit Clerk and Recorder of Lewis County, which is the office Barnes held. It is not recorded there.

The examiners found that county officers and former officers owe the county approximately $12,000.

E. C. Hilbert, who succeeded Simpson as Prosecuting Attorney, must pay back $620; J. M. Smoot, former County Clerk, $6747.13; Earl Samuel, County Clerk, $438.23; N. W. Castor, former Collector, $14.02.

Burrell M. Bradshaw, County Collector, is found to have overpaid the county $517.61, which he will recover.

The accountants also found that $7230.07 which the County Treasurer carried on his books as "outstanding" had actually been paid. They also found warrants to the amount of $547.68 which have been outstanding for more than 10 years and are barred by the statute of limitations.

An error of nearly $11,000 is found in the last quarterly statement of the County Treasurer, who reported that he had on hand funds to the amount of $13,324, when he really should have been charged with $24,315.11.

The $800 which the auditors say Simpson must repay to the County Auditor Hackmann explains as follows:

"The salary of the Prosecuting Attorney of certain counties is based on the vote at the preceding presidential election. In Lewis County they have been basing their salary for years on an old election, at which more votes were cast than at any election since."

British Attack on Mile Front Near Oppy and Gain Objectives—Germans Active Near Verdun.

ATHENS, June 29.—The Greek Government has broken diplomatic relations with Germany, Austria-Hungary, Bulgaria and Turkey.

The Greek Government considers that a state of war exists since its advent to power yesterday.

This development at Athens follows the abdication of King Constantine, whose wife is the sister of the German Emperor, and the appointment by King Alexander of Elipitherios Venizelos, the noted Greek statesman, as Premier. Venizelos long has held that it was necessary for Greece to join the entente.

The Greek army at peace strength is 60,000. In addition there are reserves of 390,000 and an unorganized available force of 514,000. In the Greek navy are three modern battleships, one cruiser, three gunboats, three monitors, 12 destroyers, six torpedo boats and two submarines.

BRAZIL REVOKES HER NEUTRALITY

Navy of Republic Expected to Aid That of U. S. in Patrol of South Atlantic.

RIO JANEIRO, June 29.—Brazil has revoked her decree of neutrality in the war between the entente allies and Germany.

The Brazilian Government, by act of Congress late in May, authorized the revocation of Brazil's neutrality in the war between Germany and the United States. In notifying the Brazilian legations of the sanction of the revocation, Nilo Pecanha, the Foreign Minister, in a note said Brazil up to that time had refrained from taking sides in the European conflict, but that the republic could not remain indifferent from the moment the United States found itself involved in a struggle for the rights of the people and when Germany meted out indiscriminately the most brutal treatment.

Co-operation in Patrol Service by Latin Republic's Navy Expected.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—The action of Brazil in revoking its decree of neutrality does not necessarily mean that the great Latin-American republic will become an active participant in the war. It is probable, however, that the Brazilian navy will co-operate with that of the United States in protecting the coasts and shipping of South America. While not classed as a naval power, Brazil has a number of light craft capable of rendering valuable aid in coast patrol work and as submarine hunters.

While it is doubted here that Brazil will go to the extent of sending an army to Europe, in course of time that nation could muster a very considerable fighting force. The peace strength of the Brazilian army is 33,000 men and there are 527,000 reserves, giving a total war strength of 560,000. The potential, unorganized military strength of the country is listed at 4,301,643 men.

The expectation here is that Brazil's action will have a powerful influence on other Latin-American countries, notably Argentina, her strong neighbor.

whole objective, says the official report from British headquarters in France. The British captured German forward positions on a 2000-yard front south and west of Oppy in the Arras sector. The official statement says the British captured prisoners and machine guns. They also continue to gain ground south of the Souchez River and have entered the town of Avion, about two miles south of Lens.

The statement follows:

"Early last night we attacked and captured the enemy's forward position on a front of about 2000 yards south and west of Oppy. The whole of our objectives was gained and a number of prisoners and machine guns were taken by us.

"Our troops continue to gain ground on a wide front south of the Souchez River and have entered Avion. A further number of prisoners and six machine guns have been captured in this area.

"A hostile raiding party was repulsed during the night north of Cherisy. We successfully raided the enemy's trenches southeast of Loos."

Last night's official report said:

"Considerable progress in the course of which we have captured a number of prisoners has been made by us during the day south of the Souchez River. Our line in this area again has been advanced on a front of nearly two miles. Our troops have reached the outskirts of Avion.

"Activity in the air continued yesterday. One enemy airplane was brought down in the air fighting; two others were driven down out of control. In addition, two hostile machines were shot down and two others were driven down by ground fire. Four of our airplanes are missing."

Germans Make Heavy Attacks Near Verdun With Slight Gains.

PARIS, June 29.—Picked German troops made a heavy attack last night on the Verdun front near Hill 304 and Avocourt wood, after especially severe shelling. Today's official statement says the attack was disorganized by the sharp reply of the French artillery and that the Germans obtained a footing at only a few points in the first line. This morning the Germans made another violent effort east of Hill 304. It failed completely.

The Germans were active on the Aisne front also. All their attacks were repulsed.

The statement says:

"The enemy showed very great activity on the Aisne front during the night. Violent bombardments were followed by severe attacks in the region of Cerny, southeast of Corbeny and northwest of Rheims. All his efforts were broken up by our fire or nullified by counter-attacks and our positions maintained.

"The fighting was particularly heavy in the region of Cerny, where the enemy made several attacks at two points on our front. Northeast of the village of Cerny enemy detachments succeeded in gaining a footing in our first line. They were driven out by an energetic counter-attack by our troops leaving numerous bodies on the ground. We took prisoners.

"On the left bank of the Meuse (Verdun front), the artillery fighting after noon yesterday became extremely intense in the region of Avocourt wood and Hill 304. A violent bombardment with guns of large caliber was directed against our positions and was followed at 6:30 o'clock in the evening by a powerful attack delivered by special German assaulting troops on a front of two kilometers (a mile and a quarter) west of Hill 304. Our effectively directed fire disorganized the attack, which enabled the Germans to gain a footing at some points in our first line. A new attack at 3:45 o'clock this morning on our positions west of Hill 304 was repulsed completely."

Canadians Fight Amid Labyrinth of Ruined Houses in Avion.

CANADIAN HEADQUARTERS IN France, June 28.—Fighting their way forward amid a labyrinth of ruined houses over which the smoke of battle hung densely, the Canadians at sundown tonight were more than half-way through Avion. It was the second attack in 24 hours and was made in conjunction with the British troops, all of whom reached their objectives.

On the north the hold on Reservoir Hill was made absolute by the gallant advance of the British soldiers, who went forward unchecked despite heavy enemy shelling.

The German trenches on the eastern side were occupied within half an hour after the attack began. Throughout the day there had been incessant artillery activity. The Germans kept Coulotte and the Lens-Arras road under shrapnel fire throughout the afternoon, evidently to make difficult the assemblage of troops for a further advance into Avion.

Their former front line on the outskirts of Avion was also hammered with high explosives and considerably damaged. The Canadian guns did much counter-battery work to the east of Lens, where most of the enemy's guns now are.

There was comparative calm for a short time before 7 o'clock. When the appointed time came on a front of many miles from the Scarpe to a point well to the north of the Souchez River, hundreds of guns opened in a terrific cannonade. Soon Reservoir Hill, Lens itself, Avion and the region to the south, were hidden behind almost impenetrable veil of smoke from bursting shells. Amid this infantry, who had remained inactive throughout the day, rushed forward.

"Anti-Germanophile League" Discussed in Argentine Senate.

BUENOS AIRES, June 29.—The Senate met yesterday in secret session to hear explanations by Senor Pueyrredon, Minister of Foreign Affairs, in response to an interpellation on the subject of international questions. Among other things Minister Pueyrredon was asked to define the attitude of the Government in the case of numerous Spaniards favorable to the allied cause who have organized what they term the "anti-Germanophile League." The Senate declared it was well satisfied with all the explanations given.

British Attack Make in Blinding Rainstorm.

By Associated Press.

BRITISH HEADQUARTERS, in France, June 29.—The fighting is more intense in the vicinity of Lens.

The British made a brilliant attack last night, during a blinding rain, that accompanied a thunderstorm, on a number of the southwesterly suburbs of the great mining city, including the one known as Avion.

All the first objectives of the attack were gained and the indications are that the British are still pushing forward today.

Nearly 200 prisoners already have been collected in the cages and more captives are reported on the way back from the fighting front. A number of machine guns also are reported taken.

The fighting took place in and out among bits of ruined buildings, collieries, pit derricks and the usual litter and paraphernalia of a mining settlement, only in this case the tangle had been made greater by the shell fire of many months.

The bombardment which preceded the attack was carried out on a fairly wide front and was of only slightly less intensity than that which has preceded some of the greater actions on the British front.

Germans Claim Capture of French Positions on Mile Front.

BERLIN, via London, June 29.—German forces yesterday captured French positions on both sides of the Malancourt-Esnes road, on the west bank of the Meuse, in the Verdun sector, over a width of 2000 yards and a depth of 500 yards, says the official statement issued today by the general staff. Today the Germans stormed a 300-yard wide French position in Avocourt Wood. More than 550 prisoners were taken at both points.

The statement says the Germans stormed and held French positions on a front of 1000 meters to the east of Cerny, on the Aisne front, taking 150 prisoners. A British attack near Avion in the vicinity of Lens is reported to have failed. The British occupied the foremost German lines between Oppy and the Gavrelle windmill.

Relations Broken on Ground War Is Carried on in Greek Territory.

PARIS, June 29.—Telegraphing from Athens under today's date the correspondent of Le Temps says:

"The Greek Government has directed its Minister to Switzerland, G. Garadja, to communicate to the Greek legations at Berlin, Vienna, Sofia and Constantinople instructing the Ministers to break diplomatic relations between the Greek kingdom and the Governments of Germany, Austria-Hungary, Bulgaria and Turkey. The Greek Ministers at these capitals are instructed to leave their posts with their staffs and to place their archives with The Netherlands legations.

"The rupture is based on the incompatibility of maintaining diplomatic relations with Governments that are carrying on war in Greek territory."

DISCOVERY OF GANGRENE GAS BACILLUS ANTITOXIN CLAIMED

NEW YORK, June 29.—Dr. Carroll G. Bull of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research has made a discovery which, if the war lasts a year or several years longer, probably will save the lives of thousands of soldiers and make unnecessary the amputation of arms and legs of thousands of others.

Many soldiers in France lost their legs when their wounds were infected by the gangrene gas bacillus. When the infection once entered the wound amputation was the only way of preventing its spread to the rest of the body.

Dr. Bull has found the infection is due to a toxin acting similarly to the tetanus or lockjaw toxin and has discovered the antitoxin which neutralizes its effect.

PRESIDENT TAKES STEPS TO PREVENT BEER PROHIBITION objections of Senators Borah and Lodge.

"I have no disposition to crowd the matter," said Senator Chamberlain, in charge of the bill, "but I wanted to know how the Senate felt about it."

Senator Hardwick's motion to recommit the bill to the Agriculture Committee, on the ground that it is unconstitutional, then was lost, Senator Reed and the Georgia Senator alone supporting it.

Reading of the bill for amendments was then begun.

An amendment introduced by Senator Lewis of Illinois would limit alcoholic contents of intoxicating beverages to 10 per cent after Sept. 1.

Senator Lodge opened the prohibition contest yesterday with a speech in favor of continuing manufacture of beer and wine. The bill as it now stands would prohibit the manufacture of all intoxicating beverages, but empower the President to exempt wines.

Senators Johnson of California and Kellogg of Minnesota delivered prepared speeches on the general features of the bill promising it their support as a war measure.

Senate sentiment is said generally to favor stopping manufacture of distilled spirits, so the debate will center upon beer and wines. Resort for the first time to the Senate's new cloture rule in an effort to hasten action may be attempted, although there is such a marked division of opinion over the question of permitting brewing to continue that leaders say it would be impossible to secure cloture.

Johnson for Measure.

Senator Johnson, opening the debate on the substitute bill declared its enactment necessary to win the war.

"America must make the sacrifice in dollars and creature comforts within the next year or she must make thereafter sacrifice in men—and then ultimately the sacrifice in material things as well," he said. "The short cut to victory is organization and this organization can come only with a concentration of authority. It is, therefore with an absolute confidence that I give my vote to a bill according the most extraordinary and autocratic powers ever before conferred in our nation."

There must be sacrifice of profits just as there is sacrifice of blood, the Senator said, and he added:

"While, of course, legitimate enterprise during the conflict should be nurtured and encouraged, it must be understood from the very beginning that no profitable patriotism will be tolerated. If a concrete illustration were required to demonstrate the necessity of some sort of legislation in relation to prices, it is found in the recent discussion concerning the steel corporation. We find before the war, this corporation selling its product from $21 to $25 a ton. At the beginning of 1916, its contracts for the delivery of steel plates to commercial shipbuilding concerns was $42.56 per ton and very recently it asked from the United States Government $95 per ton.

"When an ordinary man sees his loved boy snatched from his home to be shot to pieces upon a foreign soil and reads of profits asked by a corporation created by his Government of $600,000,000 per year during the war, he cannot be blamed for the demand in which our people unite and in which the Congress unites by the passage of just such bills as this."

Senator Lodge, saying he would vote for the bill after it had been carefully considered, opposed some of its provisions as amazing and said public "excitement" for food control legislation is pressing upon Congress with little public conception of the powers the bill proposes to confer.

"The people only know of its provisions in a general way," he said. "Congress must also consider the people who are seeking for more huge power. More than one of the Caesars went mad by mere possession of unrestrained power. We have pressure constantly to give more power."

The Massachusetts Senator opposed particularly the proposal that the American industries shall sell to foreign nations as well as the American Government at low prices. He said the minimum price-fixing provision holds "over the heads of all business and industry a deadly threat" and protested against the exemption of farmers from the hoarding section.

Opposes Dry Legislation.

Opposing the "dry" legislation as an injection of a moral issue and not a war measure, the Senator directed attention to the fact that the effort to impose prohibition on the country "has been mixed up with food conservation," by Congress itself, and not by the administration. He declared himself in favor of prohibiting the manufacture of distilled liquors during the war, but thought beer and wines should be permitted. Beer, he said, carries very little alcohol, and the closing of the breweries not only would stop the drinking of beer, but would deprive the country of $140,000,000 in revenue, throw over 100,000 men out of employment and lose all taxes which come from the approximately $1,000,000,000 invested in the industry.

"I now come to the controlling factor in this matter" he continued. "A united public opinion is the greatest factor in winning the war. Abolish all the breweries at a stroke, throw 100,000 people out of employment and deprive hundreds of thousands of laboring and other people who take their glass of beer and see no harm in it and you will engender dissatisfaction and resentment."

He referred to the large German-American population who were accustomed to their beer. These people, he asserted, were loyal to America, and it would put a burden on them to cut off beer.

Telling how New England dairy interests depend upon brewers' by-products for cattle feed, the Senator said stoppage of brewing would send many milk cattle to the slaughter house and that it also would be likely to double the price of bread by suddenly reducing by 40 per cent the supply of yeast, made largely from brewing products.

Germany, Senator Lodge declared, has not restricted alcoholic beverages in any way, while France gives her soldiers regular wine rations. "And," he added, "I think nobody will dispute that the German and French soldiers are of good fighting quality. It is idle to say that the men who drink beer and light wines are undermined."

First Food Bill, to Survey Stocks, Goes to Conference.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—The first food bill—the one for survey of supply and containing measures to stimulate production—which has passed both houses of Congress, went to conference today for adjustment of amendments.

After sending the bill to conference the House agreed to a series of three-day recesses until July 9.

SOBER OBSERVANCE OF 4TH URGED BY ACTING MAYOR ALOE

Acting Mayor Aloe, in a proclamation issued today on the celebration of Independence day, July 4, discouraged the use of fireworks as the proper observance of the day, and urged the substitution of sober ceremonies which will more truly effect the patriotic purposes of the commemoration.

The entry of the United States in the world war, he proclaims, fraught with its consequential sacrifices is a forceful reminder of the sacrifices of our forefathers in their struggle for freedom, and the citizens should observe the day in a fitting manner with patriotic ceremonies and by the reconsecration of every individual to the cause of democracy, "for which we are again about to battle with the powers of darkness and oppression."

In keeping with a recent resolution of the Board of Public Service, Mayor Aloe has refused several organizations permits to celebrate the day with fireworks displays.

CAUSE OF MALADY KILLING CHILDREN IS UNDETERMINED

Severity of Summer Disease in Two Missouri Counties Attributed to Excessive Humidity.

52 DEATHS REPORTED

Total of 302 Known Cases in Scott and Dunklin; None in County Between Them.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

ORAN, Mo., June 29.—With 52, mostly small children, dead in Scott and Dunklin Counties from entercolitis and iliocolitis, similar forms of inflammation of the intestines, and probably 200 still suffering from the two diseases, physicians are not agreed as to the cause. The strongest opinion is, however, that extremes of temperature have multiplied and made more severe the "summer complaint," which is not unusual at this season.

Much of the land in the two counties is either swampy or has been reclaimed by drainage, and when a cold, damp spring was followed by high temperatures in May and June a heavy vapor rose from the ground and the excessive humidity, according to this opinion, lowered resistance so that children were easy victims of the diseases and succumbed to the severity of the attack.

The condition is thought to have been aggravated by the eating of early vegetables. Flies are known to carry the contagion, and milk from cows with the hoof and mouth disease is a source of direct infection, but there are no known cases of the cattle disease in the section and it is doubted by physicians whether milk is the cause.

Curious Circumstances.

A curious circumstance is that, although Scott and Dunklin counties are separated by Stoddard County, no cases have been reported from Stoddard County.

The record of deaths, as compiled from the statements of physicians, is: Scott County—Oran, 24 cases, 16 deaths; Townsley, 50 cases, 10 deaths; Malden, 50 cases, 10 deaths; Morley, 24 cases, 2 deaths; Kennett, 19 cases, 4 deaths; Campbell, 12 cases, no deaths. Dunklin County—Senath, 100 cases, 5 deaths; Salem Township, 23 cases, 5 deaths.

There are known to be cases under treatment in other hamlets and communities in the two counties, and deaths are said to have occurred, but exact information is lacking.

Symptoms of Disease.

Whether the disease takes the form of enterocolitis of iliocolitis, the first symptoms are nausea, coated tongue and incipient dysentery. At first the child's appetite is abnormal but in from two to four days appetite is lost and the victim does not voluntarily take any food. Sometimes there is fever, but not invariably. In severe cases prostration is usually followed by death in from three to five days. Although the suffering is great the child does not lose consciousness until death comes.

In several instances adults have been attacked. An 18-year-old son of Benedict Scherer, living near here, died a few days ago.

In most cases, physicians say, the fatal termination has been due to delay in providing medical treatment. Most of the patients seen by physicians in the early stages have recovered.

Physicians are agreed that there is nothing mysterious about the malady. There has been no doubt about the diagnosis in any of the cases. Precautions to check the spread of the epidemic have been taken and physicians think it will gradually subside. The medical authorities of the two counties do not consider it necessary to ask the State Board of Health to take charge of the situation.

In several instances two and three children in the same family have died.

Dr. E. W. Saunders to Investigate Disease Killing Children.

Dr. E. W. Saunders of 1541 South Grand avenue, a specialist in children's diseases, left today for Scott County to make an investigation and aid resident physicians in determining the source and the means of communication of the disease so fatal to children there.

KINDER SUMMONED TO APPEAR BEFORE THE GRAND JURY TODAY

Will Testify Regarding Chiropractic Bill—Two Police Salary Bill Witnesses From Rolla.

Francis M. Kinder, member of the Legislature from Poplar Bluff, has been summoned to appear before the grand jury this afternoon to testify in the investigation being conducted in connection with the Chiropractic bill before the last Legislature. He will be asked to repeat certain statements made to a Post-Dispatch reporter in an interview given at Poplar Bluff.

A. B. Holmes, Prosecuting Attorney at Rolla, and W. R. Ellis, clerk of the Circuit Court of Rolla, also have been summoned to testify in that phase of the investigation touching the passage of the police salary bill. Information is said to be in possession of the Circuit Attorney's office that an attorney was heard to state that the passage of this bill would be profitable to him.

Wages Increased Voluntarily.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, June 29.—The Utah Copper Co. and the American Smelting and Refining Co. have voluntarily increased wages to all employes, effective July 1. More than 7500 men are affected by the increases, which will approximate $50,000 monthly to the payrolls of the Bingham mines and the smelters.

Illinois Legislature Adjourns.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 29.—The Illinois Legislature adjourned sine die today.

How All Regiments of American Armies Will Be Designated

WASHINGTON, June 29.

DESIGNATION of all army regiments hereafter by number and service branch only, without distinction between units of the regulars, national guard and national army, has been decided on by the War Department to simplify official records of the great war forces now being developed.

Under the system the regular regiments will retain their present names from the "First Infantry," "First Cavalry" and so on upwards. The national guard regiments will be renamed, their numbers beginning where those of the regulars end, and the new units to be organized under the draft will take their numbers onward from the last of the guard regiments.

For purposes of local identification, but not in the official records, national guard and national army regiments will be permitted to use in parenthesis after their names the names of the state from which they come. In the case of the national guard the former name of the regiment may be used in full in parenthesis, including both the name of the state and the former state number. Thus a national army regiment could be called the "Two Hundred and Fifth Infantry (W. Va.)," or the "Sixty-fifth Field Artillery (Minn.)," while a national guard regiment might use the designation "Sixty-sixth Infantry (First Indiana)," or "Tenth Engineers (Twenty-second New York)." No parenthesis would imply regulars.

FORGETFULNESS AND $1200 RING COST WORRY AND TAXI FARE

Man Leaves Band in Barber Shop; He Forgets It; Manicure Girl Forgets It.

Two bad memories and a $1200 diamond ring cost Joseph Frankel of 4511 McPherson avenue a good sized sum of taxicab fare last night.

Frankel, late in the afternoon, hurried into a barber shop at Ninth and St. Charles streets and ordered a quick shave. He handed his ring to the girl manicure to be cleaned. She dropped it into a bowl of water.

When the barber and manicure had finished with him, Frankel hurried out, forgetting the ring. It was past quitting time for the manicure, Miss Camelia Harmann of 4230 Washington avenue, and she was also in a hurry to get away.

Frankel did not miss his ring until 11:30 p. m. He telephoned the night attendant at the barber shop, but he had not seen the ring. Frankel called a taxicab and drove to Miss Harmann's residence.

"My goodness," she exclaimed, when he had her called out of bed. "I left that ring in the bowl of water." She dressed quickly. The taxi dashed to the barber shop.

"It's gone!" Frankel and Miss Harmann chorused, when they looked into the bowl.

Frankel nervously reported the loss to the police. Then he phoned the proprietor, Nicholas Calen, who explained that he had found the ring and put it in his safe.

102 PASSENGER TRAINS TO BE ELIMINATED BY PENN. RAILWAY

Curtailment Effective July 1, to Increase Facilities for Movement of War Supplies.

PHILADELPHIA, June 29.—In order to provide increased facilities for the movement of troops, Government supplies and foodstuffs, the Pennsylvania railroad announces that, effective July 1, 102 passenger trains will be eliminated from its lines.

In addition, a number of parlor cars, restaurant cars, sleepers, club and observation cars will be discontinued.

Among the trains to be withdrawn are four in the New York-Washington service, six between Philadelphia and Washington, one between Philadelphia and Buffalo, and two between Pittsburg and New York.

DUTCH ARMORED CRUISER ARRIVES AT ATLANTIC PORT

Reported She Is to Convoy Number of Holland Vessels About to Leave United States Ports.

AN ATLANTIC PORT, June 29.—A Dutch armored cruiser, the first warship flying the flag of Holland to come into this port for more than 10 years, arrived here today. The warship will remain for several days.

Officers of the ship declined to disclose the mission of the vessel but it was reported she is to act as a convoy for a number of Holland passenger and freight vessels now about ready to leave American ports.

LEGISLATOR TRIED TO GRAFT FROM A RAILROAD UNION

Agent of Engineers Tells of Being Approached by St. Louis Member of House.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

ELDON, Mo., June 29.—How certain members of the Legislature, whose alleged demands for money to control their action on many bills, have been the subject of grand jury investigations, attempted to extend their graft to a raid on the treasury of labor organizations interested in legislation pending at the last session, was told today to a Post-Dispatch correspondent by C. C. Brittingham, a locomotive engineer for the Rock Island Railroad and the representative of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers at Jefferson City last winter.

Brittingham said he was approached by a St. Louis member of the House with a request that he be employed by the labor organizations to promote the legislation they were seeking. The member named by Brittingham is the same member who Representative Kinder of Poplar Bluff, in an interview published in the Post-Dispatch Sunday, said had told him he was to receive $500 if the bill to license chiropractors should pass.

Tells of Member's Proposal.

This St. Louis member, who represented himself to be a member of a labor union, "said Brittingham, "met me outside the Central Trust Co. Building in Jefferson City. I am not certain of the exact time, but I believe it was in February, about the middle of the session of the Legislature.

"He told me he was in a position to look after labor legislation. He said to me: 'I need more money, as I can't live on $5 a day (the salary of a member of the Legislature). I can look after your bills in the House.' I told him we had no money to spend for such a purpose and that we never had used money at a legislative session for other than the legitimate expenses of members of our organizations sent to Jefferson City to appear openly as the representatives of the organizations.

"That was about all of the conversation; at least all of it I can remember. I gave him no encouragement and he walked away. I am sorry now that I did not lead him along. I am satisfied it would have been the easiest thing in the world to have had him meet several more of our men, and that he would have made his proposition to a crowd of us.

"It was significant to me that this man, who posed as a friend of organized labor—in fact, a member of organized labor—openly opposed on the floor of the House the one bill which the railroad brotherhoods most wanted. This was the car shed bill.

"The principal argument against the bill was made by Representative Farris the Democratic floor leader. The St. Louis member to whom I have referred waved his union card, I am told, while he spoke in opposition to the bill. This was after I had refused to deal with him."

The member referred to by Brittingham was known, according to Representative Kinder, as "T-Bone," because of a conversation in which Kinder said the member told him he "didn't eat at a cheap hashhouse," but always had T-bone steaks. The statement was made, Kinder said, in a conversation in which the St. Louis member boasted of money he received in connection with matters of legislation.

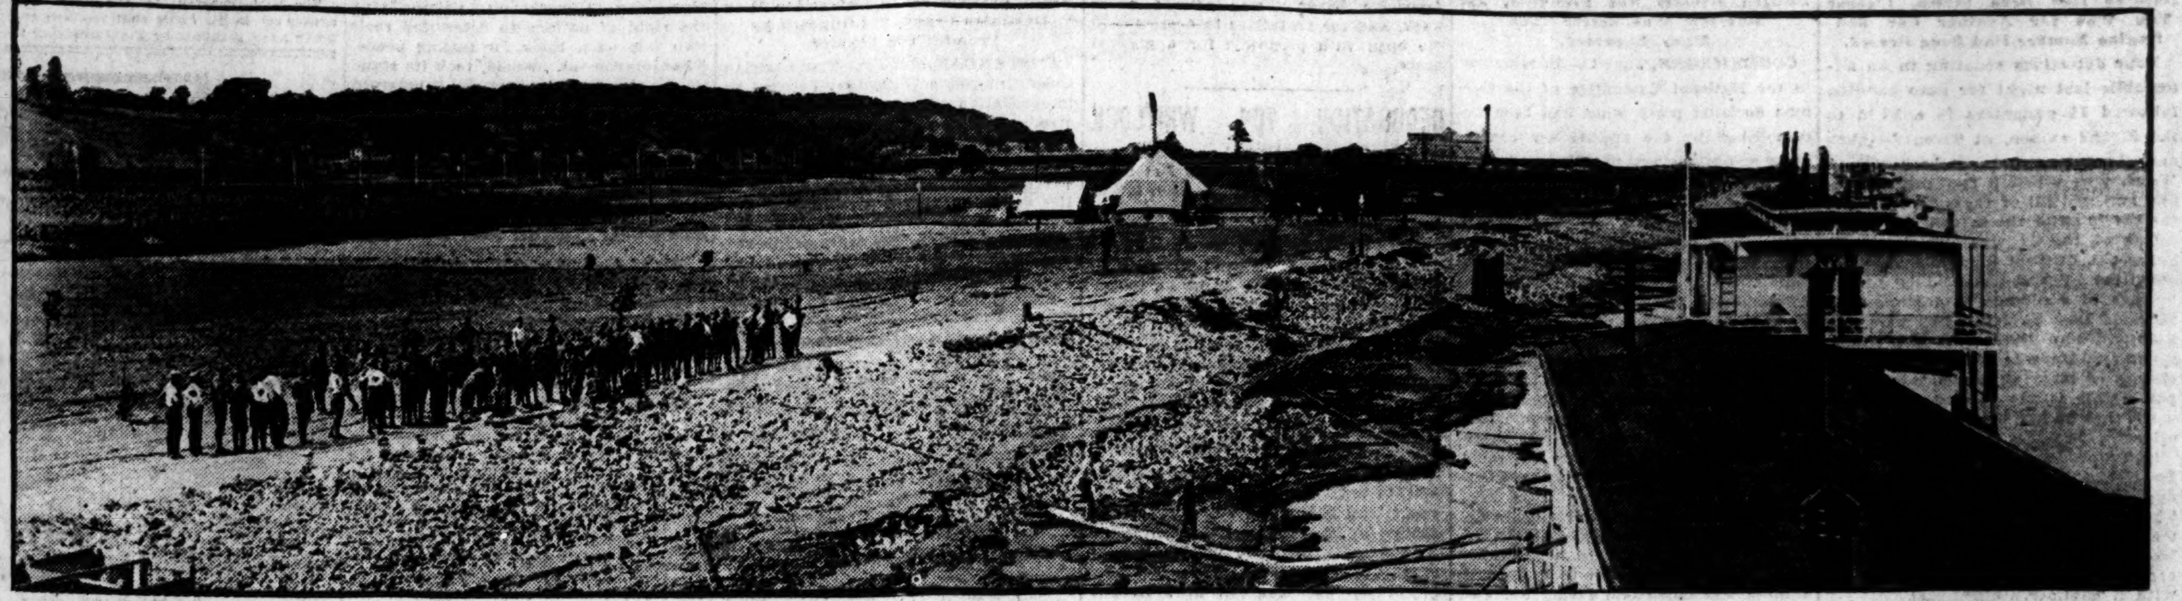
Scene at the Encampment of Second Engineers Reserve Regiment Near the Chain of Rocks



2D ENGINEERS ARE TO BEGIN DRILL MONDAY

DAILY ROUTINE OF MEN

How They Are Preparing for Operation of Railroads Behind Fighting Fronts in France.

Headquarters of the Second Engineers' Reserve Regiment were moved today from the Federal Building to the Government quarter boats at Camp Gaillard, half a mile south of the Chain of Rocks. Recruits are coming in at an average of 106 a day and the regiment of more than 1000 is expected to be fully mobilized by Monday, when instruction in military drill will begin, preparatory to departure for France a few weeks hence.

The work of the men in camp now consists of getting ready for the grind that is about to start. Roads are being built, culverts and bridges constructed, boats cleaned and bath houses erected. This is part of the fatigue duty and all the men are prepared to do this kind of work. It is the business by which they made their living before they volunteered.

The regiment is singing at night. This, according to Maj. John A. Laird, former President of the Police Board, who has been temporarily in command, is a sign that they have settled down to work and consider the camp their home. He says it is like Kipling's story of the ship that found itself; everything is running smoothly when the things begin to hum.

His Sixth Regiment.

Maj. Laird said that he had been in five other regiments in the past and that these men had better spirits and are more willing to work than any he has seen. He says they are all specialists, identified with the operation and maintenance of railroads. They are equipped to deal with any problem concerned with the building or operating of a railroad.

A Post-Dispatch reporter at the camp found that virtually all of the men had good positions when they volunteered. One man said that he had given up $125 a month to serve the Government for $30. Engineers, firemen, brakemen, dispatchers, conductors, switchmen, road men are all to be found here. In one company, which had 60 men in it yesterday, there were seven college men—two seniors and three juniors in engineering at Washington University and two men from Northern schools.

The officers are all college graduates and practical engineers. Col. Curtis McD. Townsend is a West Point graduate in engineering and was president of the Mississippi River Commission; Maj. C. L. Hall is also a West Pointer; Maj. Laird was a consulting engineer, with offices in the Chemical Building, and Maj. Frank Jonah was chief engineer for the Frisco Railroad. The other commissioned officers are of similar caliber.

Work They Expect to Do.

According to the advices the officers have now, the men will go to France to operate the military trains from the bases to the trenches. When battle fronts are changed, the men probably will be required to do the pioneer work of clearing the way and laying new tracks. The training of the St. Louis regiment will be along thees lines.

The men are prepared to do this. And if there is any need they can do engine work, as there are many blacksmiths and machinists in the regiment.

As an example of the representative type of men, Maj. Laird pointed out that at one meeting he asked if any man had had experience in operating a road-grading machine. Three men volunteered for the special duty. Other calls for especial tasks, he said, would meet the same response.

Yesterday the men were digging drainage ditches and making a 300-yard cinder road from the municipal street car line to the camp. Bridges were being built so that 2-ton trucks could go over the ditches. The camp will have 18 of these trucks soon for transportation of supplies. Seven motor cycles were in camp yesterday for messenger service.

Inoculated and Vaccinated.

E Company was the first company to mobilize. Yesterday afternoon the men were inoculated against typhoid and vaccinated against smallpox. Two men fainted. One, who had been told of "the horrors" of this simple process, fainted before he got to the hospital boat. A pure case of imagination. Another fainted just after he was given the "shot in the arm" and while one of his comrades was facetitiously remarking that the engineers were different from the men at Fort Riley, where they had to have stretchers ready to catch the men. The whole regiment will be given preventives for these diseases.

Every precaution is being taken to prevent disease. As the camp is on the Mississippi River, mosquitoes are visitors. All of the windows of the houseboats, in which the regiment is quartered, have fine screening over them. Malaria is the disease dreaded by the medical corps. Quinine has not been issued but should any case of malaria appear, quinine will be given out. No cases of sickness have developed in camp, although there are six men in the hospital boat who had to be put there upon their arrival.

The Y. M. C. A. has erected a tent where periodicals, stationery and a telephone will be kept for the convenience of the engineers. Only the tent is on the ground now, but a man and the conveniences will be ready when the drilling begins. As yet no recreation has been provided. The men explain that they are too tired from actual work to want to do much in the recreation field. When "taps" is sounded at 10 o'clock they are glad to "hit their bunks." In fact, mighty glad.

The men sleep in their company boats, each of which accommodates from 100 to 135 men. The beds are three-deckers and a ladder is required to get into them. The frame and springs are steel. The men are issued a bed sack, which can be straw-filled, and two blankets. Every morning these must be neatly folded at the head of the bed. The housing of the men on quarter boats is much more sanitary than in tents, the officers say.

Rations Still Below Standard.

One evidence that the camp is not yet established, so officers told a reporter, was that the rations are not yet up to the army standard. Each company's food is cooked on its own boat. The reporter was issued a messkit, consisting of a canteen, a plate, a knife, fork and spoon. A long line formed on the deck of the boat. The men passed through the kitchen where coffee, two pieces of bread, two large spoonsful of beans and one spoonful of beef stew was given out.

There was not much variety to the menu, but the meal was filling. Most of the men went back for a second helping. The companies that were mobilized first have better rations, as they have become better organized.

Of the conveniences afforded by the camp and which the men are most enthusiastic over, is the shower baths which have been and are being built near the boats. The men are not allowed to swim in the river on account of the danger of drowning and they say that nothing makes them feel more at home than cold showers.

All day yesterday new men were coming in. They were marched into the company offices, where to each was issued soap, towel, comb, two blankets and a mess kit. They were told to select beds. They returned and were measured for uniforms.

It took exactly one minute to measure each man for suit, shoes, shirt, puttees and hat.

Only a temporary schedule has been arranged. The first call is at 5:30; reveille at 5:40; assembly, 5:45; mess, 6; sick call, 7; fatigue, 7:45; issue, 9; recall, 11:30; Mess, 12; fatigue, 1 p. m.; recall, 5; first call, 5:30; assembly 5:40; retreat, 5:50; mess, 6; quarters, 9:30; tattoo, 9:45; taps, 10.

DEMURRER SUSTAINED IN CASE OF ALLEGED ATTEMPT TO BRIBE

Louis Bialock Had Been Indicted on Charge of Trying to Gain Son's Exemption.

A demurrer to the indictment of Louis Bialock, 3624 Dodier street, for an alleged attempt at bribery to avoid his son's registration under the selective army draft, was sustained by Judge Dyer in the Federal Court today.

Bialock was indicted by the Federal grand jury two weeks ago on testimony of Dr. F. L. Morse of 2504 North Fourteenth street, to the effect that on June 1 Bialock offered Dr. Morse $500 to exempt his son, Anton Bialock, from registration.

Judge Dyer quashed the indictment on the ground that official boards for exemption were not created by President Wilson until after the alleged offense, and, further, that Dr. Morse had no power to exempt.

RED CROSS FUND HAS PASSED $2,000,000-MARK

The St. Louis Red Cross fund has passed the $2,000,000 mark and is still growing. The total last night was $2,004,000, not counting some straggling subscriptions. The total receipts yesterday were $15,000.

The boy scouts who canvassed the residence districts are just winding up their work and the total of the subscriptions obtained by them will probably be known by tonight. Most of the subscriptions from employes of business and industrial concerns are in.

The report yesterday from the Famous and Barr Co. showed that more than 1500 employes had subscribed, the total being $6400.

FOODSTUFFS EXPORTS INCREASE

WASHINGTON, June 29.—American foodstuffs exports in May reached a value of $104,000,000, a considerable increase over previous months, Department of Commerce statistics issued today show. Shipments were greater by $5,000,000 than in April and $20,000,000 in March. During the 11 months ending with May the country shipped abroad $833,000,000 worth of food, as against $744,000,000 in the same period the year before.

Grain exports fell off in May, but flour shipments were heavier, as were exports of meats, meat products and vegetable oils. All breadstuffs shipments in May were valued at $61,000,000 against $58,500,000; meats were valued at $41,000,000 against $37,000,000 in April.

HANDWRITING OF SUSPECT LIKE THAT IN NOTE TO KEET

Report of Experts Said to Furnish Important Evidence Against One of Prisoners.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., June 29.—Important developments in the mystery of the kidnaping and murder of Baby Lloyd Keet, son of J. Holland Keet, a banker, have come, the Post-Dispatch correspondent learned today, through expert analysis of the handwriting of the letters sent to Keet, demanding a $6000 ransom for the return of the child. The child was stolen May 30 and his body was found ina well June 9.

The writing in these letters has been compared by experts with specimens of the handwriting of all the suspects in the case, five of whom are now held in the St. Louis Jail.

The resemblance between the handwriting in the notes and the writing of one of the suspects, has been found to be strong enough to convince the experts that the notes were written by this suspect. A complete comparative examination and analysis will have to be made before the experts will be ready to testify in court to this matter.

Text of First Letter.

The first letter, received the day after the child was stolen, caused the father to drive his automobile over dark and rough roads on a stormy night in a vain effort to communicate with the kidnapers. It gave him instructions as to the manner in which the ransom money must be paid. It said:

"We sure got your kid; don't say anything to the police or put it in the papers. There are three of us, and we want $2000 apiece, so it wil lcost you $6000 (six thousand) to get him. We got another one picked out, so if we don't get this from you we can tell them to see what we did to yours. We are going to feed him and be good to him until then. But if we don't get this, you will have a tough-looking kid. * * * We got lots of milk; kid is all right."

The second letter, written after the failure of the rendezvous with Keet, said the kidnapers had "come in" when they saw "what was upon the road." This referred, Keet believed to the fact that friends in automobiles had followed him on the road.

The letters were plainly written, and the mistakes in spelling and punctuation appeared to have been intentional.

The suspects held in St. Louis are Claude J. Piersol, Dick Carter and Cletus Adams, all of whom have been formally accused of the murder; Taylor Adams, father of Cletus, and Sam McGinnis. Mrs. Taylor Adams and her younger son, Maxie, have been held in Stockton, Mo.

Dick Carter Makes Admission.

Prosecuting Attorney O'Day, who has returned from St. Louis, said today that Dick Carter had confessed, under the questioning of Chief of Detectives Allender, that he was connected with Piersol's plot to kidnap C. A. Clement, a Springfield jeweler, and hold him for a ransom. Piersol and the Adamses have made admissions as to this plot, but none of them has yet admitted any knowledge of the Keet kidnaping. They have also denied that the plan was to kidnap not Clement, but Clement's child, a belief held by many persons here.

O'Day said Carter wept in confessing his connection with the Clement conspiracy. Carter said, according to O'Day, that Piersol offered him $750 as his share of the money that was to be obtained for Clement's release. He said Piersol was the only leader in this plot, so far as he knew. After the issuance of an information against him in the Keet case, Carter said, he kept out of sight through fear. He was arrested in Hutchinson, Kan., a week ago Tuesday.

Much interest was caused here by the news that Piersol yesterday sought to get rat poison in the St. Louis jail. He is believed to have kept in touch with the progress of the investigation. His mother, who returned to Springfield yesterday, was permitted to see him for 20 minutes, she said.

Piersol Attempts to Get Porter to Mail Two Letters.

Claude J. Piersol today handed two letters to a porter in the city jail, and asked him to mail them. The porter was the same person whom Piersol yesterday asked to get a box of rat poison for him. The letters were turned over to the Chief of Police, and the only information given out about the addresses was that one was directed to a woman in Springfield, and another to a woman in Stockton. Piersol's mother and sister live in Springfield, and Mrs. Taylor Adams is in jail at Stockton.

SENATOR BORAH LOSES WATCH, PRESIDENT WILSON FINDS IT

Executive Suggests It Dropped Inside Riding Breeches Instead of Pocket—It Did.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—Senator William E. Borah of Idaho lost his watch yesterday and President Wilson found it. The Senator was riding his horse in Rock Creek Park, when he looked at his watch, the present of Coeur D'Alene miners. Then he shoved it into the fob pocket of his riding breeches—or thought he did. When, later, he reached for the watch it was missing. He galloped back, and scanned the bridle path.

Just then President and Mrs. Wilson, attended by a cavalry Sergeant, cantered up the path and the President stopped.

"Lost anything, Senator?" asked the President.

"My watch," replied the Senator.

The President dismounted and joined in the search. After 10 minutes he suggested that perhaps the Senator had missed his fob pocket and the watch had dropped inside his riding breeches. Sitting down on a log the Senator pulled off his right riding boot—and found the watch.

As the President turned to remount he said with whimsical blandness:

"Why don't you wear a wrist watch, Senator?"

NATIONAL GUARD TO GO SOUTH AS SOON AS IT IS CALLED OUT

War Department Considering Advisability of Waiting Until Aug. 5 to Draft Whole Force.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—National guard regiments will be sent forward to their divisional mobilization camps in the South immediately after they have been drafted into the Federal service. Heretofore, it had been expected that because of lack of tents it might be necessary to keep many regiments at their home armories, or State mobilization points for an indefinite period.

The exact date of the application of the draft to the guard is still under discussion. Present understandings are that the divisions of the eastern section of the country will be drafted July 15; the central section, July 25, and the western section, Aug. 5. It has been pointed out, however, that inequalities in relative rank among national guard officers would result from this three-increment plan and the War Department is debating the advisability of postponing the application of the draft until Aug. 5 and covering the entire guard at that time in one operation.

FOOD PRICES ADVANCE 5 PER CENT IN A MONTH

WASHINGTON, June 29.—Retail food prices in the United States advanced on an average 5 per cent from April 16 to May 15, as shown in figures compiled by the Bureau of Labor Statistics. During the year ending with May 15 they increased 39 per cent.

The biggest jump during the month was in flour, which advanced 29 per cent. The increase in corn meal was 15 per cent; beans, 14 per cent; bread, 13 per cent, and rice 11 per cent. The only drop in price was in onions, 36 per cent, and butter, 9 per cent.

Some of the month's increases are given as follows: Beef, 2 to 4 per cent; bacon, ham and lard, 8 to 10 per cent; hens, 1 per cent; salmon, 10 per cent; eggs, 3 per cent; cheese, 3 per cent; milk, 3 per cent; potatoes, 6 per cent; sugar, 5 per cent; coffee and tea, 1 per cent.

In the last four years retail food prices generally have advanced 56 per cent.

TWO KANSAS BANDS NOW IN THE MARINE SERVICE

One Supposed to Be With Pershing in France; Other Assigned to Regiment Preparing to Move.

Kansas is furnishing expert horn blowers for United States Marines recruited in the St. Louis district—also bass drummers and cymbal pounders.

The band of the Kansas Agricultural College at Manhattan departed from St. Louis June 15 with the First Marine Regiment, which was expected to be a part of Gen. Pershing's expeditionary force. It is thought at the recruiting office here that this band is now in France.

A second Kansas band yesterday was accepted for marine service and will be assigned to the Second Regiment, now preparing to move. It is the Holton Municipal Band of 25 pieces.

The Holton band was put through its paces yesterday by Lieut. Walter D. Smith of the United States Marine Band and Capt. Enslick, recruiting officer in charge of the St. Louis district.

SYRIAN SEEKING FIRST PAPERS HAS FOUR SONS IN U. S. ARMY

Judge Commends Albert George in Approving His Application—Italian Reservist's Petition Denied.

Albert George, a Syrian of 1018 Papin street, was commended by Judge Dyer in the Federal Court today when he asked for naturalization papers and the Judge learned that he had four sons in the United States army. He was granted the papers. George is a city laborer.

The Court refused the application of Constantino d'Alessandro, an Italian reservist, when it was learned that Alessandro had received a call to the Italian colors three weeks ago and was trying to escape service. Judge Dyer told him that he would get nothing from the court and advised him to go back to Italy, where they would make him fight.

Mrs. Sophia Plesskott, a widow living at 4330 Easton avenue, was given her papers. The Judge told her that while she was not able to fight, that she could allow her 17-year-old son to enlist if he desired. She is a Bohemian.

Sixty-four Germans' applications were not considered because of the war with Germany. They will probably be granted their naturalization papers after the war. Of 164 applications, 73 were admitted, 19 cases continued and eight were rejected.

Austrian Emperor to Visit Munich.

COPENHAGEN, June 29.—Emperor Charles and Empress Zita of Austria-Hungary are expected to arrive in Munich on Saturday. The Munich correspondent of the Berliner Tageblatt says the visit of the Emperor will be of political as well as social nature. He will be accompanied by Count Czernin, the Foreign Minister, and the heads of the Austrian military and civil cabinets.

DELEGATION FROM LAND OF HIS ANCESTRY VISITS PERSHING

General Moved by Words of Men From Alsace-Lorraine Republican Committee.

PARIS, June 29.—Major-General Pershing yesterday received a delegation from the Alsace-Lorraine Republican Committee. Referring to the American commander's Alsatian ancestry, the vice president, M. Staehling, told the General how proud they were that a descendant of their little country had come to fight for the triumph of their inalienable rights and the restoration to France of the lost provinces.

Gen. Pershing was visibly moved. He said he was most happy to greet representatives of the valient people who had suffered so deeply because of fidelity to their country, and that he had a warm place in his heart for Alsace, the land of his fathers.

FORMER GOV. STEPHENS SUED IN BANK CASE

Litigation Over $103,000 Claimed to Have Been Lost in Boonville (Mo.) Concern.

Three stockholders of the Central National Bank of Boonville, Mo., the assets of which recently were absorbed by a new banking corporation filed suit here yesterday against the officers and directors of the old bank, including former Gov. Lon V. Stephens of [illegible] Cabanne avenue, alleging that mismanagement on their part caused the bank to fail. The defendants are asked to render accounting to the stockholders for sums aggregating about $106,000.

Alexander H. Stephens, a brother of the former Governor, was indicted by a Federal grand jury at Jefferson City, charged with having embezzled $12,800 from the bank, but no further action was taken. He is now a patient in the State Hospital for the Insane at Nevada, Mo.

Gov. Stephens says he has not taken an active part in the management of the bank for many years. Three-fourths of the stock of the bank was owned by him or members of his family. Last August, when he was in Asbury Park, N. J., he learned through a bank examiner that there was trouble and he wired his advice to liquidate. The plaintiffs in the suit are small stockholders.

NORTH DAKOTA INSURES DEPOSITS

Bank Guaranty Act Goes Into Effect July 1.

FARGO, N. D., June 29.—Bank depositors in North Dakota need not fear after July 1 that their savings will be lost by the failure of a bank.

At the last session of the Legislature a law was enacted, known as the depositors' guaranty act, which provides that depositors shall be paid 100 cents on the dollar in all cases of bank failure, the money to come from a fund secured by assessment upon every member of the North Dakota State Bankers' Association.

ROOT AND SCOTT VISIT BRUSSILOFF AT HEADQUARTERS

Russian Commander in Chief Declares He Will Continue to Fight for Nation's Rights.

SCOTT GOES TO KIEV

Major-General to Tour Southwestern Front and Greet Rumanian King.

PETROGRAD, June 29.—Elihu Root, head of the American Commission, and Foreign Minister Tereschtenko returned to Petrograd yesterday after a brief visit to staff headquarters, where they were welcomed by General Brussiloff in the name of the Russian army. The army, declared the Commander in Chief, would continue with all the powers at his disposal, not only to fight for its own cause—that of fortifying liberty recently acquired—but at the same time hand-in-hand with America, to fight for the right of all nations to shape their destinies in accordance with their own desires.

There was little in the small country town of Mohilev to correspond with a conventional view of a general staff headquarters. The atmosphere of formality, secrecy and dignity which distinguished it when it was the home of former Emperor Nicholas had departed since the revolution. There is nothing left to arrest the attention of the observer except the former Emperor's residence, which is now used by General Brusilloff, and the military hotel, where members of the staff are quartered. Otherwise it is a peaceful village nestling on the bank of the Dneiper, 200 miles from the firing line.

Soldiers at the Train.

Only small groups of soldiers were present to wath the "imperial" train carrying the Commission draw into the station. Despite the fact that the train which was such a common sight in imperial days had not been seen in Mohilev since the abdication of the Emperor, it evoked little curiosity. A few soldiers thinking they might find accommodations therein, crowded on board, but when they were told that it was being used by the American Mission they immediately dispersed.

Wednesday noon the Commission lunched with General Brussiloff and soon thereafter Major General Scott and aids, military members of the Commission, escorted by Russian General Staff officers, departed for Kiev. After a short tour of the southwestern front, Major General Scott will go to Rumania and will greet the King and Queen in the name of the Commission and the American Government.

The trip gave Root and Tereschtenko the best opportunities for a conference and they were in almost constant consultation during the entire journey. The Foreign Minister, who spent the last two weeks in bed suffering from kidney trouble, is considerably improved.

Red Cross Aid Appreciated.

The news of the intention of the United States to send a Red Cross mission to Russia figures prominently in the newspapers. It evoked hearty appreciation in army and medical circles, especially with the headquarters of the Russian Red Cross.

A statement given to the Associated Press by Boris Ordin, president of the committee on supplies of the Red Cross, who reorganized this department after the Manchurian war, says:

"We express our gratitude at this new evidence of America's resolution to help us where we are weak. America's aid and medical work not only have been charitable, but also of immense military significance. My experience in two campaigns shows that if there are any deficiences in medical supplies or insufficient medical personnel, the conduct of the war is injuriously affected.

"The work of the American Red Cross mission which arrived early in the war and the work of the Russian-American committee which later took over the mission's work were extremely valuable and now we are delighted at the prospect of similar help on a greater scale.

"Before last Christmas we sent America, through Vice President Hough of the Russo-American committee, a complete list of the articles which were needed most. The list comprises about 30 chief drugs. In addition the Russian Red Cross needs preserved goods, leather, condensed milk, blankets, shoes and light and heavy automobiles. We hope American aid will come speedily and our organization promises to do everything possible to help the mission's work."

Russia's Election of Its Assembly Set for Sept. 20.

PETROGRAD, June 29.—The provisional Government has issued a decree fixing Sept. 20 for the elections to the constituent Assembly, which will determine the permanent form of government for Russia. Oct. 13 has been set for the first meeting of the Assembly.

In connection with the great demonstration that has been arranged for next Sunday by the Congress of Deputies in honor of the victims of the revolution, all the moderate, law-abiding citizens are assembling for the defense of the provisional Government.

During the last few days evidence has been accumulating that the members of the extreme right have combined with the anarchists and members of the Bolsheviki faction to utilize the demonstration for the purpose of a counter revolution in the cause of reaction.

FORD LOAD OF GANGSTERS, 11 IN ALL, TAKEN BY POLICE

Machine Had Been Stolen, License Tag Was for Another Car and Engine Number Had Been Erased.

Four detectives scouting in an automobile last night for auto bandits, followed 11 gangsters in a Ford to the Strand saloon, at Twenty-eighth and Locust streets, where Bryan Walsh was killed a few nights ago, and arrested all of them as they left the car to enter the saloon.

One of the 11 was Lex Droit, 28 years old, of East St. Louis, recently acquitted by a Belleville jury of the murder of Alphonse Magarian, a 3-year-old East St. Louis boy who was kidnaped and beheaded. He had a revolver. He was locked up on the charge of carrying a concealed weapon. This is the second time in a week that he has been arrested. The others were released on bond.

The Ford was stolen from L. W. Ferdew, 5238 Maffitt avenue, Tuesday, from in front of 3620 Pine street. The license tag on it was stolen a week ago from the machine of D. F. Morgan, 4045 Shenandoah avenue. The engine number had been mutilated with a hammer.

SCHEIDEMANN'S REPORT ON STOCKHOLM CONFERENCES

Desired Results Not Produced, but Outcome Was Better Than Many Expected.

COPENHAGEN, Junt 29.—In reporting to the National Committee of the German Socialist party what had been accomplished by the preliminary conferences of Socialists at Stockholm, Philipp Scheidemann said the deliberations had not produced the desired results, although the outcome had been better than many persons expected. He attributed this to the conduct of the German minority Socialists and to misunderstandings, deliberate or involuntary, by entente Socialists, of the attitude of the German Socialists and of the organizing work of Jeppe Borghjerg, the Danish Socialist, whose trip to Petrograd in the interests of the conference provoked so much discussion. Herr Scheidemann said that without the co-operation of M. Borgbjerg the Stockholm conference probably would not have been held.

Scheidemann said he was able to undeceive the Russian Socialists in regard to the possibility of a revolution in Germany and explain to them such a thing was impossible during the war, because all Germans were united in the determination to defend themselves. The possibility of revolutionary movement afterward depended on the outcome of the war and whether a grant of democratic rights should be made.

Scheidemann criticised the Government for its overtures for a separate peace with Russia, saying a new and more favorable bargain was offered every week, and for its failure to come out in the open with proposals for a general peace.

DECORATION FOR WHITLOCK

President Asks Congress to Let Minister Accept Tender of Belgian King.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—President Wilson today asked Congress to pass a law to permit Brand Whitlock, American Minister to Belgium, to accept a decoration from King Albert of Belgium, in recognition of his marked services to the little kingdom. Decoration of any American official without sanction of Congress is prohibited by the Constitution.

U. S. Vocational Board Named.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—President Wilson today appointed the board for vocational education, which will have charge of the Federal Government's participation in that work as provided in the recent bill passed by Congress. The members are: Arthur F. Holder of Iowa, 3 years; Charles A Greathouse of Indiana, 2 years; James Phinney Munroe of Massachusetts, one year.

SOCIALISTS IN AUSTRIAN HOUSE WANT PEACE NEGOTIATIONS

Right of Peoples to Determine Own Destinies Urged, but Opposed by Premier von Seydler.

AMSTERDAM, June 29.—The Austrian Chief Unterhaus Wednesday debated an interpellation introduced by the Socialist members, Daszynski, Stoyan and Hruban, favoring the opening of peace negotiations. Daszynski contended that all the people of the monarchy shared in the desire for peace and that it was time for the Government to make known Austria's war aims and peace conditions. The interpellation urged the right of the peoples to determine their own destinies.

Premier von Seydler took exception to the interpellations and insisted upon the necessity of upholding the well-tried alliance with Germany. He stigmatized as erroneous the assumption underlying Daszynski's questions that the Austro-Hungarian Government acknowledge the right of nations to determine their own fate as a basis for lasting peace. The Government, he said, took its stand on the Constitution, whereby it reserved to the Emperor the right to conclude peace.

On the basis of these positive prerogatives of the crown, he said, the Austrian-Hungarian Government, in concert with its allies, was always ready to enter into negotiations with the enemy for an honorable peace.

EAT SKINNER'S THE BEST MACARONI

Proper Thing Now Is to Peel Off Soiled Skin

Those who abhor sticky, greasy, shiny, streaked complexions should religiously avoid creams, powders and rouges during the heated days. There's no need for them, anyway, since the virtues of mercolized wax have become known. No amount of perspiration will produce any evidence that you've been using the wax. As it is applied at bedtime and washed off in the morning, the complexion never looks like a make-up. Mercolized wax gradually takes off a bad complexion, instead of adding anything to make it worse. It has none of the disadvantages of cosmetics, and accomplishes much more in keeping the complexion beautifully white, satiny and youthful. Just get an ounce of it at your druggist's and see what a few days' treatment will do. Use like cold cream.

Another effective warm-weather treatment—heat tending to cause wrinkles and flabbiness—is a skin-tightener made by dissolving one ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint of witch hazel. Its use (as a face bath) leaves no trace. Remarkable improvement is noticed immediately, and there is no harmful effect whatever.—ADV.

16 WITNESSES FOR INQUIRY IN DEATH OF "CANDY" COLE

Grand Jury to Begin Investigation at Brookline, Mass., Next Week.

HIS MOTHER THERE

Alleged Deathbed Confession to Her Will Be Principal Testimony.

BROOKLINE, Mass., June 29.—A grand jury investigation into the death of William ("Candy") Cole, formerly of St. Louis, will be started next week as a result of a death-bed statement alleged to have been made by Cole to his mother, Mrs. Katherine Cole, of St. Louis, who came here to investigate her son's death.

Cole's widow, Mrs. Cleopatra Freeling Cole, also of St. Louis, is in a hospital here recovering from sulphuric acid burns of the same nature as those which killed her husband.

The widow had a relapse yesterday, but her condition was improved today and she made a statement in which she said her husband threw the acid. Her aunt, Miss Julia Wade, of Benton, Mo., is constantly at her bedside.

A woman of whom Mrs. Cole is alleged to have been jealous is expected to be one of the principal witnesses before the Grand Jury.

Sixteen witnesses have been summoned for the Grand Jury inquiry. A certificate filed with the police by Medical Examiner Cutts yesterday attributed Cole's death to acid burns, with the statement that homicide was alleged.

Cole's alleged statement to his mother that his wife threw the acid on him will form the basis of the investigation.

When Mr. and Mrs. Cole were removed to the hospital the police said that each accused the other of throwing the acid after a quarrel. Later Cole said his injury was accidental and his wife was not to blame. The acid throwing occurred early in May and Cole died June 9. After his death his mother told of his statement to her.

Mother Told of Alleged Confession Two Weeks Ago.

Mrs. William Cole of 1725 Wagner avenue, mother of William ("Candy") Cole, in an interview with a Post-Dispatch reporter two weeks ago, told of having gone to Boston in response to a telegram and finding her son there with acid burns on his face and body.

On his deathbed, she said, in the presence of herself and physicians, her son told her sulphuric acid had been thrown on him by his wife when they quarreled at their home after returning from a Shriners' dance.

The mother's version was that her son's wife had been jealous of a "fair-haired girl" with whom she accused Cole of going on horseback rides. Cole's body was buried at Valhalla Cemetery here June 15.

WATTERSON SAYS HALDEMAN WANTED THE BRITISH SCORED

Veteran Louisville Editor Submits Letters Written Him on War Editorials.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 29.—Criticism of his anti-German editorials and his frequent trips to Florida and Europe, led to the resignation last November of Henry Watterson, veteran editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, it developed yesterday, when Watterson besought the Court to reopen the case of Bruce Haldeman, president of the company, against the directors.

The resignation, sent from Florida, where the editor was spending part of last winter, was not accepted, and on his return, he says, an agreement was reached with the directors.

Criticism of Watterson's editorials and pleasure trips he cites in excerpts from letters written him by Bruce Haldeman, among them the following:

"If you give me half a chance I will do it, but don't trot out any indorsements from Canucks when it comes to war editorials. The truth of the matter is that if you had the judicial cast of mind possessed by your humble servant (Bruce Haldeman), you would have scored the English for their interference with neutral trade as savagely as you did the Germans for the submarine blockade."

The case, which was submitted to the Court several days ago, was held open until today in order to allow Bruce Haldeman to answer. The decision probably will come within a few weeks.

ST. LOUIS TOO LATE IN ASKING FOR VISIT OF BELGIAN MISSION

Itinerary Made Public of Long Tour Which Is to Be Begun From Washington Sunday.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—The Belgian commission's itinerary for its long trip to the Pacific Coast was made public here today.

In addition to Baron Moncheur, head of the mission, there will be in the party Lieutenant-General Le Clercq, Maj. Osterrieth, Lieut. Count d'Ursel, Hugh Gibson, as representative of the Government; Capt. T. C. Cook, U. S. A., military aid to Gen. Le Clercq, and James G. Whiteley of the Belgian legation.

The party will leave here Sunday. The first stop will be in Chicago, Monday morning. The day will be spent in that city, from where the party will go to Milwaukee, Green Bay, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Spokane, Seattle, Portland, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Salt Lake City, Colorado Springs, Denver, Topeka, Tulsa, Ok.; Little Rock, Louisville, Cincinnati and Charleston, Va., and return to Washington. It is expected the tour will take three weeks.

Acting Mayor Aloe's official invitation to the Belgian mission to visit St. Louis was sent yesterday, too late for action by the State Department.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—Red Cross representatives in war service in foreign countries, it is announced, will be permitted by the War Department to assume military titles, rank and uniform. The commissioned grades will range from Major-General, for the chairman of the war council, to First Lieutenant for storekeepers, Adjutants or Quartermasters.

A rush consignment of five tons of milk chocolate, 10,000 pounds of sugar and 7200 packages of biscuits, to be served by the Y. M. C. A. to the American troops in France, and 35 cases of athletic equipment for Y. M. C. A. quarters in army camps there, were taken to France on the transports of Gen. Pershing's expedition.

Space for the Y. M. C. A. equipment was made on the ships by the War Department, with the approval of Gen. Pershing. The Y. M. C. A. War Work Council, anticipating the arrival of United States troops, had already telegraphed $200,000 to its general secretaries on British and French soil for the army work.

Gen. Pershing, in making the necessary order for the transportation of the equipment, declared that "the Y. M. C. A. has always followed me, however hazardous or difficult the expedition might be. If any group in the world ever needed such work, it is the soldiers on foreign soil cut off from home and comforts."

Recent purchases by the Y. M. C. A. for camps now established in this country include 100 moving picture machines, 5000 phonograph records, 500,000 needles, 800,000 feet of films, 4000 quarts of ink, 504,000 pens, 100,800 penholders, 100,800 pencils, 500 basebal gloves, 400 baseball bats, 7000 sets of checkers, 3,000,000 sheets of letter paper, 1,500,000 envelopes, 20,000 testaments, 100 typewriters and 1200 magazine holders.

OBJECTIONABLE RESORTS CLOSED AT NEWPORT, R. I.

Multimillionaire Colony 'Cleaned Up' at Insistence of Secretary Daniels.

RESERVISTS ON GUARD

Action Taken Because of Their Presence, but Not Because of Their Conduct.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEWPORT, R. I., June 29.—The disorderly district in this multi-millionaire summer colony is closed. So are the gambling places, high and low. Nolan's, where for 20 years the roulette wheel spun uninterruptedly every night, has drawn its shades and barred its doors. Naval reservists patrol the walk outside of every establishment under the ban.

"Secretary Daniels was determined that Newport should be cleaned up," said Capt. H. F. Bryan, acting commandant of the Second Naval District. "As a result of his letter to Gov. R. Livingston Beeckman the city has been cleaned up. We have attended to that."

The 2500 naval reservists here, through their little weekly newspaper, have been trying to combat the impression that immorality on their part was responsible for the crusade. Enlistments in the naval reserve of the district had fallen off recently because of the impression that the youths here were not being safeguarded against perils which do not obtain to so great an extent even in New York's bright light district, and that even their health might be affected.

Facts Disprove Reports.

The falsity of the adverse stories is proved by facts of record. Actual figures compiled by the medical branch show that less than four ths of 1 per cent of the young men have been ill at any time. Supplementing this are reports by the United States secret service agents and the local police indicating conclusively that the conduct of the reserves has been exemplary. The reports disparaging to the reservists have been a source of distress to their commanders in view of many circumstances. Fully 80 per cent of the men are college bred, strapping, clean, atletic fellows. There are a dozen all-American football stars among them, a score of millionaires' sons, young lawyers, physicians and bankers.

When the reservists began to arrive here as far back as April there were no adequate quarters for them. So the townspeople, rich and poor, took them into their homes, in many instances without charge. There is not on record a single complaint about the conduct of any reservist. On the contrary, the townspeople are lavish in their praise of the young men. They not only have welcomed them into their households, but have given elaborate functions in their honor and permitted their daughters to attend social affairs with them.

Many youths of the wealthier class have their automobiles here, but "joy riding" parties are a rarity. Most of the machines have been placed at the disposal of the officers. No class distinctions have been drawn. The mechanic or grocery store clerk is on an equal footing with the youth who came from a Fifth avenue home or a Ritz-Carlton apartment.

Few of Reservists in Barracks.

Today fewer than 500 reservists are housed in barracks. Fully 2000 are quartered either with private families, in boarding houses, in church halls or in the local armory, which has been converted into a drill shed and headquarters. A majority of the young men attend church. Classes of 200 each have been organized to study French under the tutelage of nuns from the Roman Catholic Convent of the Cenacle.

Newport, which has an all-year-round population of about 30,000, has 50 saloons, all of which have observed the regulation against selling liquor to men in uniform. Bootlegging has been virtually stamped out by the police, who say that the only illegal sales of liquor were made to apprentice seamen of the regularly enlisted class, about 6000 of whom are in training at the Newport barracks.

INQUEST HELD INTO DEATH OF MRS. PAULINE KEYES

Relatives of Miss Varney, Arrested on Murder Charge, Say They Thought She Was Keyes' Wife.

BROOKLINE, Mass., June 29.—An inquest was held today into the death of Mrs. Pauline Keyes, wife of George H. Keyes, a real estate operator, whose body, with bullet wounds in the head and hand, was found in her apartment here on June 19. Miss Harriet A. Varney, who was arrested at Upton on June 26, pleaded not guilty to the charge of having murdered Mrs. Keyes and is now in the county jail at Dedham awaiting a hearing on July 6.

Relatives of Miss Varney have told the police that she was believed by them to be the wife of Keyes. For some time before and after the death of the Brookline woman Miss Varney made her home with a married sister in Upton, where Keyes is said to have made frequent visits. She was absent from that town on the day of Mrs. Keyes' death.

The dead woman was Keyes' second wife and was married to him last year. He obtained a divorce from his first wife in 1914 on the grounds of desertion.

Lost Child Not in Box Car.

CHICAGO, June 29.—Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul box car 590,009, in which it was thought 5-year-old Willie McLean of Superior, Wis., might have been carried away, was opened at Savanna, Ill., last night. No trace of the child was found.

THAW SAID TO HAVE SETTLED WITH GUMPS FOR $175,000

Also Reported That His Mother Has Sold Lyndhurst, Her Beautiful Pittsburg Home.

PITTSBURG, June 29.—Coincident with the report reaching here today from Kansas City that Harry Thaw had effected a settlement with the Gump family for the beating he is alleged to have inflicted on young Frederick Gump in a New York hotel, came the announcement that Lyndhurst, the beautiful Thaw home on the Richwood boulebard, had been sold by Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw, at a price reported to be $250,000.

According to the report, Thaw's agents are alleged to have paid young Gump's family $175,000 to withdraw the charges now pending in the courts of New York against him. Former Gov. William A. Stone, legal representative for the Thaw family, stated last night that there was no truth in the reported Gump settlement.

Lyndhurst is one of the most beautiful homes in the city. The property contains nine acres in one of the most exclusive sections. The house was built by the late William Thaw.

Ogden L. Mills to Enter War.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—State Senator Ogden L. Mills, a linguist, has abandoned New York political and business life to enter the war. He has take nup residence in Washington and is working at the war college preparatory to be appointed a staff officer. As soon as he receives his commission in the army he will resign from the State Senate. He hopes to be sent to France for active service.

Boy Badly Hurt by Street Car.

William Walsh, 5 years old, of 4358 Finney avenue, son of William Walsh, a cafe owner, is in a serious condition at the Missouri Baptist Sanitarium from injuries received when struck by a Page street car last evening. The child was running across the street in front of the cafe.

Budapest Parade for Woman Suffrage

LONDON, June 29.—Budapest dispatches report a great demonstration in Budapest in a demand for universal, equal and woman suffrage. Twenty-five thousand persons marched in procession through the principal streets. There was some rioting and windows were broken and the police had some difficulty in dispersing the crowds.

OVER CONRADS GROCERY

Dr. Ferdinand King, New York Physician and Medical Author, Says:

EVERY WOMAN
EVERY MOTHER
EVERY DAUGHTER NEEDS IRON AT TIMES

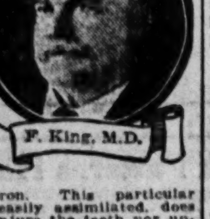
To put strength into her nerves and color into her cheeks.



F. King, M.D.

There can be no beautiful, healthy, rosy-cheeked women without iron. The trouble in the past has been that when women needed iron they generally took ordinary metallic iron, which often corroded the stomach and did far more harm than good. Today doctors prescribe organic iron—Nuxated Iron. This particular form of iron is easily assimilated, does not blacken nor injure the teeth nor upset the stomach. It will increase the strength and endurance of weak, nervous, irritable, careworn, haggard-looking women 100 per cent in two weeks' time in many instances. I have used it in my own practice with most surprising results.—Ferdinand King, M. D.

NOTE. NUXATED IRON recommended above by Dr. Ferdinand King can be obtained from any good druggist with an absolute guarantee of success or money refunded. It is dispensed in this city by Judge & Dolph Drug Co., Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., Johnson-Enderle-Pauley Drug Co., Keiffer Drug Co. and all good druggists.—ADVERTISEMENT.

GIRL'S SCHOOLMATES GUESTS AT LUNCHEON

Affair Given by Mrs. R. S. Bradshaw for Her Daughter at Ridgeway Country Club.

A LUNCHEON was given today at Ridgedale Country Club by Mrs. R. S. Bradshaw of 5023 Washington boulevard for her daughter, Miss Cecille Bradshaw, who returned from Vassar, where she has been a student, about a week ago.

The guests were about 16 of the girls who have returned from college and former classmates at Mary Institute. They included Misses Ellen Lee Hoffman, Elizabeth Holladay, Beatrice Douglas, Gertrude McDonald, Eleanor Cozzens, Lila and Esther Capen, Margaret Culver, Mildred Bleyer, Helen Wulfner, Dorothy Danforth, Rosalind Thomas, Helen Banister and Mary Edwards.

Social Items

Miss Katherine Berthoud Clifford's wedding tomorrow evening to Truman Post Young will be one of the most notable nuptial events of the season.

The ceremony will be in the evening, at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Robert Clifford, at 4415 West Pine boulevard, at 8:30 o'clock. The Rev. Dr. Z. B. T. Phillips of St. Peter's Episcopal Church will officiate.

It will be a white wedding, with the bridemaids' frocks and flowers and the decorations all in white.

Mrs. Audenreid Whittemore will be matron of honor and Misses Anne Farrar and Louis Knapp bridemaids. Dr. Henry McClure Young will be his brother's best man and Dr. Hayward Post and Berthoud Clifford will be groomsmen.

The ushers will be Messrs. Robert C. Grier, Paul Janis, John R. Denvir Jr., Warren Jones, Ralph Campbell and Douglas Turner.

The marriage of Miss Mabel Neustadt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Neustadt of 5213 Wells avenue, to Earl E. Fay, will be celebrated tomorrow evening at the home of the bride at 8 o'clock. The Rev. Samuel E. Ewing of the Missouri State Baptist Missionary Board will be the officiating clergyman.

Mrs. George Eldridge will be matron of honor and Mr. Eldridge will be best man. The bride and bridegroom served as attendants at their wedding in February. Misses Mary Davis and Josephine Few will be bridemaids, and will hold the ribbons to form the aisle.

Mr. Fay is the son of E. L. Fay. He and his bride will spend their honeymoon in the East.

Before leaving for your summer vacation, order the POST-DISPATCH sent to your summer home. It will be mailed you regularly if you give your order to your carrier, or notify us by mail, or you can phone if more convenient—Olive or Central 6600, POST-DISPATCH Circulation Department.

Miss Ethel Neuhoff and Garner West Penny will be married tomorrow evening at the Maple Avenue Methodist Church, the Rev. E. Combie Smith officiating.

The bride will have her sister-in-law, Mrs. George Neuhoff Jr., for her matron of honor, and the bridemaids will be Misses Helen Murray, Mildred Yule, Helen Banister, Marjorie Abbott and Josephine Fritsch. Little Miss Frances Cunliff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Cunliff, will be flower girl, and Merriam Heffern will be ring bearer. John Penny will be his brother's best man.

The ceremony will be followed by a reception at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Hector Neuhoff, at 5456 Maple avenue.

One of the interesting social and musical events of tomorrow will be the recital at the Odeon for the benefit of the Russell Home for Aged Women.

Marie Sundelius, soprano of the Metropolitan Opera, assisted by James Cuyler Black, will be the solo artists.

It will be the first benefit affair ever given for the Russell Home, which is at 3217 Washington avenue, and one of the most deserving charities in St. Louis. Its appeal should be far-reaching.

Mrs. James H. Wear of the Oxford Apartments, will depart Monday for Kennebunk Port, Me., where she will spend the summer at the Old Fort Hotel, as has been her custom for a number of years. She will go by way of Philadelphia to visit her son, Joseph W. Wear and Mrs. Wear at Chestnut Hill, and take their boy, Potter Wear, on with her to Kennebunk, where Mr. and Mrs. Wear will join them in August.

Miss Frances Garrison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Garrison of 5240 Westminster place, has returned from Pittsburg, where she went to join a house party after the close of Miss Wright's school at Bryn Mawr, where she was graduated in June.

Miss Garrison will go to New York in the Autumn for a course of music and languages. She is a pianist of unusual talent.

Mrs. J. R. Curlee of Kirkwood and her daughter, Miss Eleanor Curlee, left last night for their summer home at Harbor Beach, Mich.

Miss Mary Lee, who has been visiting Miss Mary Edwards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Lockett Edwards of Kirkwood, Mo., has returned to her home in Bowling Green, Ky.

Eugene H. Abadie has received an appointment in the Engineer Corps with the rank of Major, and is awaiting orders. Maj. Abadie's father, the late Eugene Solignac Abadie, was one of the organizers of the St. Louis Light Cavalry Company, which the old Armory housed and which was a crack troop when Company E was competing in drills all over the country with the famous Chickasaw Guards of Memphis, Tenn.

34TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE KROGER PLAN

Which is, that the real way to ECONOMY is for the housewife to take her market basket to the store, select the articles she desires, Pay Cash and be independent. This fact is now becoming more and more a realization during the present time—newspapers, retailers and the housewives everywhere are advocating this very plan. The Kroger Company has for the past FIVE years forcibly brought this plan of marketing before the St. Louis housewife, and those who have taken advantage of this system are happy in the realization that they do not have to be cautioned and advised as to the proper methods of buying. ARE YOU A KROGER CUSTOMER? If not you do not know how we are combating the exorbitant prices of the present day, with real Quality Products at prices that are remarkable. To prove this assertion, we would suggest that you become a Kroger Customer for one week. At the end of this time compare the prices with what you formerly paid, and you will be surprised at the saving. ONCE A KROGER CUSTOMER ALWAYS A KROGER CUSTOMER.

THREE MEN ENTER SALOON AND KILL MAN AT THE BAR

Fire Eight Bullets Into Him From Behind, Drag Body to Sidewalk and Flee.

MURDER IS UNEXPLAINED

Police Think Mistake May Have Been Made; Bartender's Story Contradicts Theory.

Three men entered a saloon at 1401 Chouteau avenue at 12:30 this morning and fired eight bullets into a drunken man, Joseph Ralph of 407 South Fourteenth street, who was leaning against the bar, drinking soda because the bartender had refused to sell him any more whisky or beer. Then they dragged Ralph's dead body through the door, dumped it on the sidewalk and fled.

The police have not found any satisfactory explanation for the murder of Ralph, so they have taken the view that he was killed through mistake by gangsters who were after someone else.

Another Man in Place.

Peter Niesen of 1012 Chouteau avenue, who was questioned by the police in connection with the gang-feud killing of John (Bo) O'Brien, a few weeks ago, was in the saloon at the time Ralph was killed. The police think the men may have been looking for Niesen, and in support of this theory it is said that Ralph and Niesen had a general resemblance.

Niesen was standing by the electric piano in the saloon when the men entered at the rear door and began firing at Ralph, whose back was toward them.

Niesen fled after the first shot was fired, going out of the front door. He was later taken to police headquarters. He refused, after the manner of witnesses in gang murder cases, to tell the police anything, and was held. The killing of O'Brien occurred near the scene of the Ralph murder.

The bartender said he did not believe the murderers mistook Ralph for anyone else. He said the man who fired the first shot was near enough to Ralph to recognize him. The bartender dropped to cover after the first shot.

Ralph Once a Strikebreaker.

Ralph was a teamster, employed by a wholesale grocery firm. His widow said today that he worked in Chicago two and a half years ago as a strike-breaker, and that he had been reproached for this by men in St. Louis who knew of the fact. She also told that her husband, a few weeks ago, knocked down a man who had affronted her. She has a 2-year-old daughter.

PREDICTS STRIKE IN CANADA IF CONSCRIPTION ACT PASSES

Labor Member of House Demands Popular Vote on Measure, Saying Workingmen Have Been Ignored.

OTTAWA, Ontario, June 29.—The declaration that a general strike of organized labor in Canada will be called if the Government attempts to apply conscription without first obtaining the consent of a majority of the people, was made in Parliament last night by Alphonse Verville, who represents the district of Maisonneuve, part of the city of Montreal. He is the only labor member of the Canadian House and for many years was president of the Canadian Trades and Labor Congress. Verville declared that, in striking, Canadian labor would have the support of organized labor in the United States, although there would be no strike there.

"Passage and application of this measure means a general strike and it means national calamity," said Verville. "Even if there is exemption there will be no change in labor's determination. It is a matter of principle."

In Canada, Verville said, Premier Borden had followed a different course than that pursued by President Wilson in seeking counsel from American labor "Organized labor has been ignored since the war began," he asserted.

CIRCULAR KNIVES TO CUT WIRE ON NEW GERMAN U-BOAT

Captain of Torpedoed Vessel Sketches Device Designed to Bring Release From Nets.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BASE OF THE AMERICAN FLOTILLA IN BRITISH WATERS, June 29.—The Captain of a torpedoed merchantman has turned over to the naval authorities here a sketch of a new type of German submarine, equipped with a wire-cutting device designed to release it from nets. The sketch shows several strands of stout steel hawsers stretched from the bow through the conning tower to the stern. Attached to these is a series of heavy circular knives, a foot in diameter and placed about a yard apart.

The Captain made the drawing while in a small boat after his ship had been torpedoed. He had been shelled and torpedoed in two other ships, but on neither of these occasions had he noticed anything new in the type of the German diving boats.

The theory of the Captain is that a boat so equipped would have hope of being able to cut its way through any steel nets in which it might become enmeshed.

Boy Kills Father Attacking Mother

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., June 29.—Sam Holman, farmer, of Mansfield, is dead from the effects of a blow on the head struck by his 17-year-old son, Preston, in defense of his mother. Holman was injured June 20. The husband had knocked his wife down and was striking her in the face when the son seized an iron bar and struck him.

ST. LOUIS WOMAN IN RUSSIA WRITES OF THE REVOLUTION

Declares People Were Never Disorderly, Which She Attributes to Prohibition.

FIGHTING NEAR HOME

Mrs. Charles Haddin Smith Describes Events in Petrograd in February.

A St. Louis woman's impressions of the great Russian Revolution are described in a letter which Miss Nellie Brooks Johnson, daughter of J. Brooks Johnson of 5855 Cates avenue, has just received from Mrs. Charles Haddin Smith, who has been living in Petrograd for 14 months.

"I am so proud of Wilson and America," is the closing paragraph of Mrs. Smith's letter, which was written April 14, just after President Wilson had called upon Congress to declare war upon Germany.

Mrs. Smith's husband, Charles Haddin Smith, was for many years a civil engineer connected with the Missouri Pacific and other railroads. Copies of the Post-Dispatch containing reports of all the big news events of the war are regularly sent to Mr. and Mrs. Smith by Miss Johnson's father. Mrs. Smith's letter follows:

"We think that we have been through a very interesting experience in regard to the revolution.

"We are filled with admiration for the Russian people. They did a wonderful thing when they transformed the greatest autocracy that the world has ever known into a republic and did it in an orderly manner, and so suddenly and quickly that I cannot realize the change even yet. We live near the Duma, where the scene of action was the greatest, so that I speak from experience.

People Never Wild.

"The people were never wild and disorderly, but merely wanted justice. In fact, on Saturday, Feb. 26, bread was all that they demanded. We can attribute part of their sober, calm demeanor to the fact that Russia has prohibition. Men were not acting under alcoholic stimulants. Although the Russian people are naturally kind and law-abiding, I am sure a different story would have been told if men had been crazed by drink. And it might have been a reign of terror.

"When the old regime had fallen and the authority and law was practically in the hands of the people, there was no cry for vengeance. When the former ministry and others in power, together with the royal family were arrested and taken to the Duma, there was no cry for blood, although the Russian people had been cruelly betrayed by those very people. It is more astounding that the people did not abuse the power thus suddenly transferred to them, when it is remembered that they had never had even the slightest freedom of speech. Certainly history has not repeated itself in this instance. There would have been practically no lives lost if the detested secret police of Petrograd had not fired on the people. It was evident that the soldiers were with the people on Monday. Saturday they were not, although there was no firing. The Cossacks were out with whips, but did not make much use of them. In former times uprisings had been quelled by this means.

"On Sunday a Finland regiment began firing on the Volinsky regiment, which had turned to the side of the people. But soon the Finland regiment also went over to the people. From then on regiments continued to take up the cause of the people. Monday the revolutionists seized the public utilities, arrested the ministry and placed the power in the hands of the Duma. A temporary committee of wonderfully capable men from the Duma, Workmen's and Soldiers' Deputies was formed, who directed the affairs of the Government from then on. It was thrilling to see regiment after regiment march to the Tauride Palace and offer their services to the Duma.

"Manifestoes were immediately issued by the Duma which were distributed all over the city, free of charge, by soldiers in automobiles. Thus the people were kept informed of the progress of affairs. The regular daily papers were not issued during the revolution. Soldiers with cocked pistols and guns patrolled the streets in automobiles, searching for the secret police and gendarmes, who were concealed in garrets and on roofs of buildings and who fired on the soldiers and people.

Fighting Near Residence.

"Several hundred people and soldiers were killed before the police were forced to surrender. This feeble resistance was the only attempt by the old Government to retain the authority. The Czar abdicated at once. Some of the police were barricaded in a bank building, but a few steps from our apartment, and we could hear the pop, pop, pop of the machine guns as the soldiers and police battled.

"The revolutionists burned the police station, the Palace of Justice, from where so many people had been condemned to exile, and broke down the doors of the Peter and Paul fortress and freed the political prisoners, some of whom had passed many years in underground cells.

"Some shop windows were broken, but I have told you practically all of the damage done. The royal palaces were unharmed. The big iron gates to the grounds of the Winter Palace bear the royal crest in gold. These crests were untouched, simply covered over with the red flag of the revolution.

"We were never without lights and water. The street cars did not run for about a week, and by that time business houses were opened and conditions were normal. About the only difference to be noted was the substitution of national for imperial on signs and public buildings and the red flag of the revolution on public buildings and tramways. Undoubtedly Russia has problems to solve, but I believe she will solve them in time. Public opinion, which has received so little consideration heretofore, will be a big factor of the nation from now on, I am sure.

"We were able to translate the papers or manifestoes as they were published, which made the revolution more interesting to us. Our maid would bring them to us as the new ones came out.

"We are now in the Easter season, which is most interesting.

"I wrote you and Charles wrote your father how much we enjoyed his papers and how kind in him to send them. Just the other day we received those on the breaking of diplomatic relations with Germany. It was so interesting to read about it in a home paper.

CONSTANTINE'S BROTHER TO WED

LONDON, June 29.—Special dispatches from Athens say Prince Christopher, brother of former King Constantine of Greece, is coming to London to marry a rich American. The Daily Chronicle gives the name of Miss Lits without details as to her identity.

The Prince, 29 years old, and an ex-sub-Lieutenant of the Grecian infantry, has twice been reported engaged, each time to a wealthy American.

Rheims Cathedral Bombarded.

PARIS, June 29.—The official statement issued last night said: "The Germans continued to bombard Rheims, into which 1200 shells were fired today, eight on the Cathedral."

Tomorrow evening, starting at 8 o'clock, one of the most promising benefit affairs thus far arranged in the current season's Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund campaign will take place in the Memorial Congregational Church, Graham avenue and Victoria street.

The main program number, a dramatization of Louise M. Alcott's "Little Women," which is well adapted to presentation by children, is to be supplemented by a miscellaneous array of attractive vocal and instrumental music and recitations, also two picturesque tableaux.

For this ambitious affair the children have been preparing themselves for several weeks, directed by Dorothy May of 6130 Crescent avenue, a young miss of widely recognized capacity for organizing and perfecting entertainments. From the outset the young people have been imbued with a resolute purpose to leave no detail to chance. They have carefully arranged for every essential effect, and these have been studied with an understanding that leaves no doubt as to the artistic outcome.

The admission charges are 5 and 10 cents, and the readiness with which residents in a large district adjacent to the church have bought tickets insures an audience that will fill the spacious edifice.

Arguer Bites Man on Cheek.

Carrol McHugh, 22 years old, of 1525 Chouteau avenue, last night applied at the city dispensary for treatment of a wound on his right cheek. He explained that he had been bitten by a man with whom he had argued at Fourteenth and Pine streets.

IOWA AVIATOR, REPORTED DEAD, ONLY WOUNDED BY 8 GERMANS

Shot Through Lung, J. N. Hall Brings Airplane to Ground Safely, and Faints.

PARIS, June 29.—Corporal James Normal Hall, American aviator and member of the Lafayette Flying Squadron, who was reported killed in an encounter with German airplanes, is only wounded and there are hopes of his recovery.

Hall was flying over the German lines when attacked by a German biplane. After a hot encounter, seven other German machines came to the assistance of the biplane and in this unequal fight Hall was shot through the lung. He managed to bring his machine down within the French lines. He fainted just before landing, but had strength enough and presence of mind to cut off the gasoline and ease the landing so that the machine was not destroyed.

Hall was picked up and taken to a hospital, where he is under treatment. In addition to the shot in the lung he received a bullet cut across the forehead.

The military authorities are deeply interested, as Hall is considered one of the most daring of the squadron. He is a son of Mrs. A. W. Hall of Colfax, Io.

SENATE TAKES UP BOND ISSUE

Stone Proposes $500,000,000 Additional Securities to Meet Expenses.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—The Senate Finance Committee today considered the question of an adidtional wartime bond issue of half a billion dollars proposed by Senator Stone. It was said today that the revenues will fall short by at least $300,000,000 of meeting the ensuing year's war expenses, should the plan for an additional loan of $500,000,000 fail.

The committee expects to raise $300,000,000 from excess profits taxes.

UNCLE SAM KNOWS WHAT HE IS DOING

So he has set aside a number of our choicest scenic possessions as National Parks or Playgrounds, where Nature holds court and all may come and receive the boon of rest and health and happiness.

The Secretary of the Department of Interior advises that our National Parks will be open as usual this year. He believes that the entrance of the United States into war will not materially affect western tourist travel.

He points out that it is even more important now than in time of peace that the health and vitality of the nation's citizenship be conserved, that rest and recreation must materially assist in this conservation of human tissue and energy.

The most easily accessible of all our National Parks is the new Rocky Mountain National Park (Estes Park) in Colorado, only 70 miles Northwest of Denver—just a pleasant motor trip after you step from one of the all-steel trains of the Rock Island Lines.

Round trip fares of only $27.50 from St. Louis to the park, and you can take in Colorado Springs, Pike's Peak Region, while away, without additional expense of fare.

Let us help you plan your vacation this Summer. We shall be pleased to furnish you on request our special illustrated literature, giving you all the details about the trip, where to go, what to see, and just how little you need to pay.

WRITER TELLS OF THE WORK OF ADMIRAL SIMS

Declares It Was He Who Put "Gun in Gunnery," Made U. S. Navy Efficient.

APPEALED TO ROOSEVELT

Went Over His Superiors to Get System of Fleet Maneuvers Adopted.

Rear Admiral William Snowden Sims, hief American naval commander in e European war zone, is the subject f an article by Henry Reuterdahl in his week's issue of the Saturday Evening Post. "The Cheer-up Admiral" is e title of the article. Rear Admiral ims is known to St. Louisans through is wife, who was formerly Miss Anne itchcock, daughter of the late Ethan Allen Hitchcock, one-time Ambassador o Russia and Secretary of the Interior. Reuterdahl, who is the best known f American writers on naval subjects, ays in the article, "All I know of matters naval I have learned from him" (Sims). He says he has tried to arry to the public Sims' message for a better navy, but that he has never been ermitted to tell anything about Sims, but he adds that now, having known Sims quite intimately for 17 years, he s going to "tell on him" and to "reveal the greatness of a man known nly to the silent men of his own profession."

"Sims belongs to the silent workers, he midnight oil burners, the great contructors of big things," Reuterdahl writes. "So far as the public is concerned, he is the x of our navy, known o his confreres only; but, of course, well known to the British Admiralty, and heretofore almost unknown to the man in the street, whether in New York r London.

Put "Gun in Gunnery."

"To a man, naval officers believe that ims laid the foundation of the navy's efficiency. He put the new American navy upon the seas. He made it efficient. He laid down the formula. To evert to slang, he put 'gun in gunnery;' he made the ships hit the target; and he ore the honest but old-fashioned bureaucracy of yesterday to tatters. He destroyed; but he built up."

He shows Sims' spirit by his words, poken before the House naval Committee, in explaining why, as a naval lieutenant, he went over the heads of his superiors and complained to President Roosevelt about the navy's bad target practice system.

"It was the rankest insubordination," Sims said of his own action, "but, according to my ideas, when a situation like this arises, where you know you are absolutely right, and where there is nothing doing, complete military subordination becomes cowardice."

Sims' dissatisfaction with the methods prevailing in the navy, Reuterdahl relates, began when he was naval attache in Paris during the Spanish War, and saw what other big navies were doing. In 1900, as a "young" Lieutenant—he was 42 years old then—Sims reported for duty on the new ship Kentucky, known then as the pride of the navy. Sims discovered, he says, that the Kentucky was nearly everything that a battleship should not be. In his opinion, the Kentucky was only a disguised monitor, with unprotected guns and open turrets.

Sims "hammered the Kentucky to bits on his typewriter," Reuterdahl said, making himself seriously disliked by his reports to the Navy Department on this subject. Later, with the same typewriter, Sims began to demand that the British system of target practice be introduced, instead of the system in use, his chief argument being a demonstration "that the British could shoot, and that we could not."

His reports on this subject were pigeonholed in the department, and Sims committed the "rankest insubordination" by appealing to the President. The President ordered five battleships t target practice, found out for himsel that they could not shoot, and called Sims from China to make him the navy's first Inspector of Target Practice. Later, in an interview, President Roosevel said to Reuterdahl:

"Commander Sims has done more fo target practice than any other man i the United States. It is chiefly due t him that we shoot as well as we do. I is humiliating to think what poor shot we were during the Spanish War!"

Changed Design System.

Sims insisted on abandonment of th system by which the designs of ship were fixed by men who did not go t sea. He shows Sims' spirit by his words, spoken before the House naval Committee, in explaining why, as a naval lieutenant, he went over the heads of his superiors and complained to President Roosevelt about the navy's bad target practice system.

"It was the rankest insubordination," Sims said of his own action, "but, according to my ideas, when a situation like this arises, where you know you are absolutely right, and where there is nothing doing, complete military subordination becomes cowardice."

Sims' dissatisfaction with the methods prevailing in the navy, Reuterdahl relates, began when he was naval attache in Paris during the Spanish War, and saw what other big navies were doing. "Commander Sims has done more for target practice than any other man in the United States. It is chiefly due to him that we shoot as well as we do. It is humiliating to think what poor shots we were during the Spanish War!"

Changed Design System.

Sims insisted on abandonment of the system by which the designs of ships were fixed by men who did not go to sea. At this time, Reuterdahl writes, there were no fleet maneuvers, and "it was getting to be a white-painted fleet going from one summer resort to another." The bureau system resisted, but Roosevelt decided in favor of Sims' get-busy policy, and it became mandatory that the military characteristics of future fighting ships should be determined by sea-going officers.

"And the man?" Reuterdahl writes. "Tall, slim, square-shouldered, over six feet, strong as an ox—with a sharp eye; not an American face; hair and beard streaked with gray; large forehead. Kind, witty, sharp—he speaks French like a Parisian. Seldom at the theater; just a plugger, giving never a thought to display. Sits on the floor playing with the new baby. He rode to the college on a bicycle, sometimes taking one of his children on the handle bars. Mrs. Sims has to remind him that his clothes are getting baggy or his uniforms tarnished. Writes a letter home every day.

"Sims never played safe. His enthusiasm and fearlessness were backed by knowledge. Sure of his facts, he broke the way. His wits were ready and he won out. Powerful in mind, unflagging in energy, strong in body, he wore down hostile opposition; but always with a 'Cheer up!' The beauty of Sims is that he never fought for himself, but always for the navy. To him money meant nothing. Throughout his career he refused higher pay and fine jobs from corporations ashore.

"Never once has Sims believed that there could be other than one outcome of the war. The British sea power must win in the end." The writer goes on to quote Sims on British superiority and on the possibility of a hostile raid on the American coast, as follows:

"The declared policy of the Germans was that the British fleet was to be reduced by a war of attrition until the German fleet could come out of port and give battle. See Bernhardi, Von Tirpitz, etc.

"In this they have failed utterly. The British fleet is relatively much stronger than in 1914 and getting stronger all the time. It is the German navy that has failed in aggressiveness; and it is the superior British seamanship and strategy that have won out. In consequence they are blockaded and their supplies shut off.

"No navy can be strong enough to prevent occasional raids upon its coast by a very inferior navy. This is due to the fundamental necessity of keeping the main fleet concentrated, so that it may not be defeated in detail in case the enemy's fleet makes a sortie."

BRITISH MESOPOTAMIAN ARMY NOW ADMIRABLY PROVIDED FOR

LONDON, June 29.—The military correspondent of the Times gives a detailed account of present conditions of the British forces in Mesopotamia, showing a complete contrast with the revelations in the report on the Mesopotamian expedition made public Tuesday night in the blue book. The correspondent says the army there now is admirably provided and medical arrangements are thoroughly satisfactory.

A great change has occurred in India, which still is the base of the expedition, although control has been transferred to the War Office at London. Bombay is the base depot and is most efficiently administered.

India, the correspondent says, is now doing more than she is receiving credit for. Her Government, recognizing the slackness of the past, determined to do all humanly possible and an altogether new spirit has arisen.

The writer says that, in consequence of the inaction of the Russian army in Caucasus, the situation of Gen. Maude, Commander in Chief, is radically changed. Had the Russian offensive under Gen. Yudevitch, former Commander in Chief of the Caucasus, been prosecuted, the Anglo-Indian army would now form the left flank of the Russian line. Gen. Yudevitch was removed and no offensive took place.

Summer School for Stammerers.

Miss Eleanor F. Naughten will have charge of a summer school for stammerers in St. Louis during July and August. For the past five years Miss Naughten has been in the speech improvement department of the Pittsburg schools, giving her time exclusively to the correction of speech defects. The school will include not only stammerers and stutterers, but also others having any speech impediments. Miss Naughten will meet those interested at the Washington Hotel on Monday, July 2, between the hours of 9 a. m. and 9 p. m.—ADV.

TWO MEN IDENTIFIED AS WEST END ROBBERS

Arrested Shortly After Attempt Is Made to Hold Up Druggist.

Earl Hunter, 29 years old, and Albert D. Inman, 28, who say they live at the Stratford Hotel, Eighth and Pine streets, are held by the police, following identifications by three men, two of whom were waylaid in the West End last night and one Wednesday night.

They were arrested at 12:10 a. m. today in front of 4230 Olive street, shortly after highwaymen had attempted to rob Charles Remington, a druggist, at 4501 Olive street, near his store. One of the highwaymen had a revolver and the other a "billy."

The man with the "billy" attempted to strike Remington. He ducked and slipped to the sidewalk and drawing a revolver he fired five shots at the robbers. As they fled one of the highwaymen fired at Remington.

When Hunter and Inman were arrested Hunter had a revolver with five loaded shells and one empty and Inman had a "billy." Remington identified Inman as the man who shot at him.

At 11:30 p. m. Dr. Frank M. Wilson of 4530A Arco avenue was held up by two men with a revolver and a "billy" and robbed of $1.60 at Euclid and McKinley avenues, a few blocks from where Remington was waylaid. Dr. Wilson identified Hunter and Inman as the men who robbed him.

They also were identified by Charles Muehlhausen of 4236 Morgan street, who was waylaid and knocked unconscious with a "billy" at Whittier and Olive streets Wednesday night.

Hunter, when arrested, gave his occupation as bookkeeper. He and Inman made a general denial of the robbery charges.

"WHY WE ARE FIGHTING," AS TOLD BY GEN. PETAIN

" 'To Drive Enemy Out and Prevent Repetition of Unprovoked Assault'—'Germany Wants Peace Full of Profit.' "

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 29.—Gen. Petain's first article on "Why We Are Fighting," which appeared Wednesday in the French Army Bulletin, is summarized by the official bureau of French information, which has its headquarters in this city, and printed in the New York Times today, as follows:

Petain begins by saying: "We are fighting in order to drive the enemy from our territory, and, by a firm and complete peace, to prevent such an unprovoked assault from ever being repeated.

"We are fighting because by a cowardly withdrawal we would criminally betray both our dead and our posterity.

"We are fighting so that peace may restore to our country a freedom of action and inspire a responsibility which, were the war to have a bad ending, would be much worse than what our people suffer today."

Petain then traces the origin of the war, sketches the history of events of the summer of 1914, and recalls efforts made by France, Russia and England to avoid the conflict. He writes:

"As early as July 29 Nicholas had, by a personal dispatch to William, offered to submit the problem to The Hague Tribunal. William rejected the offer, but, doubtless being conscious of the crime he had committed, suppressed this very important dispatch in the German White Book.

"That is confession. When Vienna was, perhaps, on the point of negotiating, William hastened to force the conflict by declaring war on Russia before Austria could even act and to the despair of the entire world.

Wished War for Years.

"It is, indeed, true that for many years Germany had wished to make war on Russia and France. For a long time she had been preparing to the smallest detail for a simultaneous invasion of both countries by the organization of a spy service entirely unprecedented and by the most complete military organization."

Petain shows that while the French Government issued orders keeping its soldiers 10 kilometers back of the frontier, the Germans took advantage of them at several points without a declaration of war. Then the declaration of war was made under the pretext that French aviators had dropped bombs on Nuremberg. The General passes to the violation of Belgian neutrality, saying:

"Germany had the hope to crush us in a few months. Traitorously attacking through Belgium and with formidable forces, she believed she could certainly be in Paris long before England could send anything else than a 'miserable little army.'

"What Germany desired the Pan-Germanists demonstrated. In particular she desired, besides our departments of Nord and Est, Flanders, Artois, Lorraine, our most valuable mineral, industrial and agricultural resources, and to extort from us 10 times the gold that she got in 1871.

Wants Peace of Power.

"Beaten on the Marne and Yser, stopped at Verdun, obliged by many defeats to yield ground, besieged by almost all of Europe, has Germany renounced this odious dream?

"Not in the least. The more we have inflicted severe losses upon her, the more does she desire compensations.

"Doubtless humiliated by her defeats, starved by the blockade, bleeding ever in her battles, does she desire peace?

"But she wants it full of honor, that is to say, full of profits. It is such a peace she has pretended to offer us—a peace of prey.

"Proof of Germany's bad faith is in her reply to President Wilson when she refused to set forth her aims in the war—proof that they could not be revealed. That is to say, because Germany does not dare to lay them before the world today. She maintains all her pretension. She desired war in order to realize them. The only one in Europe prepared for it, she alone desired it, brought it about, precipitated it, decreed it, and rendered it inexplicable by her procedure, atrocious by her methods.

"By keeping secret and having no honest desire to declare her superlative pretensions for domination, she stands as sole obstacle to peace."

COOK, ENEMY ALIEN HELD HERE, SAYS WILSON LIKES HIS PIES

Man Says He Worked in a Princeton Restaurant, and Declares He Loves the President.

Though President Wilson hates German spies, he once loved a German's pies, according to Oscar Keller, of 923 Pine street, the first enemy alien arrested in St. Louis on a charge of entering a barred zone.

Keller up to the time of his arrest was pastry cook at the Mercantile Club. In jail today he said he knew President Wilson about 20 years ago. Keller then was pastry cook in Renwick's restaurant at Princeton, he said, and the President was a professor at the University there.

"I knew him," said Keller, "and I love him. He was always pleasant and he would nod and smile at me. He ate many a pie and cake that I baked. I also knew President Cleveland, whose home was at Princeton."

MAPLEWOOD FATS AND LEANS TO PLAY BASEBALL TOMORROW

Proceeds of Annual Game Will Go to Charity Organization of Town.

The Fats and Leans of Maplewood will give their annual exhibition of baseball tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock at the St. Louis University Field, King's highway and Manchester avenue. The game will be preceded by an automobile parade, which will leave the Maplewood loop at 1:30. A band from the Fifth Regiment will play.

The Leans won last year, which tied the score in games at five each. Every participant is a member of the Maplewood Fat and Lean Charity Baseball Association. The proceeds of the game go to furnish food, clothes and medical attention to the needy of Maplewood.

FIVE FRENCH SHIPS SUNK

PARIS, June 29.—Two French merchantmen of more than 1600 tons and three of less than that size were sunk by submarines or mines in the week ending June 24, according to the weekly announcement issued here today. In that time there were 1088 arrivals at French ports and 969 sailings.

Bonus for Santa Fe Employes.

CHICAGO, June 29.—Announcement has been made here that part of the employes of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway will receive a bonus of 10 per cent of their salaries for the last six months of the year. Excluded will be employes who benefited by the Adamson law, others working under schedules or contracts made by collective bargaining, and those who receive salaries in excess of $5000, or whose pay for the six months exceeds $2500.

CUT IN COAL TO SAVE MILLIONS TO PUBLIC

Mine Price East of Mississippi on Soft Variety $1 to $5; Anthracite Problem Next.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—Reductions in the price of bituminous coal at all mines east of the Mississippi River ranging from $1 to $5 a ton to the public, with a further cut of 50 cents for the Government, will become effective July 1.

Four hundred operators gathered here at a call from Secretary Lane and pledged themselves to furnish their product at a reasonable price. Before the reductions were announced yesterday they had agreed to place the price fixing in the hands of the Government, through the Defense Council's Coal Production Committee, Secretary Lane and Commissioner Fort of the Federal Trade Commission.

Director Smith of the Geological Survey estimated that the reduced prices would mean that the operators would get $180,000,000 less annually for their output and that the saving to the Government and the coal consuming public would be even greater.

In addition to placing prices upon coal at the mines, it was announced that jobbers, brokers, retailers and commission men would be permitted to charge commissions of not more than 25 cents a ton and that no more than one commission should be charged. In other words the consumer will get his coal at the mine price plus transportation charges and 25 cents a ton.

The agreement does not affect anthracite and action on that problem has been postponed to July 1.

Illinois and Indiana reduced their prices to $2.75 for coal as it came from the mine.

Only the districts west of Illinois—Iowa, Wyoming, Colorado, Oklahoma and the Southwest—which were not represented, remain yet to be accounted for, and there is no doubt in the minds of officials that these districts will agree to the price reduction.

The prices do not apply to coal for export or for bunkers and, of course, do not affect contracts or sales made before July 1.

GREAT HOPE OF VICTORY IN AIRPLANE, NORTHCLIFFE SAYS

British Publisher Predicts American Auto Factories Will Be Commandeered for Manufacture of Aircraft Parts.

NEW YORK, June 29.—"What this war needs most is the combination of brains and speed," said Lord Northcliffe at a luncheon given at the Players' Club yesterday by Isaac F. Marcosson, who returned from England recently. Lord Northcliffe spoke informally. He said:

"America can and will do a tremendous part in this war; first, because she is fresh, and second, because she undoubtedly will profit by the mistakes of the nations who have been fighting since August, 1914.

"I hope America may permit her newspaper and magazine writers to be absolutely frank about what is going on. It is important for the nation to know the worst as it is for the nation to know the best. For one thing—and we have found it out from actual experience—it is a great stimulus for the men fighting in the field to know that they are being written about at home and that the country they are fighting for knows precisely what they are doing.

War Just Beginning.

"Every man with a pen in hand and a printing press near by can do a patriotic service to his country by awakening his people to the fact that this war is just beginning and that every ounce of energy, that every revolution of America's vast industrial machine and, what is equally important, every gallon of gasoline, will be needed to bring the war to a successful end.

"It is only by an absolute mobilization of man power and machine power that this war can be won. Industries that at this moment seem remote from mobilization for the war will sooner or later be called upon to do their part. In Europe, for example, one of the largest corset factories is now turning out very delicate pieces of machinery needed in the construction of airplanes.

"For one thing, the great bulk of automobile output will have to be concentrated on trucks; in the second place, the automobile factories will inevitably be commandeered for the manufacture of airplane parts and airplane construction generally.

"In the airplane lies one great hope of allied victory. The war has taught that the airplane engine of spring may be almost useless for actual fighting by the next autumn, so rapid are the developments produced by the fierce competition of war.

"When America has got her full stride in the war, as surely she will get, it will be found that there will be a tremendous demand for chauffeurs. England today has nearly 100,000 motor trucks in France and is constantly sending more. Every one of these trucks must be manned by a trained driver. If skilled chauffeurs can be sent to operate your trucks it will be possible to release an equal number of men for the fighting lines.

End of Joy Riding.

"It will mean the end of 'joy riding.' England stopped this favorite outdoor sport a good while ago and I am sure that when America wakes up to the tremendous realization of what this war means she will do likewise.

"I have a strong conviction that, with peace, will come a close federation of the nations who are now fighting the great fight for freedom. It will be the only insurance against the autocracy that made this war possible and the horrors that the armies of the autocrat perpetrated on innocent non-combatants. The world must be made free for democracy."

The guests included the Duc de Richelieu, Thomas F. Ryan, Otto H. Kahn, Brigadier-General W. A. White of the British army, Col. George Harvey, Frank A. Munsey, George H. Lorimer, Samuel G. Blythe, Irvin S. Cobb, Dr. Albert Shaw, W. Morgan Schuster, Charles Hanson Towne, Mark Sullivan, Henry James Forman, Arthur W. Page, John S. Phillips, H. J. Whigham, Robert H. Davis and George H. TEACHER'S THROAT CUT, TWO OTHERS BEATEN

Man Held After Murder at New Hampshire School for Feeble Minded Cottage.

LACONIA, N. H., June 29.—Miss Elizabeth Suess, assistant matron, and Miss Dorothy Davis, a teacher at the State School for Feeble Minded here, are suffering today from wounds on the head and nervous shocks, received when their companion, Miss Alice Black Richards, head teacher at the school, was murdered in a cottage on the shore of Lake Winnisquam last night.

Morris P. Bradford, a teacher of manual training, who had been with the women and gave himself up to the police, is held.

A hunting knife bearing a spot resembling blood was found in the cottage.

According to the brief statements obtainable from Miss Suess and Miss Davis, the three women had accepted Bradford's invitation to take supper with him at the cottage, which is on the school grounds.

There Bradford attacked them, they declared. He bound all three hand and foot, they said, cut Miss Richards' throat, struck the others over the head and cut their hair off. After he left, one of the young women managed to free herself and released her companions, but Miss Richards had succumbed to her wounds.

The Soothing, Cooling Japanese Ingredients of Ice-Mint Will Remove Your Corns—No Pains

Just a Touch Stops Soreness, Then the Corn or Callous Soon Shrivels and Lifts Off. Try It Today.

Just a touch of Ice-Mint and oh! what relief. Corns and callouses gradually disappear and you can dance all night or walk all day without the old agonizing pain. No matter what you have tried or how many times you have been disappointed, here is a real help for you at last. From the very second that Ice-Mint touches that sore, tender corn you poor tired, aching feet will feel so cool, easy and comfortable that you will just sigh with relief. Think of it; just a little touch of that delightful, cooling Ice-Mint and real foot joy is yours. No matter how old or tough your pet corn is, he will soon shrivel up, under the influence of Ice-Mint, and you can pick him out. No pain, not a bit of soreness, either when applying it or afterwards, and it doesn't even irritate the skin.

Ice-Mint is the real Japanese secret of fine, healthy, little feet. Prevents foot odors and keeps them cool, sweet and comfortable. It is now selling like wild-fire here.

Just ask in any drug store for a small jar of Ice-Mint and give your poor suffering, tired feet the treat of their lives. There is nothing better.—ADVERTISEMENT.

Keep Potato Patches Watered.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Many patches of patriotic potatoes in St. Louis are now at their last gasp for lack of water. In Colorado, where they irrigate, and, therefore know how much water is needed, it is found that an acre of potatoes yielding 300 bushels, requires during the growing season water which would cover the ground to the depth of 22 inches, if put on at one time. Of course, this water is supplied as needed. Plants want it in quantities only sufficient to keep the ground moist.

My potato patch is 40 by 60 feet. Its area, therefore, is 2400 square feet. It needs at this time only what would amount to an inch in depth of water, or a total amount of 200 cubic feet, or say 1500 gallons. My garden hose with the nozzle off runs at the rate of five gallons per minute, so it must run for five hours in order to supply this potato patch with the water necessary to save its life.

Water should not be spread or sprinkled evenly over the ground. It should be made to run midway between the rows, away from the growing plants, so that it may percolate on either side beneath the potatoes. In this way they can have it as moisture around the soil grains.

GEO. K. ANDREWS.

Commends Post-Dispatch Editorial.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Your editorial "Is Personal Liberty to End?" gives me the first ray of hope since many a day that we may get our feet to the ground again before it is too late. On the diagnosis of our condition depends our chance to get through the present crisis. Your editorial is a splendid specific diagnosis. May I ask to enlarge the scope of the problem and call attention to the entire body politic of our country.

The needs of extending the diagnosis is proven by the fact that in the past during national great crises neither parties nor politicians were the masters of the situation after they have started the rumpus which resulted differently than they first intended. Now our representatives in Washington are carried away as so many politicians in the past have been by the whirlwind of events and the power of circumstances. Let us put our reason to good use, and we, as American people, will find the way to adjust matters.

DR. SEIBERT.

Struck the Keynote.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Your editorial in today's issue, "Is Personal Liberty to End?" strikes the keynote of the danger to the republic in its closing sentences. The surreptitious attack on the people's liberty made under the pretext in the food bill of the public good is the signal that Americans must awake and protect their liberty by the ballot and retire political charlatans who vote to suit a clamorous lobby of professional disturbers, ignoring the people's liberty and right. It is not now a battle between the Bible and booze but a fight from now on between slavery and freedom. May your vigorous, trenchant pen continue its work many years.

CITIZEN.

Mistaken, Disloyal Women.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

For years I have been an active suffragist, having at one time been an officer in a St. Louis suffrage organization, but I want to register my protest against the treasonable conduct of those suffragists in Washington who publicly impugned President Wilson with their petulant jeremiade as the Russian Mission to the U. S. entered the White House gates on Tuesday.

They sought to dignify their seditiously worded banners with the title of "silent sentinels," but the indignant voices of millions of loyal Americans will not be silent as they read of this puerile charge that President Wilson is acting dishonorably in one of the greatest of the strides by which he is leading the world to democracy. "Silent" such an attack may be, but, like the offense of the murderer-king in "Hamlet," "It smells to heaven!"

Of course the malapertness of these women failed of any results except to convince large numbers of good Americans, including many suffragists, that women must learn better than to harass their Government at a time when it needs and deserves their allegiance, before they can qualify for full citizenship under that Government. I believe it would be easily possible to assemble in almost any community of the United States a jury of intelligent women who would convict these banner-bearers of menacing disloyalty to their country, and the place for disloyal Americans at this time is in prison, and not in the ranks of full-privileged citizens.

From the Florida Times-Union.

You can come a whole lot nearer borrowing the face value of a Liberty Loan bond than the cost price of a diamond.

FAIR PRICES—NO EXTORTION.

The coal operators have answered the patriotic demand for reasonable war prices by immediately announcing reductions in the price of coal at the mines of from $1 to $1.50, and agreeing to submit to the maximum price to be fixed by the Secretary of the Interior, the Trade Commission and the Committee on Coal Production of the National Defense Council.

Thus one victory is scored for patriotism and fair play in the battle against war greed. Secretary Lane's commendation of the action and spirit of the coal operators in voluntarily yielding to the demand for reductions is justified.

The concession will mean a saving of millions to individual consumers and to the Government. It will mean the continued operation of factories at reasonable prices for coal, which will affect the price of all commodities.

How is it possible to reconcile sacrifices of one part of the people with the grabbing of war profits by another part? There must be co-operation in the spirit of sacrifice or the nation will be torn by discontent and dissension. While the nation is engaged in war and is undertaking vast sacrifices for its prosecution, it would be outrageous if one element imposed bitter hardships on other elements of the people.

The action of the coal operators is a good beginning. Now for the other interests which are fattening on the people's necessities. All must come to square terms. Fair prices—no extortion, is the rule to which every interest must bow.

CONSOLIDATING ADVANCE POSITIONS.

Our advance troops are now learning, in France, what modern battle tactics mean. But for those who expect to go, and for the rest of us who want to know what they will have to do, an article in the magazine National Service, by Capt. Ian Hay Beith of the British army is informing.

We hear almost daily about the necessity of consolidating the lines, after an advance. Here is what it means, as Capt. Beith tells it:

> Meanwhile, behind you, engineers and pioneers are hurrying across bringing material to help you reverse the consolidated trench. You have got to remember the parapet is on the wrong side. Sand bags, barb-wire, etc. The machine gunners are hurrying up to consolidate the position, that is to say, placing their guns in such a position to sweep the ground in front of the newly captured ground in the event of a counter attack. The signalers are coming up unrolling wire as they come to establish advance telephone posts; ammunition, sand bags, water, food, etc., all are being brought up by specially detailed parties; also parties with more bombs, more ammunition to certain prearranged dumps in the new line where every officer knows their position and can send back for fresh supplies, and finally the commanding officers come up and advance headquarters is established, and your new line, your first objective, is consolidated.

Is it any wonder that modern war is a slow process?

"The war will be over before America can send any troops to France," said a sapient military critic in the Berlin Tageblatt a week ago. It will be over after the troops arrive.

BEDEVILMENT OF NORWAY.

Norway's experience with Berlin duplicates our own on a smaller scale.

Two Norwegian sea captains, corrupted by German agents, supplied submarine commanders with information as to the sailings of Norwegian vessels. This despicable act of treachery was rewarded on the piecework basis at the absurdly low price of $80 for each ship of a fellow officer actually sunk with the assistance of the two captains. While we may believe that none of our own sailors have accepted similar invitations to become accessories to the crime of murder at sea, a clew is offered for continuing the search into the source of the submarines' astonishingly accurate data as to vessel movements in general.

The discovery of a ton of high explosives sent to the German Ambassador in Norway is one of the most outrageous violations of diplomatic privilege in all records. The irresistible presumption that the explosives were to be used in waging irregular warfare on persons and property in Norway would justify more drastic action than sending the German Ambassador home.

History does not inform us of a time when the nations of this planet were cursed with the presence of so bad a neighbor as Germany. To live with her in amity is impossible.

◆◆◆

The Berliner Tageblatt says that a separate peace with Russia will merely mean that Germany will be responsible for the rehabilitation of the Slav leaving the allies unhampered to deal with the Central Powers. That makes it unanimous. It looks as if Russia will have to stay in the war.

◆◆◆

RUSSIA DISPLEASES BERLIN.

Russia has gravely displeased Berlin. The utterances of the German newspapers, directed from the Wilhelmstrasse, prove that. Two months ago the Berlin newspapers spoke in the kindest terms of the new republican Government, predicting a bright future for democratic Muscovy and speaking in terms of unstinted praise of the people's leaders at Petrograd.

Now all of this is changed. Today the newspapers of the Teutonic bund are filled with vituperation against Russia and the men who direct its affairs. The German people are being told that the exit of the Slav from the war would be injurious rather than beneficial to the Central Powers. It is pointed out that the financial situation of Russia is such that it would become a burden on Germany rather than a help. Yet in the early days of the spring German soldiers fraternized with the soldiers of the new republic by special orders from the War Office.

It is an old German trick. Efficiency and gullibility appear to be teammates in the Central Powers. For three years the Wilhelmstrasse has been shifting the press of Germany about in the same manner as an army corps is moved, one day against one Power, one day against another.

◆◆◆

A SPIRIT WE SHOULD EMULATE.

Doubtless in war on so enormous a scale we shall have occasion to conduct melancholy inquiries in cases of mismanagement. If so, we shall be exceedingly fortunate if we command the services of investigators as thorough and conscientious as those who sifted the facts in the case of the Dardanelles and Mesopotamia fiascoes for the British Government.

It would be easy to formulate excuses in such cases, to dwell on the fallibility of human foresight, to emphasize the unexpectedness of difficulties, to set off good intentions against culpability in judgment and preparation. What the public wants to know is why brave and efficient men were misled, badly equipped, inadequately supplied and who were responsible.

And the British report on Mesopotamia tells exactly what the public wants to know. It smashes away at a head wherever it finds cause to smash away, whether the head is high-placed or low-placed in the Indian Government, the home ministry or the personnel of the expedition command. Such an unsparing apportionment of blame is not only a measure of justice to men who were sacrificed to no purpose, but a most wholesome warning to those who must make the dispositions for the further conduct of the war. It is a refreshing evidence of the new British spirit to hold leaders of whatever eminence to a strict accountability and to play no favorites in matters in which precious lives are at stake.

Some Britons who are giving us unasked-for advice in voluminous quantities excuse themselves on the ground that they do not want us to make the same mistakes they have made. Of course it is extremely improbable that we should ever have made the same mistakes the English, with their peculiar institutions and social conditions, made, but it is not necessary to remind our advisers of that. We doubtless would have made other blunders of a different sort, but just as serious. We shall do well if, imitating them in other things with caution, perhaps, we imitate them successfully in this sportsmanlike resolution to distribute censure as well as praise where it is due.

SEEING THE LIGHT IN GERMANY.

No stronger point has been made on the need of liberalizing Germany than the one made by Maximilian Harden in his latest editorial. It is based, not on the theories of idealists but on practical conditions. On one day, he says, Germany was maintaining relations of lamb-like quality with its neighbors. On the next it found all the world ringed against it as enemies. Herr Harden asks:

> Can the Government that was unable to avert such a lineup of opposition deem itself superior in statesmanship to a democracy?

Germany is accustomed to judge of agencies by results. When the end is held to justify the means, what is to be said for the means when the only ends attained are malelovent ends? Those whose frightful blundering has brought Germany to its present desperate state have pronounced condemnation on themselves under Germany's own standards of efficiency.

A statement of the case also calculated to appeal with tremendous force to a people who fancy they have a heaven-imposed mission to impress their kultur on others is that of Prof. Otto Huntze, who points out Germany's position of dangerous isolation if it stands out against all mankind in resisting democracy. When even Prussian professors admit that Hohenzollernism has taken the wrong road, some glimmerings of light must be penetrating to the masses of the German nation.

THE PARTING OF THE WAYS.

From the New York World.

Some political aspects of nation-wide prohibition as presented today at Washington demand and must receive increasing attention. No such denial of local self-government, no such assault upon personal liberty, no such acceptance by wholesale of the principles of sumptuary legislation as contained in the bill that passed the House of Representatives could have been possible without Democratic votes. Yet if the Democratic party hes ever had any creed distinguishing it sharply from all other parties, that fact has been expressed, has been in support of local self-government and liberty and in opposition to sumptuary laws of every kind.

Most of the Democrats in the House of Representatives are from the Southern States. Most of the prohibition States are in the South. Most of the Democratic votes that changed the food-control bill into an intolerable and undemocratic prohibition bill come from Southern members.

• • •

With Southern Democrats inflicting upon the populous and liberal North the tyrannical edict of self-styled moralists who never had party sanction of any kind and who are without responsibility to the people, is it imaginable that the national Democracy will hold together?

On the contrary, is it not certain that the one political organization which has ben powerful in every State and which is in truth the only national party will be so rent with feuds and strife as to become either a thing of faction or a hopeless minority.

If the great States of the North are compelled to sacrifice their elementary liberties to the folly or the fanaticism of Southern Democrats—

1. Southern Democrats will pay the price in a party division as fierce as that occasioned by slavery.
2. They will pay the price in exclusion from power at Washington.
3. They will pay the price in unfriendly legislation affecting themselves which an unbridled majority of Northern Republicans will not hesitate to enact.

We believe that if worse comes to worst, Northern Democrats can stand this situation longer than Southern Democrats.

With a disaffected Northern Democracy, there will be no more Democratic Presidents, no more Democratic Congresses, no more Democratic Cabinet officers of any kind; but in particular there will be no more Southern Democrats in high office.

It is this disruption of the Democratic party that the prohibition lobby has long sought to bring about. Yielding to its influence, Southern Democrats are guilty not only of monstrous perfidy to their own political principles but of betraying party friends into the hands of party foes. Unless they are prepared to join forces in all things with Western Prohibition Republicans, they will look in vain for powerful Northern allies.

The Democrats of the North and the Democrats of the South are at the parting of the ways once more.

• • •

A Democratic party which refuses to stand unitedly for local self-government and personal liberty is doomed.

MR. ANTWINE ON THE SUBMARINE.

"I WONDER what the Germans think of the submarine now," Mr. Antwine said.

"They risked everything for it, and it is losing ground every day.

"It didn't keep this country from sending troops to France.

"It has sunk less than 6 per cent of the arms and munitions we are sending abroad.

"It is getting fewer big ships and no more little ones all the time.

"It sunk just one ship in the Mediterranean last week."

"It isn't starving England

"It has only brought in more enemies against Germany.

"It has made the loss of the war certain instead of winning it.

"I would like to know what the Germans are saying when the Kaiser isn't about."

GERMANY, TEXAS, ALSACE, MISSOURI.

G. W. S.—From the seventh century Alsace, or Elsass, was a part of Germany; between 1648 and 1697 it was partly transferred to and partly seized by France, which held it till the war of 1870-71, when it was reclaimed by Germany. Lorraine has passed several times between Germany and France, and once to an ex-King of Poland, the frequent changes resulting in a mixture of populations and languages. It is estimated that over 85 per cent of the people speak German as their mother tongue, the rest French, or a patois of French. The German for Alsace-Lorraine is Elsass-Lothringen, and since its reclamation by Germany in 1871 it has been held as an imperial territory, with a Governor appointed directly by the Kaiser. Its area is 5560 square miles and its population is 814,620. Texas area 265,780 square miles; Germany in Europe, 208,860; Germany in Africa, 931,460. (These figures were given before Germany lost her African territory.) A statement of 1915 says: "A century ago there was no German empire—only a number of German states whose aggregate wealth and income were probably less than those of France. Now united Germany is estimated to possess an income of nearly $10,000,000,000 and accumulated wealth of about $80,000,000,000. During the century Germany's population has grown from 24,000,000 to more than 67,000,000, or 180 per cent." Population of Texas, 4,472,494; Missouri, 3,420,143. Area of Missouri, 69,415 miles. While it is well known that some of the German states are very small, few persons are aware that it is quite possible to visit seven of them, including two kingdoms, two duchies and three principalities, in an easy walk of four and a half hours. A good walker, starting from Steinbach, in Bavaria, will arrive in half an hour at Lichtentanne, which is situated in Saxe-Meiningen. Thence the road proceeds in one and one-half hours to Rauschengesees (Reuss, Elder Branch), after which in a few minutes Gleima, in Schwarzburg-Rudolstadt, is reached. Half an hour's walk brings the pedestrian to Altengesees (Reuss, Younger Branch). An hour farther on lies Drognitz, on Prussian soil, and the last stage of another hour's stroll, finishing up at Saalthal, Saxe-Altenburg.

LAW POINTS.

POOR MAN.—Phone Prosecuting Attorney, Municipal Courts phone, give him the facts.

M. S.—All single men's pay may be garnished. See justice of the peace. Marriage of 1st cousins is void in Missouri; no "annulment" would be necessary.

WAR TALK.

H. G. K.—It is not the policy of the Government to permit army and navy physicians to make examinations which are in the line of work of physicians in civil life. You might phone Jefferson Barracks.

R. S. V. P.—Bugles are not blown at a flag-raising. As Old Glory goes up, a band plays the Star Spangled Banner. It is all right for a civilian to act as trumpeter. The musicians of the U. Dorothy Dix says

For Boys to Beware of the Summer Girls.

YOU are about to start forth on your summer vacation, son, with money in your pocket and peace in your soul and nothing on your mind heavier than your new split straw.

All thoughts of matrimony, and disease, and death, and the other catastrophies that are liable to overtake mankind, sooner or later, are afar from you; yet anon shall you return engaged and spend the balance of your life in wondering how it happened. So sudden, like that!

For no one has warned you against the perils you are about to face, or handed you a friendly tip to the effect that sumer is the open season for husband hunting when all girls go gunning for their prey. Nor has anyone told you that the summer does strange things to a woman's looks so that the maiden who was merely nice looking in the winter is a tearing beauty in the summer, and she with whom you would have discussed Ibsen and Shaw and suffrage in December you will make love to in July.

NOBODY knows why these things are so. They merely are, and that's all there is to it. If there were no more Summers there would be precious few weddings. There is some occult connection between the state of a man's affections and the thermometer, which is amply proven by the fact that the farther South you go the rarer become old bachelors, until when you reach the tropic latitudes you find matrimony a continuous epidemic.

But, be that as it may, what we are concerned with now is not the fate of those who marry early and often, but of those who desire to defer the blissful day until such time as they have had a raise in salary and can contemplate the high cost of loving without having cold chills chase each other up and down their spines.

"Forewarned is forearmed," says the old proverb. To know where danger lies gives a man, at least, a chance to defend himself against it. Let us, then, consider some of the types of summer girls against whom a young man should be on his guard unless he is anxious to quick-step up to the altar to the tune of that Lohengrin thing.

First, and most obvious, is the genuine old-fashioned, blown-in-the-bottle summer girl in white muslin and with a drooping hat wreathed with flowers. She's a summer annual that has been blooming ever since the Garden of Eden, but every successive generation of men, from Adam down, have fallen for her, because she looks exactly like every man thinks the ideal woman ought to look.

To all outward appearances she is a gentle, shy, fluttering innocent, and when she glances demurely up in a man's face from under that flopping hat brim, his heart turns over like a dying fish and he's done for. If you'd get all the men you know who are married to flabby, wishy-washy, dull, silly wives on the witness stand and make them tell how and when and where they proposed to the ladies to whom they are tied for life, you would find that nine-tenths of them popped the question to a white muslin dress on a starry night in June.

'Ware the muslin dress, son, as you value your freedom. Reflect that things are not always what they seem and that any girl who hasn't got three chins and carroty hair looks like an angel in white. Also reflect that laundry comes high and the simpler a dress is the more it costs. Therefore, when the maiden in white seeks to decoy you into strolls in the moonlight along the beach, say her nay. Keep her under the big electric light in the crowded veranda, lest you become the victim of her millinery.

Twin sister to the White Muslin Girl is the helpless Clinging Girl, who is always having things happen to her that require masculine assistance. She has little feet and she can never learn to tie her shoe laces so they don't come undone. (It takes a woman with a No. 5 foot to tie a shoe string in a knot that a tornado couldn't budge.) If she goes for a walk she sprains her ankle and has to lean on some strong arm. If she takes an automobile ride, she's always getting frightened and clutching at some man for protection.

It's all very pretty and appealing, son, and it makes you feel about seven feet high and as strong as Jess Willard, but watch out. Some day you will put that protecting arm around her to guard her—she's such a timid little thing—and you will neglect to take it away in time to save yourself from becoming a human trellis that will have to support her the balance of your days. Which is not at all what you intended, but is exactly what she intended.

Then there's the Hammock Girl. She's attractive because she is so quiet and still in a day of feminine unrest. She isn't forever tearing around doing things like most of the girls. She stays put. She lolls around in a comfy hammock, and looks cool and restful, and keeps the powder on her nose instead of being sunburned and blowsy. And she has always got a book in her hand, and before you know it you find out it's your favorite poem and you are reading it aloud to her.

"How beautifully you read," she murmurs. "How wonderfully, dramatically you interpreted that passage! What soul and understanding you put into it!" And then she asks you if you have ever thought about going on the stage, and says how she would love to hear you read the love scene in Romeo and Juliet, and before you know it you will be doing it, and everything will be over but announcing the engagement.

Still more dangerous is the good fellow girl who is as good at games as half the men you know. She looks awfully natty in her sport clothes with her stubby little flat-heeled shoes and her rolled-up sleeves and brown arms. And she such a good pal. No nonsense and sentiment about her. Why, she knows more about Christy Mathewson than she does about Browning and had rather talk big league and Ouimet's golf score than listen to anybody quote poetry. You feel perfectly safe with her.

Listen, son. When Cupid plans a man's undoing he makes him feel safe with a pretty girl. Then he's a goner. Some afternoon you and the good fellow girl will linger a little late on the links, or you will be floating in with the tide, and you will notice that she looks a little sad and the ready laugh has died on her lips. And you'll ask her what is the matter, and she'll say she's sorry you are going home, and her eyes will fill with tears, and the next minute she'll be weeping on your best silk shirt front and you'll be telling her that two can live as cheaply as one, and that you think people ought to marry while they are young.

But most dangerous of all is the girl you are sorry for. You'll meet her sitting out dances against the wall, snubbed and unnoticed by the other girls and you will take her under your wing and begin to try to make up to her for the things she has missed. And she will be so grateful and adoring, and you will feel so noble and altruistic and—well, you know what always happens to the good samaritan. He always gets it in the pocket. You can't even save a woman's life without having to marry her.

No man can afford to be sorry for a girl, son, so don't rescue the wallflower unless you want to wear it in your buttonhole the balance of your life.

Then there's the picnic girl and the I-cooked-it-myself girl—but, what's the use? All girls are dangerous, especially in summer. After all, you must take your chances amongst them, and may heaven preserve you safely.

How London's Policewomen Are Doing Their Bit

AROUND the corner from Scotland Yard, London's famous police headquarters, are the offices of the Women's Police Service. They wear a uniform that is as much like that of a regular Bobby as skirts will permit. And the policewomen address their feminine officers as "Sir!" For they simply can't assume a brisk, military air and say "Madame," according to the head of the force.

Although without official standing, the Women's Police Force is looking forward to the day when its members can patrol a beat and push citizens around in the name of the law. At present the force is composed of volunteers, and they have done some very excellent work since the war began. In fact, the force had its inception at the time the conflict started.

Its members have been much in evidence at munition plants where numbers of women are employed. They look after the feminine munition workers, endeavoring to keep them out of harm, and also give an eye to their conduct with respect to the safety of the plant. This means that they must keep a sharp eye for cigarettes, matches, alcohol and other things which are barred from the plants, but which are frequently smuggled in.

The policewomen also have taken a hand in keeping the feet of soldiers' wives on the path of good behavior. For a time after the war begun there was much intoxication among women whose men folk had gone to the front. Worry and loneliness contributed to this tendency. Here the policewomen stepped in with an understanding that no policeman could have had, and did much to meet the situation.

But they not only have handled the problems of women and those of a pacific or helpful sort, but have undertaken to deal with some of the uglier phases of the criminal question. In this attempt they have yet to meet with harm from men who would attack their own kind at slight provocation. But to the policewoman even the underworld has accorded consideration. Because of this consideration the policewoman may be able to accomplish results by suasion that the real policeman could never obtain by the kind of persuasion that he best understands.

FRECKLES

Don't Hide Them With a Veil; Remove Them With the Othine Prescription.

This prescription for the removal of freckles was written by a prominent physician and is usually so successful in removing freckles and giving a clear, beautiful complexion that it is sold by any druggist under guarantee to refund the money if it fails.

Don't hide your freckles under a veil; get an ounce of othine—double strength—and remove them. Even the first few applications should show a wonderful improvement, some of the lighter freckles vanishing entirely.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength othine; it is this that is sold on the money-back guarantee. —ADV.

DISTINCTIVE ONE-PIECE FROCK.

DESCRIPTION.

TO every summer's day its quota of bright colors, big hats and practical and impractical dresses. When women go walking in the morning they will wear something smart and thin, either of linen, sport satin, gingham, jersey or sport silk. Nothing so suits the spirit of summer as gay colors, and this year there is scarcely a one that is not in the mode, among them some which have a distinctly new look. There are pale greens and yellows and dull blues and violets which we cannot call by any accustomed names, and which no doubt have no names.

They are usually combined with a refreshing touch of white in some way, collars and cuffs being the ordinary means of expression in this direction.

The frock I am showing today, however, shuns such mediums as commonplace, and proves its confidence in its own fabric by using a for collars and cuffs, while offering to sheer white organdy or batiste the opportunity to fill in the front of the chemisette.

Of satin or linen in any summer color this frock could have its distinctive cut and line accentuated by a pretty Irish crochet beading, which, being of white, would aid in the decorative scheme. Two slits in the deep pointed revers serve as a convenient and attractive place of introduction for a streaming tie of black moire ribbon. This may be replaced by one of velvet or faille to match the frock in color, for variety's sake.

The back view of the design shows a combination of fabrics for the frock, such as plain silk with plaid or striped material, or gingham combined with plain chambray, etc. The buttons which trim the back help to lend this view a style all its own.

This design is particularly suited to the short or stout woman, as the plaits extending from shoulder to hem, the deep chemisette and revers with long hanging tie, as well as the pointed skirt line, are all flattering features.

$2500 Worth of Flags Required by Each U. S. Battleship

ONE of the most interesting corners of the Brooklyn Navy Yard at this present busy time is the factory where the master Flagmaker presides. Under his supervision flags are made for all of the American warships on this side of the world, for Atlantic Coast naval stations and Government buildings upon the Eastern seaboard. Another factory at the Mare Island yard in California, does similar duty for the Pacific Coast stations and the vessels in the Pacific.

Every battleship of Uncle Sam's navy has no less than $2500 worth of flags, ranging from the tiniest pennant to the greatest of Old Glories. More than 40 foreign flags of all the nations of the earth must be carried upon every cruise. These vary from the banner of China, with its fearsome dragon to the white elephant on the flag of Siam.

When a battleship is dressed in its colors, the outfit represents 250 flags of many kinds and sizes. Most of the larger flags are 25 feet by 13 feet, made of the best wool bunting, 19 inches wide. This bunting is of the highest quality obtainable and undergoes severe tests before it is accepted. But the action of wind and weather makes the replacement of flags a frequent thing.

The flagmaker's art is an exacting one and many modern descendants of Betsy Ross are employed by the Brooklyn Flag Master. Much skill is required to make such a flag as that of Venezuela which has a prancing horse upon it. A special machine has been designed for cutting the white stars used in our own flag. These are of eight sizes, and every year many thousands of such stars go into flags made by Government employes. These stars vary from two inches to 14 inches in diameter.

Of all the flags used in the United States service that of the President is the most difficult to make. It is hand-sewed throughout and requires the steady labor of a woman for one whole month. This flag is made in two sizes, 10x14 feet and 3x5 feet. It has a blue ground with the United States coat-of-arms in the center. The life-sized eagle on the flag is the thing that makes its production so delicate a task. Every detail of the eagle must be worked out perfectly, and skill of a high order is demanded from the seamstress who is invested with the dignity of making a flag for the President.

Crackers for Company

AN attractive dish to set before the guests who come in at the social hour is made of plain round crackers, covered with a meringue which is decorated in turn with citron and candied violets. The meringue is really an icing, made by boiling together 1 cup of granulated sugar and 2 tablespoons of water. When it threads, which will be after a very few minutes of boiling, pour it gradually over the stiffly beaten white of an egg. Have ready the candied violets, cut in halves carefully, if they are large ones, also some citron cut into leaves, and slender strips to represent stems. Spread the icing over the crackers, a few at a time, decorate them with a violet, a stem, and two or three leaves, then put into the oven a moment to brown the icing.

FEW DROPS AND A CORN LIFTS OUT

Says there is no excuse for cutting corns and inviting lockjaw.

Let folks step on your feet hereafter; wear shoes a size smaller if you like, for corns will never again send electric sparks of pain through you, according to this authority.

He says that a few drops of a drug called freezone, applied directly upon a tender, aching corn, instantly relieves soreness, and soon the entire corn, root and all, lifts out without pain.

This drug is sticky but dries at once and is said to simply shrivel up the corn without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue.

It is claimed that a quarter of an ounce obtained at any drug store will cost very little but is sufficient to remove every hard or soft corn or callus from one's feet. Cut this out, especially if you are a woman reader who wears high heels.—ADV.

FOOD TESTS.

By Andre Dupont.

THERE are three substances sometimes sold as butter—good dairy butter, renovated butter and oleomargarine. Now, each of these substances is, if in good condition, perfectly wholesome for human food, but the prices should be different. Dairy butter is carefully made from cream kept a certain number of days until it acquires just the right degree of sourness and then salted and cooled and kept refrigerated until sold. Renovated butter is made from a miscellaneous assortment of country butter, some strong and some sweet. This is all melted together and the curd and brine drawn off. All froth and scum are removed and air blown violently through it to take away all rancid odor. Milk is then added and it is churned the same as fresh butter. Oleomargarine is made from cottonseed oil, beef fat or lard mixed with partly soured skim milk.

There are certain very simple tests by which the housewife can distinguish fresh butter from the renovated product and both from oleomargarine. All that is needed for the experiment is a spoon, a small stick or splinter of wood and either a gas flame or the flame of a lamp turned low with the burner taken off. Place a tiny bit of the butter in the spoon and hold it over the flame, stirring frequently with the bit of wood and continue until it boils rapidly. If it foams freely and boils very quietly it is genuine butter. Renovated butter will spatter considerably and foam but little, while oleomargarine spatters profusely, but does not foam.

Cocoa is often adulterated with starch. This can be detected by putting a spoonful in a cup and adding boiling water. If any starch is there the liquid shows a marked thickening which will not be noticeable to any great extent if the cocoa is pure. Very cheap brands of cocoa often contain ground cocoa shells. This is easily detected by its slight grittiness.

Coffee adulterants are not hard to detect. Real coffee grains are dull, while some of the substances put in to cheapen the article are as bright as though they had been polished. Coffee grains also contain a good deal of oil and will float. Throw a spoonful into a glass of water. If after standing a little while the water is colored a deep brown it is certain that chicory is present, for coffee grains unless crushed and boiled do not possess this property. If you see the water turning brown and some of the grains at the bottom of the glass instead of floating on top, you had better buy another brand of coffee.

Tea is very rarely adulterated.

Occasionally pickles or canned vegetables, peas, beans or spinach are a bright green color that makes them look fresh and attractive. This is due to coloring with copper. If you have reason to suspect any food of this kind, mash a little of it and put it in a bottle with equal parts of water and household ammonia. Copper always turns ammonia blue, so if on shaking thoroughly you find that the mixture is turning even slightly blue you may know that copper is present and will if you are sensible beware of that brand in the future.

SHERM'S DOTS

"A SUGGESTION was made to me," said the officer, "and I think it is a good one. It is for me to give you a complete set of the diagrams all in one drawing. So here you are, and with the work that you have already done you should not find it very necessary. But when you are in a hurry you can look up the letters here. How I Helped My Husband

All on Account of a Pie.

IT all happened because my grandmother taught me how to make a good pie when I was a young girl and visited her on the farm. After John's accident I did not know which way to turn and the little money I had kept going out and none coming in until I was almost crazy with worry. My husband worked in the shipping department of the factory and a heavy packing case fell on him one day and broke his leg.

The company paid his expenses at the hospital and two weeks' salary, but that was all they would pay, as they claimed "contributory negligence." John did not think he had been careless at all, but as the doctor said he would recover entirely in time he did not want me to press the charge, for the company promised to take him back just as soon as he was able to work again. But in the meantime, what was I to do? All my near relatives were dead and I had never been trained to any trade or profession. I could only do housework.

I was thinking this problem over when one of John's friends, a workman in the factory, called to see how he was getting along. I remember I had just finished making a pumpkin pie, thinking that the next morning I would take some of it to John. I offered Michael a piece and he enjoyed it very much and said it was the best pie he had ever eaten.

"I'd give anything," he added, "if I could buy pie like this for lunch, but the pies they sell near factory are no good."

It wasn't until after he had gone that the idea occurred to me: Why shouldn't I try to sell pies to the workmen?

Fortunately, I had a few dollars in the house, so I went out to the grocer's to buy supplies. I worked all that afternoon and the next morning and when I started out at noon I carried a market basket on my arm in which were six large pies; two pumpkins, two apple, one cranberry and one lemon. I went to the office of the factory, and got permission to go through the building. It was the noon hour and most of the men were eating their lunch at the work benches, though a good many were gathered in the halls talking.

I saw Michael and he introduced me to some of his friends and when I told them what I had come for he said, "I can recommend them, boys; they are the best I ever tasted." After this nothing would do but they must all have a piece and before I had gone half through that floor all my stock was sold. I sold my pie at the nearby restaurant prices, 5 cents a cut, and found I could make about 50 per cent profit on each pie and sometimes more, according to materials.

Michael came to see me that night and asked me how many pies I had made for the next day. By hard work I had managed to make 12 that afternoon, three-quarters of them apple, for I had found that in the greatest demand and also I made most profit on that kind. Michael said he doubted if that would be enough, for nearly all the men in the factory were anxious to help John's wife along, and all his friends who had bought my pies had been boasting about how tasty they were.

He was right. I was sold out before a quarter of my customers had been served. So the next day I hired a young girl to help me and went into it on a larger scale. To cut a long story short, before John came out of the hospital I had a flourishing business of my own that netted me twice as much as his wages had been. He did not feel up to factory work at first, so he helped and when he saw what my profits were he decided to open a little eating house near the works and make a specialty of pies. We did this and made a success from the start—all on account of a pie.

World's Tallest Chimney

WHAT is said to be the tallest chimney in the world has just been completed at Sasmnoeski, Japan, by a Chicago building concern which erected this monster chimney for a Japanese smelting plant. It is 570 feet high, has an outside diameter at the base of 42 feet 8 inches, and 26 feet 3 inches inside diameter at the top.

The foundation consists of a huge concrete block containing 2711 yards of concrete, and requiring 30 days and nights to build. The pressure on this base is about 6560 pounds per square inch. Five hundred and thirty tons of steel were used for reinforcement.

A final remarkable feature of this great chimney lies in the fact that its builders have endeavored to anticipate the effect of possible earthquake shocks. Working with members of the faculty at the Imperial University of Tokio, the builders tried to design the chimney so that it would withstand any but the most severe disturbances. And it is believed that this has been accomplished.

The town of Peterhof, 18 miles from Petrograd, was founded in 1711 by Peter the Great. The imperial palace there is built in imitation of the famous palace of Versailles.

LEMONS CREATE A LOVELY, WHITE SKIN

Use the juice of fresh lemons and mix with Orchard White to make a cheap lotion.

An attractive skin wins admiration. In social life and in business the girl or woman whose face and hands show evidence of constant care enjoys a tremendous advantage over those who do not realize the value of a healthy skin and a spotless complexion.

At the cost of a small jar of ordinary cold cream one can prepare a full quarter pint of the most wonderful lemon skin bleach, skin softener and complexion beautifier, by squeezing the juice of two fresh lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white. Care should be taken to strain the juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp gets in, then this lotion will keep fresh for months. It really will bleach and remove such blemishes as pimples, freckles and tan and is the ideal skin softener, smoothener and beautifier which absorbs readily and is not sticky or greasy.

Just try it! Get three ounces of orchard white at any pharmacy and two lemons from the grocer and make up a quarter pint of this harmless lemon lotion and apply it daily to the face, neck, arms and hands. It really does soften, freshen, bleach and bring out the roses and beauty of any skin.—ADV.

Feet Gain Weight in Sleep.

YOUR feet weigh more when you sleep than when you are awake. At least that is the conclusion of a scientist who has experimented with the question. These tests were conducted in a most interesting manner. The subject was laid on a long plank, which was then placed upon a crosstree, see-saw fashion. The man upon the plank was balanced on this crosstree, and the plank remained at a level without any effort upon his part. But the moment that he went to sleep it began to incline downward at the end opposite his head.

This experiment was repeated with a number of persons belonging to both sexes and in every case the result was the same. In no instance did the sleeper's head incline toward the ground.

This phenomenon is explained by the fact that the head is drained of surplus blood when a person is asleep, and the blood naturally flows toward the extremities of the sleeper. Immediately this makes the head lighter in weight, the difference being sufficient to upset the balance of a man resting in the position described.

CARDINALS BEGIN SECOND LONG TRIP IN FAIR CONDITION

After Weakening in Middle of Home Series, Huggins' Team Rallied and Finished Strong.

HEAVY SCHEDULE AHEAD

Five Games Will Be Played at Every Stand Except the Current One at Chicago.

By W. J. O'Connor.

Miller Huggins' little race-about—Kardinal Kar—developed engine trouble in the pitcher's box and lost a few laps to Pittsburg and Cincinnati, but was rushed to the repair pit in time to finish the at-home stand with a fine burst of speed, hitting on all cylinders and showing lots of power.

The Cardinals won 14 and lost 13 games in their long stand at home and today are in Chicago to inaugurate this afternoon a tedious road trip embracing 27 games as follows: Chicago 3, Pittsburg 5, New York 5, Boston 5, Brooklyn 5, and Philadelphia 5. They will return to Cardinal Field July 26.

The Cardinals have made third place their immediate objective with far-away Pennantville as their visionary, ultimate goal. They will be eminently satisfied if they finish this trip with 16 victories and 11 defeats, a mark that should lift them above the Cubs and put them in a position to make a determined mid-summer drive against the Giants and Phils.

Everything depends upon the pitching staff. Rather it depends upon President Rickey's promise of strengthening the artillery arm of the service. Rickey is with the club today and will not rest until he has given Huggins at least two more serviceable men for Hurling Hill.

Two Deals Pending.

We have esoteric information that a deal with Milwaukee is pending and about to be made. That's why Rickey went to Chicago. Another deal is on the fire with a coast league club, while Bescher's change of heart and his announced willingness to join the Louisville club may result in still another trade.

Withal, the Cardinals seem much better off for pitchers today than they did a week ago. The fine efforts of Gene Packard and Oscar Horstman against the Cubs, the former winning two, while the latter won one game, acted as a tonic on the Cardinals, who left St. Louis last night with all the confidence that so many kids could carry.

It is agreed that the club has a pennant batting punch. The work of Cruise and Hornsby is absolutely the season's sensation, while Jack Smith just now is in a slump, but should speedily recover his stride. Tommy Long has been hitting the ball hard but not safe of late, while old Jack Miller has the happy faculty of making nearly all his hits count.

Indeed, for timely pinch punches, the Cardinals are in a class all their own. Take Miguel Gonzales' record, for instance. Miguel has made only 26 hits this season, but he has driven home 19 runs. Mr. Severeid of the Browns has made 47 hits, but has driven in only 17 runs. Bill Jacobson has driven in 16 runs on 60 hits.

The Cardinals also have developed an infield that is kettle-drum tight on the defense, the outstanding feature being Hornsby's splendid conception and execution of shortstopping.

Hornsby a Great Shortstop.

"If anything has been overlooked on this Cardinal team," said Scout Connery last night, "it is nothing else but Hornsby's work. That kid is playing short in a manner far beyond our wildest dreams. His fine arm enables him to make plays the like of which only Mike Doolan could make. He throws from any position and takes a slow hit ball on the bad hop as well as any man I ever have watched. Even as well as Arnold Hauser, who, in his day, was the best man on short hops that the game ever saw. Hornsby has 'made' our infield."

Hornsby has made it because Jack Miller has played such a steady game opposite him at second. Miller's defensive work has been superfine, his record of only four errors in three positions being the outstanding feature of the league.

Paulette and Baird have contributed to the betterment of the club and the hitting of this pair is surely a pleasing feature. They were recognized as strong defensive men before their arrival. Now they are hitting.

"And the strange thing is that every man on the club—with the exception, of course, of the pitchers—can hit a long ball, a K O wallop that is liable to break up any game. There can be no sense of security on the part of any alien pitcher who is carrying only a two or three run advantage late in the game, if he allows more than one runner to get on. The next batter, no matter who he is, is liable to lose the old apple. For that reason the Cards today assume substantial first division proportions, with a fighting, outside chance for the flag.

They have the punch, the "insides", and the defense to get there. Bring on the pitchers.

CARDINAL NOTES

Just at a time when Cardinal fans were almost unanimous in the belief that Eugene Packard was a total loss, along came the Cubs and Packard knocked them dead twice in three days. It was Packard's perfect pitching that saved and won the 15-inning game on Tuesday. Yesterday he came back with another bang-up performance, beating Phil Douglass, the premier pitcher of Fred Yapp's corps, 4—1. Packard was found for eight hits, but he kept them scattered and won, pulled up.

It is interesting, too, to remember that Doak, Meadows and Ames all failed against the Cubs, while the kids—Horstman and Packard—made the grade. With any kind of pitching from Mr. Meadows and any kind of support from Mr. Gonzales in the second half of Tuesday's double-header the Cards would have won four out of five from the Bruins.

Another fine exhibition of sequential hitting won yesterday's game. The far-famed wrecking crew—Hornsby, Cruise and Miller—who whaled out triples on Wednesday, came up yesterday with three successive singles, and these, combined with a bad throw by Williams, gave the Cards enough runs to cinch it.

The absence of Gene Paulette, who went to his home in Little Rock, made no appreciable difference. Jack Miller played first as it should have been played, while Bruno Betzel made a fine job of it at second. 'Tis a versatile team, these Cardinal Kids.

The world's champion Red Sox came back to life yesterday and won both ends of a double header from the Yankees, 3—2 and 5—1. In the first game they made only two hits off Fisher. Leonard hurled the opening game for Barry, while Pennock, who has been a regular since Ruth was suspended, held the men of Donovan to four bingles in

Central Tourney Draws Only Four Out-of-Town Men

Eugene Monett of Oklahoma May Raise It to Five, Before Play Starts.

Word was received from an authoritive source last night by Robert Ross secretary of the Triple A Club, that Eugene Monett, who with his teammate Paul Darrough was runner-up in the State titular mathes, two years ago, would come to St. Louis to compete in the State Patriotic tournament which opens Saturday afternoon. Darrough and Monett reached the finals in the doubles, losing to Jones and Hoerr after three sets of wonderful play. One set went 22 games before the St. Louis men finally won it. The Oklahomans reached the semi-finals in the singles also. They won their first sets, Monett winning from Hoerr and Darrough from Jones. The local men won out, however, and went into the finals, which Hoerr won. Monett is now in Kansas City.

An entry was received yesterday that caused considerable comment. It was that of Paul Gleeson, who with Drummond Jones won the doubles title in the first Central States tournament ever staged in St. Louis. Gleeson, in addition to winning the doubles, went into the finals in the singles. In this event he was defeated by Orlando Vernon of Kansas Cty. Despite the fact that he has remained out of competition for some time, he is expected to make a good showing in the coming event.

Only three entries were received yesterday. These three were from East St. Louisans. They raised the total number of out-of-town players to four, Hunt Alberts of Cincinnati being the other. The failure of St. Louisans to enter more liberally has tended to discourage the officials, somewhat. As the event is to be strictly a patriotic affair, those in charge had expected upwards of 500 entries. They are going to stimulate the "recruiting" today, however, and entries will be received until noon. Mr. Ross said that the slogan "Your tennis may be bad, but your dollar is good," which appeared in the Post-Dispatch yesterday, fitted the situation exactly. One who enters is not compelled to play. In fact, many entrants have designated that they do not wish to compete by writing the words "No play" after their names. The tournament will open Saturday afternoon and the pairings will be announced Saturday morning.

Ty Cobb Has Made Hit in 25 Straight Games; His Own Record Is 40

Ty Cobb yesterday added another game to his consecutive hitting streak, raising his total to 25. The Tiger star started on his present rampage on May 31, against the Yankees and since then has made one or more hits every day. His best day was June 5, when he made five hits in five times up against Bob Shawkey.

Since Cobb started on his present streak he has made 45 hits in 94 times to the plate, an average of .459. He has scored 18 runs in the contests. The bingle for Cobb yesterday came in the first inning of the clash with the White Sox off Reb Russell.

After a home run by Veach had tied the score in the ninth inning for the Tigers, of the clash with the White Sox, they won it in the tenth on a double by Stanage, single by James and Bush's sacrifice fly. Boland, Cunningham and James pitched for Detroit and Russell and Williams, a pair of southpaws, for Rowland.

Ferdinand Schupp, the star left-hander of the Giants, after losing two games to the Phillies, came back yesterday and beat the Braves, 3—2, yielding only three safeties. Schupp did not allow a safety until the eighth, when the Braves tallied their two markers.

It was Johnson against Johnson in the game between the Nationals and Athletics yesterday, and Walter was returned the winner over Russell, 4—3, although he was found for nine hits, while his rival yielded eight. All of the Mackmen's runs came in the seventh inning. Judge's single drove over the winning marker in the ninth.

The Superbas and Phillies broke even yesterday, Marquard beating Rixey in the opener, 5—3, while Joe Oeschger downed Larry Cheney in a hurling duel in the second, 1—0. Oeschger yielded three hits and his opponent five.

DREWES AND JOSTIES ARE BEATEN IN FIFTH ROUND

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 29.—Fred Josties and Theodore Drewes, representing the Triple A Club of St. Louis, were eliminated in fifth round singles yesterday in the Patriotic tennis tournament in play here, under direction of the Missouri State and Missouri Valley Sectional Association. Drewes lost to Clifford Lockhorn of Kansas City 6—3, 6—4, and Josties was defeated by Dix Teachenor, another local player, 4—6, 6—0, 8—6.

Eugene Monett, the Oklahoman, entered active play for the first time today, taking his second and third round singles matches easily. His first round was won by default. Drewes returned to St. Louis for the Central States tourney there, but will be back in Kansas City later for the doubles tourna-

WESTERN GOLF TOURNEY ENTRY LIST LOOKS LIKE NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIP

CHICAGO, June 29.—Although the national amateur golf championship tournament has been called off, the Western amateur championship promises to take its place in the matter of supplying talent of national reputation and class. It was announced yesterday that Bobby Jones, the sensational boy wonder from Atlanta, Ga., and his almost equally famous pal, Perry Adair, would take part in the Western this year. They will also be included in a team which will represent the Southern Association in play for the Olympic Golf Trophy.

Jones is the youth who at the age of 14 has won the State championship of Georgia, and who, at the national championships last year, put out two former champions in the earlier rounds of match play.

Besides the Southern "wonders," it has already been announced that Francis Ouimet had accepted an invitation to play, although the National United States Golf Association has not yet changed its ruling declaring him ineligible to compete in amateur tournaments.

"Chick" Evans did not defend his title in the national open championship and it is not known whether he has decided to enter in the Western event.

Former Champion Robert Gardner has declared that he would not compete in any title events during the duration of the war.

War-Worn Britain Turns Out 50,000 at Football Game

Receipts From Soccer Season Amounted to $750,000, $125,000 Going to War Tax.

LONDON, June 29.—In spite of three years of the great war and the countless number of casualties among crack athletes, which has sadly depleted the ranks of its star performers, sports throughout Great Britain are still being carried along with great enthusiasm, the only difference from the pre-war days being that competitive sport has been and will be barred until peace terms are signed. By a continuance of every branch of indoor and outdoor sporting events, many promising youngsters have been unearthed who will seriously challenge the reputations of the remaining champions who return from active service.

The soccer season which concluded a few weeks ago was a great success on all sides. It was left until the last day for the record attendance of the season to be beaten when 50,000 persons attended to see the final tie played for the Glasgow Charity Cup at Hampden Park The receipts from the league games far surpassed the most sanguine expectations of the thousands of supporters of the great winter game, nearly $750,000 being taken at the gates from which the Government received $125,000 in taxes and charities benefited to the extent of about $20,000.

Players in Service.

When one considers that nearly every player who took part in last season's soccer games is a member of the naval or military forces and after each contest returns to his respective camp to continue his training, it is surprising to note what soccer football on its spectacular side alone means to Britain.

Golf has suffered by the call to arms of every available player within the age limit. All competitions have been abandoned during the war, but such famous players as James Baird, Harry Vardon, Edward Ray and J. H. Taylor have raised many thousands of dollars by playing exhibition games all over the country for the benefit of the Red Cross Society and various war funds. County cricket has been at a standstill since August, 1914, but ordinary club cricket is still being enjoyed by thousands of enthusiasts. Tennis is making rapid progress among the younger set and is very popular throughout the country.

Athletic and track meetings are held each week, especially where the great military camps are situated. Many famous runners, including W. R. Applegarth and Jack Donaldson, are still in training and their presence on the track insures the success of the meetings, besides attracting large crowds, who, in turn, benefit the many charitable funds. All in all, the continuance of sporting events in Britain has yielded splendid results and done much to keep the athlete in fine form and fit him for his position when his turn comes to proceed across the Channel to the firing line.

CANNEFAX IS WINNER.

Bob Cannefax, world's champion three cushion player, won his 150-point special match from Tiff Denton in Kansas Cty, 150 to 116, winning the final block last night, 50 to 36. It took 187 innings to decide the match.

BROWNS ARE BACK AFTER LOSING 16 GAMES OUT OF 25

Jones' Cripples Will Today Begin a Six-Game Series Against Detroit.

Fielder Jones and his Browns returned today for a long stay, and their appearance reminds one of the horrors of war and the good service rendered by ambulance units and Red Cross workers. The Browns have been traveling very light—that is those who have been able to travel.

Many are still in the hospital, while others are limping around on their nerve. Surely no team in recent years ever encountered such a run of tough luck as Jones has experienced this season.

But such details have a tendency to bore. The Browns, because of their crippled condition, lost 16 games out of 25 on their recent road trip and are returning in seventh place. Their record abroad was as follows:

OPPONENT.	W.	L.
Chicago	0	1
Washington	2	2
Philadelphia	1	2
Boston	2	1
New York	2	2
Detroit	1	4
Cleveland	1	4
Totals	9	16

On the first lap of their journey the Browns did all that was expected of them, if not more. They broke even in the East, but encountered a tough break in Detroit, where they lost the services of Ernie Johnson and incidentally lost eight of their last 10 games. In most of these games they had Marsans on third base, with a pony-ballet outfield.

"Oh-You-Tyrus" Is Here.

Today the Browns begin a six-game series with Detroit, playing a single battle today with double-headers on the books for Saturday and Sunday. They tackle a formidable foe in Detroit, especially in Ty Cobb, who is on a wild batting rampage. Of late the Tigers have developed a drive that has landed them in first division, having won 26 and lost 12 games since May 19.

Manager Jones expects to have Ernie Johnson available for first trench duty today, while Dr. John Lavan, who has been released from St. Luke's Hospital, probably will be ready to work in another week, if not sooner.

Jones has ordered morning practice starting today and in these sessions he will determine whether Scrappy More of Vanderbilt, Murray of Trinity College and Molyneaux of Villa Nova, are deserving of further trial. Soon the club will acquire the service of "Speed" Martin the Oakland pitcher, who was recently purchased by Business Manager Bob Quinn. Outfielder Williams of Portland is also scheduled to report.

The business at hand just now is to prevent a tumble into last place. The Browns are only two games out of the cellar and it will require some tall hustling to keep their heads above water. However, once Lavan gets back in harness, Fielder believes that he will develop a drive that may land the Browns at or near fourth place.

Bert Shotton is ready to play again, and it is Jones' intention to give Bert another chance, using Sloan and Rumler for pinch-hitting work. For today's game he probably will use Groom on Hurling Hill. Play at 3:30.

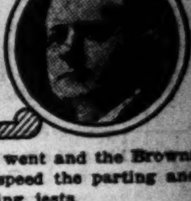
MAT BOUT POSTPONED.

The wrestling match between Lloyd Carter and Herman Heitzenroeder, local heavyweights scheduled to be held tonight at the Moose Club, has been postponed until next Saturday, the club and both officials agreeing to put the clash off until then.

SPORT SALAD

BY L. C. Davis



Ode to Jim Thorpe.

Lo, the poor Indian, whose untutored eye
Caused him to whiff or go out on a fly,
Seems to have suddenly taken a brace;
He hammers the pellet all over the place.

Johnny McGraw, who was tutoring Jim,
Tried for three years to make something of him.
He finally quit and gave up in disgust;
Then Jimmy proceeded that pellet to bust.

Johnny McGraw sent him back to the sticks;
Then he signed up with the team of "Big Six."
Lo, the poor Indian, the untutored scamp,
Since has developed a fine batting lamp.

It Is to Chuckle.

"CHUCK" DEAL and "Chuck" Wortman chucked a game of ball to the Cardinals, yesterday. As we say in polite polo circles, it happened in the second chukker.

While the Chucking was good, Phil Douglas chucked his bat in the general direction of the Cardinal's dug-out. The slap stick was immediately sequestered by Bat Boy Callahan. After giving it the once over and finding that there wasn't a base hit in it, "Cal" returned the ozone mauler to its owner.

The Cards, who can't afford the luxury of a $6000 bench warmer, have transferred Bob Bescher to Louisville. Barney Dreyfuss, who can't afford a $6000 first baseman, has sent "Bunny" Brief to the same place. The Colonels will soon have a major league team, with a minor league pay roll, as they will only assume about half of the contractural obligations that go with the acquisition of the stars.

CENTURY CAPTAIN REFUSES TO QUIT; CREWS MUTINOUS

Rowing Club's Wrangle Endangers Club's Entry in Regatta Events Tomorrow.

ARBITRATION REFUSED

Committee Appointed to Settle Difficulty Will Consider the Matter Tonight.

Whether the Century Boat Club will be represented by crews in the annual regatta of the Southwestern Amateur Association, which is scheduled to be held tomorrow and Sunday at Creve Coeur Lake, will be decided at a meeting of the Rowing Committee to be held tonight. This is the first step to be taken by the "higher-ups" of the Century since the wrangle between the oarsmen and Clarence Aid, captain, started a week ago.

A meeting of the oarsmen was held last night, but they were unable to reach a definite decision. They gave their consent, though, that the officials name an impartial committee to hear both sides of the case and to do whatever this committee decided.

This was put up to Capt. Aid, but he flatly refused to abide by any decision of this kind.

The row among the oarsmen was occasioned when Aid turned his keys over to President G. A. Buder of the club, stating that he had quit; while the oarsmen and Coach Allen went ahead and arranged their crews differently, with Aid unplaced. A few nights later, Aid again showed up for practice and wanted his old seat in the boats, but was refused. Since then both sides have been dead-locked neither wanting to give an inch.

Under Coach Allen, the Century oarsmen have been working hard for two months and were favored by the other paddle-tippers in the local harbor to carry off the point trophy without any great difficulty. But dissension may break up the crews and unless the Rowing Committee is able to settle the dispute favorably to both sides tonight, the club will not be represented.

Junior Crew Named.

The men scheduled to row in the four junior events in which the organization is entered are Carl Luyties, John Henly, R. Philips, A. Engert, H. Schudeman, Al Herde, Arthur Hayne, Martin Rippe, Herbert Meyer and William Wetteroth. The seniors are Rodowe Abeken, Clarence Aid, A. Bechestobill, Arthur Ellers, Oliver Belzer and Billy Schmalz.

With only local clubs entered in the competition, Western is expected to be Century's closest rival for point honors. This club has entered in 11 of the 13 races to be competed. Arthur Schreiber and A. Vogler. This pair is the present holder of the senior doubles title, gained over the Creve Coeur course last season, while Vogler won the singles honors in the 1916 regatta. There are a number of other good oarsmen at the organization.

St. Louis, which always has been far in front in entering crews, will be represented in only one race this year, the senior barge. Many of the St. Louis oarsmen have left to join the colors and this left only enough men to make up one boat, a six-oared barge. The men who will carry the St. Louis emblem will be Ed Wagner, No. 1; John Bartles, No. 2; A. Florentine, No. 3; Ed Wessels, No. 4; Virgil King, No. 5; Johnny Lang, stroke, and Rud Rietschle, coxswain. Most of these men are veterans and are expected to gain a place.

Another club to be well represented will be Mound City. Ben Spradling, one of the veteran oarsmen of the city, is captain of the crews and will row in one of the boats, the senior four. His brother, Fred, also will compete. Rose will carry the club's colors in the singles, and probably will pair with Biese in the doubles. This club is represented in all the major events.

The Central oarsmen are confident of making a good showing, and will hustle in order to do this, as the club has already promised them a trip to the national regatta to be held in Duluth. They are entered in five races on junior day and three on senior.

Baden, the only other entrant, is entered in the barge events on both days, and both crews will be made up of many new men. North End, the other club in the local harbor, is not represented, owing to a lack of efficient oarsmen.

Sunday will be the big day of the regatta. On this day the winners of the junior day events will get their first chance in competition with the veterans and this usually brings out some good races.

SPORT ✣ BRIEFS

Power Boat Regatta Is "On."

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 29.—The regatta of the American Power Boat Association, scheduled to be held here Aug. 23-25, will not be called off on account of the war, according to George Mowry, chairman of the committee in charge of the regatta. Mr. Mowry received a telegram from Franklin D. Roosevelt, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, urging that all scheduled regattas be held.

"Should it become apparent later that the men, especially those employed on the engines of power boats, would be more useful in the service, regattas can then be called off," Mr. Roosevelt advised.

High School Boy a Sisler.

SAGINAW, Mich., June 29.—Residents of Saginaw, who have taken pride in the athletic achievements of their high school star, Earl Brooks, recently held a public demonstration to obtain funds to send him to the University of Michigan.

Brooks is generally considered the greatest allround athlete ever developed in Saginaw Valley. His father is dead. His mother is an invalid. Brooks worked his way through high school and his record at interscholastic meets has been sensational.

He won his high school letter for four years in baseball, football, basket ball and track athletics. As a pitcher his work has attracted the attention of major league scouts and his friends believe that Michigan will have another George Sisler.

Alfred Badoud, claimant of the welterweight championship of France, defeated Joe Egan of Boston in a 12-round bout at Lawrence, Mass.

∴ Wray's Column ∴

Jack Moran on Fred Fulton.

JACK MORAN, the Springfield (Ill.) heavyweight, objects strenuously to the suggestion that his coming fistic feature with Fred Fulton, set for July 9 at Federal Park, is over before it begins, in so far as his chance of winning is concerned. He also says that it will be no mere exhibition, but a battle.

The fact that he will be conceding 35 to 40 pounds in heft and several inches in height, to his opponent, when they mingle under the electric cluster at the baseball park, weighs no more than the photograph of a blond hair, to Jack. He is youthful and confident, especially since he has withstood the artillery of the mighty Gunboat Smith without flinching, in their 12-round rally here.

"Fulton is nothing new to men," Moran told the Post-Dispatch, after yesterday's workout with Bud Clancy and Young Denny at Suburban Park. "I boxed with him for five months as his sparring partner. I remember it because there is still some mazuma coming to me for that work. I also fought Fulton once. I know how he boxes, how well he can box, where to hit him to hurt him and how he takes the gaff, when it's shot into him.

Has an Alibi, Won't Use It.

WHEN I fought him, April 29, 1915, I had an alibi which I will not waste your time explaining. The Lacrosse papers will tell you about it, if you care to consult their files of April 29, 1915. The record shows he stopped me in the fifth round, which was not true. The news stories say that I was leading when forced to stop.

"In everything else but dimensions I consider myself Fulton's superior. I have fought as good men as he—better, in some cases. I fought a draw with Gunboat Smith, who won from Jess Willard in 20 rounds; I went 12 rounds with Champion Levinsky, here, and although I was outpointed I was not even hurt. I have fought Jack Dillon, the Giant Killer; I beat Jack Geyer, who knocked out Gunboat Smith, and other men of standing.

"Fulton got a reputation by beating 'brodie' champions like Pelkey and Andersen—fighters without class. The ONLY bout that gives him a standing today is his fight with Sam Langford; and what misfortune Sam suffered that day I cannot guess.

• • •

Thinks Fulton 'Temperamental.'

"Fulton has several times been accused of dogging it, which no one ever said about me; and charges have been made that some of his opponents have been induced to let him have his way. I don't care to talk about that. I do know that I have no fear of his punch or his cleverness.

"Now what I don't understand is; Why am I considered as so feeble that I am not equal to giving Fulton a FIGHT? Mere size and weight don't always win. In everything else I consider myself better than Fulton. I think I will prove the point, Sept. 9."

Moran on Even Terms With Fulton When Hurt in Bout Two Years Ago

THE "alibi" which Jack Moran refused to urge in explanation of his defeat in a previous bout with Fred Fulton was an injury that he suffered in the sixth round, which forced him to abandon the contest. The Post-Dispatch wired the sporting editor of the Lacrosse (Wis.) Tribune for particulars and received the following reply:

LACROSSE, Wis., June 29.

Post-Dispatch, St Louis, Mo.:

My record shows Fulton won the first round only in his bout with Moran. The second, third, fourth and fifth rounds were even, and in the sixth Moran slipped and wrenched his knee. A doctor advised him to quit. Moran was carried out of the ring weeping.

Present day record books claim Moran was knocked out in the fifth round. That report is not true. Moran had the better of the fighting at close range, and it looked like a good even match until the accident..

Fulton delivered punishing blows at a distance, but wasn't so effective at close fighting. No knock-downs were recorded, according to our story of the bout.

JACK E. DAHLGREN.

• • •

Moran Deserves a Trial.

MORAN'S argument is sound. Ring history is plentifully sprinkled with stories of the victories of little men over big ones. One need mention only Bob Fitzsimmons, Joe Wolcott, Jack Dillon and others to prove the case.

Any game, strong boxer can make it interesting for a gawky opponent, even though conceding poundage. It seems unfair, after due consideration, to say that Moran will NOT be able to afford Fulton strong opposition, merely because he is smaller, especially in view of the fact that he has already given a rattling good showing against the Rochester (Minn.) giant.

As between these two men it is now a question of which fighter is the more improved since the time they last met at Sparta, Wis.

College Coaches Must Build Teams of Raw Material

Pacific Coast Universities Will Decide Next Month Whether to Resume or Not.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 29.—To what extent varsity sports will be carried on by the various universities of the Pacific coast will be determined as far as possible next month, when the athletic representatives of the various institutions meet in Portland to discuss the situation.

Delegates will be present from the University of California, Leland Stanford Jr. University, Washington State College, University of Oregon, University of Washington, University of Idaho and the University of Montana.

From California, Idaho, Washington State College, Oregon Agricultural College, University of Washington and Montana, word has come of their intention of playing out their schedules next season. Like reports are expected from Stanford and Whitman.

The only question is whether sufficient athletes can be mustered for the college calendar. Every institution with membership in the Pacific Coast or Northwest conference has lost a major percentage of its leading athletes through enlistment. It becomes necessary, if sport is to be carried on, to develop new talent.

Under the circumstances it is thought probable that the football program as mapped out for the coming season will be considerably modified. The schedules, as at present made up, were designed for seasoned teams, which would be able to stand the strain of a regular list of games.

With green material a less strenuous campaign is likely to be mapped out for all the teams. Every effort will be made to make up as interesting a schedule as possible in order to keep alive the interest and enthusiasm.

The big majority of men on the teams are under the age limit for participation in the war. The President of the United States has already issued a statement to the effect that, wherever possible, athletics should be continued as a means of physical upbuilding, so that these youngsters, as they come of age, will have had all the advantages of those who preceded them during peace times.

For this reason it is likely that the more important of the intercollegiate football contests will be played as usual, although the coaches will have the task of building practically new football machines. They will all be under the same disadvantage, however, so that no college will have any advantage over another.

Attendance Now Good in Western Says Dickerson

League Thought on Ropes a Few Weeks Ago Plans to Extend Its Season.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 29.—Delegates were arriving here today to attend the meeting this afternoon and tonight of the club owners of the Western League.

The principal business to come up will be an extension of the season, now scheduled to close Sept. 3, of two weeks or more. This was expected to be authorized, President E. W. Dickerson said, as the owners feel they may recoup in the later weeks some of the financial losses suffered during the inclement weather of the opening games.

"The attendance has become exceptional since the good weather set in," Dickerson said. "Business has become good throughout the country, and leaving out some of the clubs that are far down in the pennant race, the crowds are becoming satisfactory."

Mr Dickerson said he expected a delegation from St. Joseph, Mo., to report that business men there successfully had completed the sale of $3000 worth of tickets for the games there, thus insuring the club remaining there. All owners were here or expected before noon with the exception of Thomas Fairweather of Des Moines and William Holmes of Lincoln. They were represented by proxies.

Leonard to Fight Kilbane 6 Rounds for $20,000 Purse

PHILADELPHIA, June 29.—Johnny Kilbane, featherweight champion and Benny Leonard, who recently won the lightweight title from Freddie Welsh, signed articles here last night for a six-round bout to be held at Shibe Park, the home of the Philadelphia American League baseball club on July 23 for a purse of $20,000.

Each man will receive one half of the purse, which was guaranteed by James Dougherty, a millionaire Leiperville, Pa., hotel proprietor.

Billy Gibson, representing Leonard, and Jimmy Dunn, who looked after Kilbane's interests posted $1500 each as a guarantee that the boxers would weigh in at 133 pounds at 8 o'clock on the night of the fight.

MARKETS AND FINANCE---SALES AND LATEST QUOTATIONS

STEEL LEADS A LATE RALLY IN STOCK MARKET

Prices Show Firmness After an Early Break of One to Two Points; Money Firm.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 29.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:

"Reassurance over the money market prospects, which resulted from the decline in call loan rates yesterday, and their continuance at a comparatively easy level today, had no marked effect on the stock market. The recent uneasiness on the score of tight money was, in fact, only one of the influences under which business in stocks has been conducted.

"The better feeling in regard to money rather emphasized today, the uncertainties surrounding the policy of price fixing, to be applied to the country's basic industries, on account of our own Government's purchases, and perhaps even on account of the allies. If to these conditions is to be added a renewed labor agitation, such as is now cutting down output in the copper mines, the disturbing elements in the industrial situation may easily account for the hesitation of the stock market.

Russian Exchange Weak.

"Transactions were light in the foreign exchange market. To the extent that payments by our allies are effected through credits established here, rather than through the sale of drafts, it is natural that the volume of business in these exchanges should contract.

"The striking feature of today's market was the continued rapid movement against Petrograd, remittances to that center being quoted today at 22¾ cents to the ruble, a new low price, which compared with 23 cents yesterday, 23.6 cents a week ago, and parity, measured in our currency, of 51.2 cents.

"At today's price, the ruble was depreciated more than 5½ per cent, a figure which represents the effect of the recent political chaos in Russia, the present disorder of the currency of the country, and uncertainty as to what monetary measures will be taken in the future.

"An outyard movement of gold occurred, $6,700,000 being exported to Spain and $490,000 to Japan. The movement is interesting, following close upon our own import, in the past two weeks, of close to a hundred millions.

"Sales of the new 3½ per cent Government bonds took place on a considerably heavier scale than yesterday, at prices (for the full lots) ranging from par to a premium of three fiftieths. The new Baltimore & Ohio notes, issued at 98¾, sold at 99 on the curb market.

Liverpool Exchange Opens.

"The Liverpool Cotton Exchange reopened today, under a system of restricted business in futures and of maximum prices, which bore out the expectation that business, when it was resumed, would be conducted under a system of strict official regulation.

"The fact that the American cotton supply is so important an item in the Liverpool market's stock in trade raises the query how a condition of deadlock is to be avoided, unless the British prices are made reasonably to conform to those established in this country. As a matter of fact, it seems to be the intention to alter these prices from time to time, much as the official minimum prices on our own Stock Exchange were successively lowered in 1915, to avoid a condition of complete stagnation.

"What can be expected from the Liverpool regulation is the doing away with speculation and irresponsible competitive bidding. Whether the restrictions on the foreign market will contribute to a more orderly price movement here, or will eventually transfer to our exchanges the sort of business which has been banned abroad, it is as yet too early to predict."

DETAILED REPORT OF DAY'S TRADING IN WALL STREET

NEW YORK, June 29.—Selling of the active list was resumed at the beginning of trading today, speculative issues showing increased heaviness. Declines of 1 to 3 points were registered by Industrial Alcohol, Baldwin Locomotive, International Paper, Pittsburg Coal, Studebaker, Chandler and General Motors. The steel shares yielded only fractions with coppers, oils and rails. United States Steel almost immediately made up its slight setback and other industrials, including equipments, were inclined to greater firmness. In the main dealings were light and limited to the usual leaders.

Further liquidation occurred in the listless trading. The motors, Alcohol, Ohio Gas and inactive specialties continued to sag from sheer apathy. Chandler increased its loss to 9 points, and General Motors dropped 3⅝. Alcohol yielded 3¼, Pullman 2, Baldwin Locomotive 1⅜ and Beet Sugar and Wilson Company 1¼. United States Steel made a gross decline of 1⅝ to 128 and Bethlehem Steel lost 1¼.

Minor price changes marked trading in the local grain market in the early session today, despite the announcement that the next wheat crop will be marketed by the Government and that all speculation in futures will be prohibited.

Market sentiment on wheat was bearish, however, and the September option was offered at $1.80, or 2c lower than yesterday's close.

Reports on winter and spring wheat were favorable, and indications are that the coming Government estimate will show decided improvement for the crop. Primary receipts were moderate as compared with last year.

Corn futures were ⅝c to 1c lower, largely on professional selling based on good weather and fairly liberal receipts. Eastern buying was less active than recently and the cash market shows a tendency to shade off. Oats were quiet, with sentiment bearish. The market closed uncertain at the decline of about 1c.

The Modern Miller says: "Rains have visited the winter wheat belt, save in Western Kansas, where the crop was almost entirely lost, anyway. Special reports are of the crop having filled remarkably well, with heads big and the berry plump. The yield will exceed expectations. Threshing returns from Texas and Oklahoma show yields as varying, but grain excellent. Spring wheat conditions nearly perfect, with favorable weather. The only exception is in the two Northern tiers of counties in North Dakota, where the plant suffered from dry weather in June. The straw in that locality is short and the yield light."

Bradstreet's showed weekly exports of wheat, 8,894,648 bu; corn, 524,678 bu.

OIL Production Makes Thousands RICH

Why Not You?

Large fortunes and vast profits have been made from Oil in Oklahoma, Kansas, Pennsylvania and West Virginia, but the greatest fortunes from oil have been secured by those who had the foresight to "get in" on a new oil field when development first started and before the rush had forced prices "out of sight."

Kentucky is the "Mecca" to which oil operators and oil investors of America are now flocking. Kentucky, it is reported, is destined to become another Oklahoma, West Virginia or Pennsylvania. It may offer you the same opportunity offered fortunate rich oil operators and investors years ago in the older and more developed oil fields.

$1000 Grows to $3000

Millionaire oil men from every corner of America are investing thousands and possibly millions in oil development and oil properties in Kentucky. Nothing succeeds like success. Follow the successful man if you want to share his success and prosperity. Investments in oil in Kentucky have increased in a few months as much as 3000 per cent—think of it, $30 for $1 in a short time. Oil leases that could have been bought for $20 per acre six months ago are now offered at $200 per acre. $10 for $1 in six months.

You owe it to yourself to keep posted regarding "profits in oil" and developments in Kentucky, Wyoming, Oklahoma, Texas, Louisiana, etc. Send for a free sample copy of "Oilfield News" today. Any one issue of this paper may be the means of starting you on the road to prosperity. The current issue contains many interesting articles such as:

War Profits
Great Britain's Oil Supply
Millions of Dollars Involved in Kentucky Deal
Oil possibilities of newly discovered
"Paint Creek Dome" Kentucky
Oil and the War
How "Sleepy Jones," the barber, made $100,000 in oil
Sinclair Oil & Refining Company
Empire Gas & Fuel Company
Metropolitan Petroleum Company
Mid-West Refining
Barnett Oil & Gas.

Regardless of whether you have $10 or $10,000 it will pay you to send for your copy of this interesting oil journal today before the present issue has all gone. Only a limited number of copies left and they will be sent free of charge to first applicants in the order received. You wish to prosper, you want to make money—then why hesitate.

Don't put it off until tomorrow, because you may be too busy then or forget, but just exercise sufficient foresight and effort to send for your copy today. Knowledge is power, and information conveyed to you by "Oilfield News" might get you out of the "rut" and open up an entirely new life for you. Decide to act. Sit down now and write for your copy of "Oilfield News." Drop the post card or letter in the nearest mail box this very day.

Remember, it is free of charge—no cost to you—no obligation on your part.

COTTON SELLS HIGHER ON BAD CROP REPORT

NEW YORK, June 29.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 11 to 29 points today, on buying encouraged by continued dry weather in the Southwest and a private crop report making the condition 71.4 against 74.6 last month. October contracts sold at 26.65c and December at 26.75c on the call. Liverpool buying of July, October and January was a feature on the advance and was attributed to covering the short end of straddles in liquidation of open account.

There was a good deal of realizing, however, and after the first batch of buying orders had been supplied the market turned easier, with October working off to 26.35c and December to 26.50c before the end of the first hour.

HOUSE FURNISHINGS—For sale; at small prices and easy terms if you wish them. We know you can not get this bargain anywhere else; come in, look it over and see if this is true. Three rooms complete, consisting of large, roomy davenport, Chase leather or tapestry covering, one arm chair, one large rocker, on Brussels room rug, one library table, one Carola talking machine for the bedroom, 1 upright folding bed with mirror front (this gives you more room than an open bed), one dresser, large mirror, one bedroom chair, one bedroom rocker, one felt mattress, one 9x12 Crex rug, two pictures. For your kitchen—one double oven, 4-burner gas range, one refrigerator, one oak sideboard, one oak 6-ft. extension table, six high-back chairs, 15 yards linoleum and the entire cost is only $108. This advertisement differs from every other one you will find in these columns in that it specifies what you will get and does not say 3 rooms for so much money and then when you come to see it there is hardly enough for one room. At $2 per month we sell you a dining room table, six chairs and sideboard—a nice 3-piece parlor suite and library table—a brass bed, spring and felt mattress—a combination book case and desk chair and Morris chair—a living room set of three pieces, table and clock—bargains in single pieces—mahogany parlor cabinet, $6.50; square piano, $8; three-section book case worth $35, for $21; golden oak chifforobe, $24; five-piece parlor suite, oak, mahogany or walnut, as low as $11; large Turkish upholstered rocker, $12; iron davenports with felt pad, $9.50; 5-drawer oak chiffonier, $7.75; imitation leather couch, $8.20; mantel folding bed with woven wire spring, $5.50; office arm chairs, $2.85; mahogany cabinet talking machine, $34.50; extra large oak dresser, $32; double-door refrigerator, $18; four-burner gas range, $12 (this is just half price); blue enamel coal range with warming oven, $35; double door walnut wardrobe, $8; walnut book case and desk, $10.50; antique walnut parlor suite, 5 pieces, $18; double door early English china closet, $14; large massive sideboard, golden oak, French plate mirror, $22; everything for a home for less than the other fellow is our motto. TO PROPERTY OWNERS

As an owner of real estate you undoubtedly find it very perplexing at times to make up your mind in deciding the right action to take for the betterment of your interests relating to the handling of your property.
The question always arises:
First—To whom will I intrust my property? Second—Will I obtain quick and positive results?
Third—Most important of all—will I get an honest deal?
Fourth—Am I getting the proper rental returns from my property?
Fifth—Is my agent capable and proficient?
All these ? ? ? ? ? we answer as follows in a few brief words:
We are experts in realty appraisements, the handling of loans, repairs and alterations and the leasing of business buildings.
Our system of procuring tenants is up to the minute. We guarantee results.
If you have vacant or renting property upon which you have not been receiving sufficient revenue, communicate with us and we will be pleased to explain our plan to you without obligation upon your part whatsoever.
If you have old property which you wish to exchange for new, see us.
If you have vacant which you want to improve, we can arrange a building loan for you, and our charges will be less.
We have applications continually for business buildings.
If you have property to lease, list it with us—no charges for listing.
We can furnish at all times first-class deeds of trust bearing 6 per cent (6%) interest with guaranteed certificate of title and insurance papers.
Trusting we may be of some service to you at this time, we beg to remain. Yours for business,
REALTY LEASING COMPANY, Suite 419 Victoria Bldg.
P. S.—Keep this adv. on file for future reference.

The Post-Dispatch Daily Short Story

Twelve, Midnight

By Sam Hellman.

IT was one of those mucilaginous nights, you know the kind, when your clothes stick to you, you stick to the chair and you're stuck in town with no place to go and no energy to go there. The sun has long since gone home, taking its light along but leaving the heat behind.

Mary Andrews sat at a table in Heimburger's family garden idly twirling a glass of lemonade. A growling father, a limp, whining mother and a whimpering baby had been too much for her after a day's work downtown, so she had fled from home for the comparative solace and quiet at Heimburger's. The garden was crowded but Mary sat alone under a wilted palm.

"Cheer up, kid. It'll be a whole lot worse tomorrow. Care if I sit down?"

"Sure, sit down," invited Mary, "you can't make me feel any worse than I do. I don't know you but what's the diff. Misery loves company, and I know a lot of guys worse looking than you."

The young man laughed and sat down.

"What'll you have to drink, little one?"

"Not a thing," replied Mary. "I've got a date to finish this lemonade. Now listen, Clarence, it's an awful hot night and I don't feel like answering that bunch of questions you're getting ready to ask. My name is Mary Andrews, I am 20 years old, I work for a living, I am not married and don't want to be, I can't use a steady and I'm dated up until the day after war ends. I live around here with my folks and I know I'm a good looking kid or you wouldn't have sat down here. Whew! Can you think of anything I have forgotten that you were getting ready to ask?"

"That seems pretty complete," agreed the young man.

"All right then, Cyril, say you're little piece. I'm just dying with curiosity or maybe its the heat."

"All right, Mary, here goes. My name is Harry Mackey, I'm 30 years old, I'm not married and to date haven't cared to be. I haven't any steady and now that you've declared yourself I don't want any. I am an attractive looking young man or you wouldn't have let me sit down here. Does that cover it?"

"Not quite," demurred Mary, "what do you do for a living?"

"Me, I'm a burglar, a second-story man. Didn't you ever read in the papers about 'Pipe' Mackey?"

"Sure," replied Mary, "as President of the United States Steel Trust it is one of my duties to keep a line on burglars. What do you do for a living, sell ribbons or nurse an ice-cream fountain?"

"I'm a burglar, I tell you. I'm 'Pipe' Mackey."

"Oh, very well, have it your own way. Why the 'Pipe,' do you hit it?"

"Not exactly,' said Mackey. "I climb up stand pipes mostly in my second-story work. Understand?"

"Oh, sure. Why aren't you working tonight? There ought to be a lot of windows open."

"Oh, I thought I'd take a day off. It's been a pretty busy week. Besides I never do any work before midnight. I may turn a trick after that, though."

"All right, 'Pipe,' tell us a story. It's a good night for pipe dreams. Tell me about your narrow escapes. You may speak freely. I won't call the police. In the first place there ain't none around and in the second place it's two hot to call.

For an hour Mackey narrated stories of burglars, fights with the police, diamond robberies and other after-midnight adventures.

"My, you must have read a lot. You talk like a real burglar."

"I am," persisted Mackey.

"Oh, ferget it, kid. It's getting late. I guess I'll breeze along."

"All right," said Pipe, reaching for his hat, "I'll see you home."

Mary's flat was only a few blocks from the garden.

"Oh, heavens," gasped Mary at the door, "I forget to bring along a key and the old man will raise the devil. He was sore because I went out."

"Which flat do you live in," asked Mackey.

"Upstairs," replied Mary, "or I'd climb through the window."

"Leave it to me, kid. I'll get you in the house and there won't be anyone the wiser. Come on around the side."

Mary followed wonderingly.

"Cinch,' breathed Mackey. "See that pipe? I'll just climb up, get through the window and open the door for you. Like taking candy from a baby."

"Are you really a burglar?" gasped Mary.

"I told you I was. Here goes for my first trick before midnight."

"Wait," begged Mary, "that's the old man's room next to the pipe. He'll kill you."

"Come out of it," laughed Mackey. With the agility of a monkey he slid up the pipe and in a few seconds disappeared through the window.

Mary went to the front door. Her heart stood still and the booming of the clock striking 12 within sounded like artillery fire. The door opened and out stepped Mackey.

"Good night, kid. See you again some time."

"Not for a long time," came a voice from beside the stairs and a revolver flashed. "We've got you with the goods this time, 'Pipe.' "

A second man stepped from the darkness with a pair of handcuffs.

"Oh," gasped Mary, "he didn't do anything. He just went in to open the door for me."

"Huh," grunted one of the detectives. "Let's see. Frisk him, Pete."

From a side wallet a large wallet was taken.

"Pa's!" gasped Mary. "I thought"—

"Listen, kid," said Pipe, "I didn't mean to steal anything, but the clock struck 12 when I was in there and I just naturally had to go to work."

Mary laughed hysterically.

"That clock's half an hour fast."

More energy is put into opposition than into push.

The Sandman Story for To-night

BY MRS. F. A. WALKER

Tom and Kittury.

TOM and his sister, Kittury, were two kittens. Tom was black—all black; not even one white paw had he, while his sister was the daintiest white kitten you ever saw, and was always as clean and slick looking as a well-behaved kitten should be.

Tom was full of mischief, and, while his coat was black and did not show the dust and dirt, he really never was clean.

Tom liked to roll over and over on the ground in the catnip bed, and it made not the least difference to him if the ashes were emptied near it.

Sometimes he rolled in the coalbin just to feel the rough coal stretch his back. Sometimes he ran into the woods and chased the rabbits and squirrels until his coat was all ragged looking and bits of leaves and sticks clung to it.

Tom's mother, Tabby, was a neat cat and she tried in every way to make her son be tidy and slick; but Tom did not heed her; he wanted to look like a tramp cat and not all slick like Kittury.

"Oh! Tom, if only you would be nice and behave as your sister does," said his mother one day, "I should be proud of you: she never rolls in the dirt and she keeps her coat nice and white. I am ashamed of you; you look so rough and untidy."

Tom had always felt rather jealous of his sister because everyone praised her white coat, and when his mother said Kittury was nice and white, Tom thought it would be good fun to see her look dusty and grimy for once.

One morning Kittury sat on the front steps all slick and white when Tom came along. "Hello, Kit!" he said; "want to come with me and have some fun?"

"I'll go if it is clean where you are going. I do not want to get my coat soiled," answered Kittury.

"Oh! you don't have to get your white fur even spotted," answered Tom. "All you have to do is to watch me."

"I will go along with you then" said the unsuspecting Kittury.

Tom led her to the catnip bed where he had seen a man that morning emptying ashes and coal dust and began to roll over and over.

"How can you roll in that dirty place?" asked Kittury, looking at him with disgust.

'Come close and take a sniff," said Tom, who knew that his sister had never smelled catnip, and that if she could get one tiny sniff she was lost

Very carefully Kittury picked her way to the bed and poked her nose close to the fatal blossom.

She sniffed at once and stepped a little closer to get a better smell, then she stepped closer still and poked her head deep into the bed. The next minute Kittury had forgotten all about her fine white coat and plunged right into the middle of the bed.

Tom stopped rolling long enough to see his sister roll into the black dust and then he ran for home.

"Oh, mother, mother, come and see Kit!" he cried. "She is in the catnip bed and her coat is all black."

Tabby ran after Tom as fast as she could, and sure enough there was her dainty white Kittury rolling over and over in all the dust and dirt, her white coat so dingy that it looked like gray fur.

A cry from Tabby brought Kittury out of the bed looking very much ashamed, but all she would say when her mother scolded was that it was fun and that she liked catnip.

Tabby took her home and gave her a good scrubbing and made her sit in the sun to dry, but Kittury was no longer to be the pride of her mother, and the very next time she found a chance to run away she ran to the catnip bed and rolled.

"I thought that would end her tidy habits," said Tom; "no cat can resist a fine bed of catnip even if it is near an ash heap. I guess mother will not tell me any more about how fine and white Kit's coat is. She looks like a gray cat most of the time now."

Tabby tried for a while to keep Kittury tidy and neat, but after a time she gave it up and let her roll all she wished.

One day a man came and dug up all the catnip and began to build a house, and Tabby was glad, and Tom, who was getting older and tired of running about, began to take better care of his coat.

Kittury, when she found the catnip bed gone, began to clean her coat again, and before long Tabby had two slick looking children who sat beside her every day in the sun on the front steps, and she was happy.

His Bed Break.

"IT seems strange," remarked the young lady to her partner at the dance, "that you can't remember my cousin's face, and yet you can remember her name."

"Well," was the awkward reply of the young man, "your cousin had a very attractive name."

Qualified to Judge.

A MAN of sixty who had been a grumbler all his life and had long made a practice of changing doctors on the slightest provocation not long ago called in a young physician who had gained a considerable reputation. He was telling the doctor what he thought was the trouble with him, when the doctor ventured to disagree with the diagnosis.

"I beg your pardon," said the patient in a haughty way, "it isn't for a young doctor like you to disagree with an experienced invalid like me."

And he sought another physician.

Couldn't Explain.

THE Sunday School teacher was explaining to the children how Sunday came to be instituted.

"The Lord worked for six days," she said, "and rested on the seventh day. Therefore the Lord blessed the seventh day and hallowed it. Now has any child a question to ask?"

Willie put up his hand.

"Willie wishes to ask a question. What is it, Willie?"

"Why did th' Lord pick such a dead day as Sunday for a holiday?" asked Willie.

The teacher couldn't explain.

His Needs.

"MY brother bought a motor here last week," said an angry man to the salesman that stepped up to greet him, "and he said if anything broke you would supply him with new parts."

"Certainly," said the salesman. "What does he want?"

"He wants two deltoid muscles, a couple of knee caps, one elbow and about half a yard of cuticle," said the man, "and he wants them at once."

Sang the Same Thing.

"SO Mrs. Flatte sang at the entertainment last night?

"Oh, yes, she sang."

"Did she sing anything new?"

"No, she sang the same old thing."

"What was that?"

"Oh, soprano."

Worse and Worse.

MRS. PENMAN: Why do you look so sad, dear?

Mr. Penman: The editor has rejected my story and sent it back.

I'm sorry, dear.

Yes, it's really too bad.

Is that the reason he gave for rejecting it, dear?

Traces of a Garden.

MRS. UNIVERSITY CITY: Has your husband anything to show for his garden yet?"

Mrs. Wellston: "Has he? You ought to see the evidence of it on our carpets."

Use of Dates.

MRS. HAM: Here's a recipe in the paper which says a few chopped dates adds flavor to the apple sauce.

Mr. Ham: A use at last for old calendars, then has been found.
